259 Votes Cast at Noon In Sikeston Election

A noon vote tally surpassed the total number of ballots cast during the last special election.

Today's figure from all of the polling places was 259 votes. The April 1 special election to elect two councilmen and annex 450 acres of land had 202 ballots cast at noon.

The election is on proposals to grant a cable television franchise and annex 500 acres of land.

The franchise would grant See Mor Cable Television Inc. a 20-year lease. No one would be required to take the service.

The annexation would bring 500 acres into the city near the intersections of interstates 57 and 55.

Polls close at 7 p.m.

The balloting places and number of noon votes were police station, 37; Ethridge Tire, 14; Davis Chevrolet, 43; Lincoln School, 58; Sikeston Motor Company, 13; Lewis Furniture, 21, Armory, 48, and Imperial Bowling Lanes, 25.

Last Kansas Death Row Cell Empty

LANSING, Kan. (AP) - Death row is quiet today at the Kansas State Penitentiary for the first time since anyone now here can recall. All of the 6-by-10-foot death row cells are empty.

A prison spokesman said it is the first time since 1944, when the first hanging took place after the death penalty was reestablished in Kansas.

William Frederick Zimmer, who had spent nearly four years in isolation in the south wing of the maximum security building here, was the last occupant of a death row cell.

Zimmer was received in 1965 under sentence of death in the kidnap-slaying of a 7-year-old Topeka girl. Last week a Shawnee county district judge set aside his death sentence. The judge said prospective jurors in the Zimmer trial had been excluded if they had scruples against capital punishment. He cited a U. S. Supreme Court decision that such exclusion was unconstitutional.

Nineteen executions in all were carried out on the Lansing gallows since March 10, 1944. There were three executions that year. Since then there were two in 1947; one each in 1950, 1951 and 1952; three in 1954; three in 1955; one in 1962 and four in 1965.

Four of those hanged were military prisoners executed by the state under an agreement with the Army. The last hangings there were in June 22, 1965, when James D. Latham and George R. York, were executed for the murder of a Kansas railroad worker.

The maximum security building isn't empty, however, since it also houses men who are held in isolation or require segregation from the rest of the inmate population.

End to B52 Raids May Be Offered for De-Escalation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is prepared to negotiate an end to B52 raids in South Vietnam in return for enemy steps to de-escalate the war, U.S. officials report.

The eight-engine, high-flying bombers are the most dreaded and least costly of American weapons being used in the war, officlas say, and some believe the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong might be willing to pay a price to get the attacks stopped.

President Nixon suspended B52 raids for 36 hours last week at the end of a cease-fire called by the enemy to memorialize the late President Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam.

White House sources said this week a major reason for the suspension was to make clear to the new leadership in Hanoi that everything in the war is negotiable except the right of self-determination for the South Vietnamese people.

The primary cause of the suspension was military. Nixon felt that if the enemy intended to prolong the cease-fire indefinitely he wanted to encourage them rather than take the initiative with new bombing raids which could quickly wreck any such attempt at de-escalation.

But Nixon's hopes, however slender, were quickly blasted as enemy troops resumed operations when the cease-fire ended.

Last week officials here denied any signal had been directed toward the enemy for which the U.S. expected a response. Tuesday, however, in explaining President Nixon's latest troop withdrawal decision, White House sources said the B52 suspension definitely was a signal, one to which the new leadership in Hanoi might be slow in reacting.

President Nixon has indicated for months that if he could not negotiate a mutual withdrawal of troops and a peace settlement wanted to de-escalate the war as much as possible by action not requiring agreement with the enemy.

At present, only his troop withdrawal program seems to offer any immediate hope for progressively extricating the U.S. from the war, but the possibility of working out a de-escalation arrangement actively interests Washington policy makers. Such an arrangement could be negotiated or might be arrived at by parallel actions.

White House and State Department sources report the Paris peace talks are totally deadlocked. While there is some speculation the post-Ho Chi Minh regime in Hanoi might be more peacefully inclined, top policy makers here are deeply skeptical.

"We have to realize that the dead hand of their departed leader is likely to paralyze their policy for quite some time, one official said.

East Prairie Man Dies in Wyoming

RAWLINS, Wyo. (AP) — A truck pulling a load of bombs went off a freeway embankment west of Rawlins early today, killing a Missouri drive who was sleeping in a compartment behind the cab.

There was no explosion. but the highway patrol closed a secondary road that crosses under the freeway near the accident.

Dead is Donald R. Husk, 33, of East Prairie, Mo.

The driver and a third man, William W. Brady, 28, of Waco, Texas and Wayne L. Stallings, 26, of Charleston, Mo., are in critical condition at the Rawlins hospital.

The patrol said the accident occurred at 2:20 a.m. when the driver apparently fell asleep. The truck and its trailer tumbled off Interstate 80 five miles west of Rawlins and went down an embankment.

The jolt dislodged the load of bombs on the trailer and they shifted forward, sheering off the sleeping compartment and the cab.

An ordnance team from Ft. Carson, Colo, was being flown by helicopter to Rawlins to gather up the bombs which reportedly were scattered over a large area.

Both Stallings and Brady suffered a broken back, and multiple cuts and bruises.

Fall Festival Parade In Dexter Tonight

BY E. J. MAYS
State Editor

DEXTER - Pomp and beauty will prevail at 6 p.m. tonight as the annual Stoddard County Fall Festival parade travels a two-mile parade trek, ending at the fair grounds, with bands, swinging majorettes, beauty queens and unusual floats participating.

Prizes of $50, $25 and $15 will be awarded the first through third place float winners in school and general entry classes.

The 1969 Miss Stoddard County and Little Miss Stoddard County, will lead the parade.

Star City and Mingo 4-H clubbers dominated the fair's second pig scramble as Mickey Huey and Charles Smith and Mike Jones and Tommy Schuerenberg of Mingo latched onto prize gilts while David Gasser of Puxico recorded the catch of the fifth available pig. Steve Kenna of Mingo and Mike Smith failed to score after losing grips on the oil slicked swine.

The winning 4-Hers, like the winning FFA quintet of Tuesday night, promise, if possible to give a gilt each for next year's pig scramble, which is sponsored by the Farm Bureau. This is the 15th year the scramble has been held.

Darrell Schurenberg and Donald Kenna of Mingo and Stacy Hyden of Puxico, a trio of 1968 winners, donated gilts used last night and Farm Bureau members Sam Huey and Bob Mayer each contributed a gilt to the scramble.

A shetland pony show at the arena and a pony pulling contest are slated for 7:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. respectively Thursday night, following completion of the parade.

A 6 p.m. Thursday deadline will be observed for the entry of all livestock entries.

Kidney Patient Admits Stealing to Ease Pain

KENNETT - Dunklin County Sheriff Raymond Scott announced today he has obtained a full confession from a Kennett man for the burglaries of the Doctors Dunmire-Cash and Meltenberger-Legan Clinics.

Sheriff Scott said last night he obtained a confession from Vernise Howe, 21, of Kennett. Howe told the sheriff that he had committee both burglaries on September 4, because he was in severe pain, and he needed the pain-killing medicine he stole. Taken in the burglaries were several vials of Talwin, a pain-killing drug.

Howe told Sheriff Scott he couldn't get any more shots from the doctor, and he had broken into the clinics and took the Talwin. Nothing else was disturbed at either clinic. Howe said in his confession that with the Talwin, he could give himself the shots he needed.

Sheriff Scott said today that Howe's pain was obviously so great, that he broke into the buildings and took the medicine. "He said he knew exactly where the drug was kept in the clinics," Scott said.

Howe, who received area attention when his plight was learned on his kidney condition, has to undergo twice a week a seven-hour blood process. Sheriff Scott said a special kidney machine pumps all the blood from his body and purifies it. The process takes seven hours, and must be undergone twice a week for survival.

Scott said today Howe was not admitted to jail and no charges have been filed.

Improved Air Service Promised

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Ozark Air Lines promised dissatisfied Cape Girardeau, Mo., residents Wednesday something will be done about providing service for passengers who have been unable to board Ozark planes for lack of space.

Grant Rees, Ozark's president of airport operations, said a turn around flight from St. Louis to Cape Girardeau will be initiated next month to take care of passengers not now being accommodated.

Rees, in response to complaints that there are not enough personnel to handle the Ozark ticket counter at Cape Girardeau, said extra telephones will be added.

Debbie Quits New TV Show

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Debbie Reynolds quit her first television series almost before it began, objecting to the presentation of a cigarette commercial during its premiere.

"I will not be a party to such commercials," she told the National Broadcasting Co. Wednesday.

"We're rather mystified," said NBC-TV Vice President Mort Werner. A network spokesman said "Miss Reynolds' own people" had known about the commercial since March.

The actress said she discovered it Tuesday night, the first commercial in the premiere of her "Debbie Reynolds Show," and, "I was shocked." At noon Wednesday she quit.

"I consider cigarette commercials directly opposed to health and well being," she said. "This gesture is a complete breach of my understanding and agreement with NBC."

But the 36-year-old actress said she'd finish a shooting schedule today, leaving the network 10 complete shows of 25 scheduled. The NBC spokesman said the 10 probably would be aired.

Dinis Wins New Hearing On Autopsy

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) - Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis was granted a new hearing today on his petition for an autopsy on the body of Mary Jo Kopechne after he filed an amended version that said a certain amount of blood was present in the mouth and nose of the dead girl.

Judge Bernard C. Brominski of Luzerne County Common pleas court set Sept. 29 at 10 a.m. for the hearing requested by the New Bedford, Mass. prosecutor.

Miss Kopechne, a Washington, D. C., secretary, was found dead July 19 in Sen. Kennedy's car which had gone off a bridge into a pond on Chappaquiddick Island off the Massachusetts coast.

An inquest into her death was postponed earlier this month.

Dinis' disclosures were contained in a four-page letter sent to the Luzurne County, Pa., Court of Common Please, where a judge demanded more evidence from Dinis before granting permission for a hearing to determine if an autopsy was necessary.

"There appear on the white shirt worn by Mary Jo Kopechne 'washed out' reddish brown and brown stains on the backs of both sleeves, the back and collar; that these stains give positive benzidine reaction, and indication of the presence of residual traces of blood; that said residue is of insufficient amount to make further tests as to specific origin or type," said the letter released by Dinis' assistant, Armand Fernandez.

"Investigation has revealed there was present a certain amount of blood in both Mary Jo Kopechne's mouth and nose, which may or may hot have been consistent with death by drowning."

The letter said these facts were not available to Dinis until after the girl was buried in Larksville, Pa.

Cairo Report Says Nasser Ill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Gamal Abdel Nasser is reported out of action indefinitely due to illness, but it isn't clear who's running Egypt.

The semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahram reported today that the 51-year-old president came down with an "acute influenza infection" following the Arab summit meeting in Cairo two weeks ago and is now under the care of three doctors.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — President Nixon, making his first appearance before a global forum, urgently appealed to all members of the United Nations today to "take an active hand" in promoting a Vietnam peace.

In an address for the U.N. General Assembly, and for live television-radio broadcast, Nixon held Hanoi wholly responsible for the long stalemate in Paris negotiations.

The President urged all 126 member countries of the United Nations to "use your best diplomatic efforts" to break down what he pictured as the intransigence of Hanoi.

Springing no surpises in his first speech to the world organization, Nixon again went on record as favoring sober and serious negotiations with the Soviet Union on the Middle East, arms race curbs and other topics.

And, he said, "Whenever the leaders of Communist China choose to abandon their self-imposed isolation, we are ready to talk with them in the same frank and serious spirit."

Looking toward broad international cooperation in areas ranging from population control and space exploration to a counterattack against aircraft hijackings, Nixon asserted:

" ... Let us press toward an open world—a world of open doors, open hearts, open minds —a world open to the exchange of ideas and of people, and open to the reach of the human spirit —a world open in its search for truth, and unconcerned with the fate of old dogmas and isms—a world open at last to the light of justice, and reason, and to the achievement of that true peace which the people of every land carry in their hearts and celebrate in their hopes."

The President, accompanied by Mrs. Nixon, was making a quick roundtrip to New York from the capital, but staying long enough to meet privately during the afternoon with a number of visiting foreign ministers, and to entertain U.N. diplomats at an evening reception.

No formal conference with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei N. Gromyko was scheduled.

In discussing Vietnam, Nixon once again said "our one limited but fundamental objective" there is to ensure South Vietnam's right of self-determination without outside interference. On that point, the United States will not compromise, he stated. As for lack of progress in Paris, he said:

"The missing ingredient so far has been the willingness of the other side to talk on any terms other than those that would predetermine the result and deny the right of self-determination to the people of South Vietnam."

Once the other side is genuinely willing to reach agreement, he said, "The practical solutions can readily be found."

Then he voiced his appeal:

"This makes it urgent that the U.N. members who have long taken an active interest in peace in Vietnam now take an active hand in achieving it...

"In the name of peace, I urge all of you here—representing 126 nations—to use your best diplomatic efforts to persuade Hanoi to move seriously into the negotiations which could end this war."

The Soviet Union was taken to task by Nixon, for not yet agreeing to negotiations on limitation of strategic arms.

"The date we proposed for the opening of talks has passed for lack of response," he said. "We remain ready ..." The United States had suggested an early August beginning.

Picturing the arms race as becoming a more serious problem with the passage of time, Nixon conceded complex issues are involved. But he said:"We are prepared to deal with them seriously, concretely and purposefully—and to make a determined effort not only to limit the buildup of strategic arms, but to reverse it."

As for the strife-ridden Middle East, on which the United States and Russia today renew already extensive consultations, Nixon said recent violence there "points up anew the urgency of a stable peace."

Blackwell Absent as Hearnes' Tax Bill Passes

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - The Missouri Senate passed Gov. Warren E. Hearnes: $112.7 million income tax bill today after a long argument.

The vote sending the bill to the house for action next week was 21-11. Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, its chief opponent, was absent when the final vote came.

The bill was advanced to position for passage Wednesday on a 21-11 vote, three more than the 18 needed to pass it. Once past the Senate it goes to the House for consideration there next week.

The key vote in the long tax battle came Wednesday when the Senate defeated a final attempt by Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, to cut out any personal income tax increase. His substitute was downed 7-26.

Then a plan offered by Sen. Richard M. Webster, R-Carthage, as a compromise was defeated 28-5. It would have yielded an estimated $141 million in 18 months by reducing the individual tax hike.

He called it an effort "to meet a spendthrift administration half way" and charged the governor's bill actually would raise $176 million, or $65 million more than the governor says is needed to finance the 1970-71 budget.

A battle also developed over the so-called tax simplification features of the administrations bill. Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R Clayton, said they really would make things more complicated and would not align Missouri's tax procedure with the federal law as promised.

The Senate rejected several Jones amendments to this part of the bill but adopted one. It would let a taxpayer take a tax credit on any city earnings tax he pays over 1 per cent. Jones said it would help the cities in the future.

St. Louis now levies a 1 per cent earnings tax and Kansas City 1/4 of 1 per cent.

Efforts to raise the exemption for each dependent from $400 to either $600 or $700 were defeated on grounds that would cut too deeply into the state's revenue.

If the bill gets through both houses, Blackwell, who has fought any individual tax increase ever since last January, said he would start circulating petitions to have the law defeated by a referendum vote in the 1970 general election.

Efforts to tack a referendum provision on the bill also are expected in the House next week.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
DEFANGING THE PANTHERS

It's probably too much to hope that the arrest of the national chairman of the radical Black Panther party, Bobby Seale, would end the eign of terror of that group once and for all.

Phillip Abbott Luce, a former leader of the so-called New Left, gives credit to Stokeley Carmichael and SNCC for the birth of the Panthers. This may or may not be true, but the place or origin is of little consequence now. They exist and they grow more dangerous with each passing day.

A former leader of the Panthers, Huey Newton, is already in a California prison for killing an Oakland policeman. We hope that Bobby Seale will join him there. They deserve one another.

Ironically, Seale's arrest was for the murder of another Panther in New Haven, Connecticut. The murdered man was a New York Panther. He was found mutilated and burned in a small stream last May. Police believe that he was tried in a Panther kangaroo court on charges of disloyalty to the party. This should be evidence to everyone as to just how vicious this pack of animals can be. They operate on the theory that fear is a weapon for use against black and white. They terrorize ghetto-dwellers into submission in much the same manner as the Mafia. They pretend to be concerned for the plight of the Negro, but they plunder without regard for race, creed or color.

It is time for an all-out drive against the Black Panthers. We agree with those who say that people cannot be made to like each other just by passing a law. But we can stop bigotry. Organized terror and murder must be stopped before it stops us. Whether that hate comes from organized groups like the Mafia, or organized revolutionaries like the Panthers, is of no importance.

We hope that investigation of these factions and their followers will be pressed by Attorney General John Mitchell and the Nixon administration.

SEPTEMBER IS FAMILY FITNESS MONTH

Don't sit there! Exercise!

That's the word from the Family Fitness Council which is sponsoring National Family Fitness Month in September.

Objective of the month-long event is to crystallize attention on the urgent need for daily exercise for figure control and health.

"There is no substitute for daily exercise in developing a supple energetic body," states Herbert C. Johnson, Jr., President of the Council.

"The development of equipment for home use is a psychological inducement to use it regularly, unaffected by weather and with a cloak of privacy," Johnson points out.

GO HOME, BUCKY

A century-and-a-half ago George Noel Gordon - Lord Byron - wrote the famous words: "Tis strange, but true; for truth is always strange, - Stranger than fiction."

Over two years ago, Bucky Still of Smyrna, Delaware, disappeared from his parents' home. He was nineteen years old and his parents had left him at home while they and another son vacationed in Florida. The brother returned home before the parents and found the house a shambles from a party that Bucky had held in their absence. Bucky, possibly fearing the wrath of his parents, took off and hasn't been heard from since.

Bucky would now be twenty one and no longer a minor. His parents have no legal hold on him. He is legally an adult. Mrs. Still is worried about his draft status. He is, according to the State News, being sought by the FBI because of his failure to report a change of address to the draft board. But his mother is more concerned about his doing what is right.

She said: "If he wanted to leave home at 19, I have nothing against it. But I'm not proud that he doesn't want to fulfill his obligation to his country.

"If I did know where he was, I would tell the draft board. I don't believe my child is better than anyone else's.

"There are so many stories where parents turn their children in. People don't realize that it takes more courage to do the right thing.

"It's a mother's instinct to protect her children, but you can't coddle them and expect them to have principles."

We feel that if Bucky is half the person his mother is, he'll go home. He left as a child; he now has the opportunity to return as a man.

So why should Washington worry about knocking North Viet Nam out of existence, that will make them talk peace and our begging them to come to peace table will avail us nothing.

HIGH COST OF COLLEGE

An emergency bill aimed at making bank loans available to college students, already passed by the Senate, is scheduled to come before the House under suspension of the rules on Monday (Sept. 15).

College students, already preoccupied by the Viet Nam war, the draft and campus protests, have something else to worry about as the 1969-70 academic year approaches. Tuition and other fees have risen steeply since September 1968. More to the point, so have interest rates. The result is that students dependent on commercial lending institutions to finance their educations are in serious trouble.

The Higher Education Act of 1965 allowed the government to pay lending institutions the interest due on loans to college students until the recipients took over repayment after graduation. Maximum interest could not exceed 6 per cent a year on the unpaid principal. A 1968 amendment extended the program through 1971 and raised the maximum interest level to 7 per cent.

In the year since the higher rate was adopted, according to the U.S. Office of Education, around 730,000 students received approximately $670 million in loans under the federally guaranteed lending program. The trouble is that the prime interest rate (the rate banks charge their preferred customers) now stands at 8½ per cent. Consequently, it is estimated that 200,000 of the 900,000 students who applied for government - guaranteed loans for this college year have been unable to find a lender.

HEW Secretary Robert H. Finch appealed to commercial lenders late last month to make loans to students despite the tight money situation. For many students, Finch said, the availability of loans represented the "literal difference" between continuing their education or terminating it prematurely. All indications are that banks have responded favorably to Finch's plea.

The banks have acted in the expectation that Congress will further raise the interest limit on student loans. A bill that passed the Senate on Aug. 12 would add a 3 per cent "incentive allowance" to the 7 per cent ceiling on loans under the federally guaranteed program.

Several attempts to bring a bill to the floor of the House without a rule from the Rules Committee have ended in failure. Such a procedure ordinarily requires unanimous consent, and this has not been forthcoming. But passage will be possible under suspension of the rules on Monday, Sept. 15. A bill considered on a day when House rules are suspended requires a two - thirds vote for approval. No amendments from the floor are permitted.

Any loans granted this year would be for larger amounts than those extended in 1968. A recent survey by U.S. News & World Report found that four out of every five colleges and universities have raised their charges to students for the coming academic year. "A hike of $440 a year in fees for out- of- state students at Indiana University is typical of what is happening at many schools."

Such increases are burdensome not only on students eligible for loans but also on parents deemed capable by colleges and lending institutions of paying their children's education costs. The minimum annual cost of supporting a student at most Ivy League colleges is estimated at $4,000. That figure is bound to rise. Princeton and Yale both are admitting female undergraduates this autumn in a crash coeducation program. The girls no doubt will create a need for additional facilities, the cost of which probably will be passed on to them and to their male co-students in the form of higher fees in future years.

NEW YORK (AP) — "Life is constant change," said Keir Dullea, "and this is a good thing because it means there is hope.

"But half the evils of the world can be traced to the fact that people fight or are afraid of change."

It was the desire for change and adventure that led the handsome young film star, after a year at Rutgers University, to hitchhike to the West Coast, a 20-day, hardship-filled trek which he feels helped mature him considerably.

While working as an assistant carpenter to pay his way through San Francisco State College, he fell in with a group of young actors and decided on a stage career himself.

Returning here, he studied drama for two years, supported by his parents, who operate a Greenwich Village bookshop, before landing a series of stage and television roles.

Dullea—it is prounced "Doolay"—is profoundly grateful for the financial help and understanding given him by his parents.

"They realized that the stage is a highly competitive business and the chances of success in it are small," he said. "But they didn't object to my trying it. They thought it was important that I do whatever I wanted to do and enjoyed.

"So many people who don't do this, even if they are successful, end up unhappy."

An agent spotted Keir in a soap opera and suggested him for the role of the killer in "The Hoodlum Priest." Since then he has starred in a number of films, including "David and Lisa," "Madame X," "Bunny Lake Is Missing," "2001: A Space Odyssey," and "The Fox."

Currently he plays the title role in "De Sade," and is rehearsing in "Butterflies Are Free," a Broadway comedy drama which opens next month.

Keir is intensely serious about his profession and feels it satisfies a psychological need in his makeup.

"Being an actor fulfills my personal desire for change," he remarked. "But you also have to have certain consistencies in life.

"Acting fulfills the need for both change and consistency. Every role is a change, a new set of circumstances, but the field of acting itself is a consistent line of endeavor."

Keir and his wife, Susan Lessans, a former fashion director, live quietly in a small Greenwich Village apartment. It has a patio where the actor enjoys raising flowers.

A JUST SOCIETY

Canada's Prime Minister, Pierre Elliott Trudeau, has been in office half-a-year. He calls his administration the "Just Society." That may have more appeal than the "Great Society," but it is surely more demanding. He gave a long interview to the New York Times on November 27, and allowed that it "takes a hell-of-a lot of time to be a Prime Minister . . ."

Then it is revealed that he slipped away from the burdens of his office for an "unnoticed" weekend in New York City. And what do you suppose the Prime Minister did in Fun City? It's reported that he lunched with Secretary General U Thant, saw a Japanese movie (unidentified), went to a discotheque, and to see the Broadway rock musical "Hair."

The order of events is not specified; if there was entertainment at the U Thant luncheon, we will never be told; as for the Japanese movie, the only ones we can identify are "adults only" tupes which might titillate a terribly tired bachelor; the discotheque isn't named either, but Mayor Lindsy sanctions those topless go-go dancer types these days and we can only guess about Pierre's choice. But his selection of "Hair" among all the Broadway attractions is specific. That's the charmer in which the members of the cast, male and female, do a curtain - call together in the altogether. Stark naked. Even if you're a Prime Minister, if you travel all the way Ottawa for a lost weekend, you absorb all the culture you can.

Revealing as it may be, the Prime Minister's recreation is as nothing compared with the full-page interview. One quote will set the tone: . . . "because of Czechoslovakia we have evidence that the Soviet Union is weaker now than it was before; it can no longer count on Czechoslovakia as a solid ally in a military conflict."

And: ". . . I think the time has been right for a great many years to recognize the Peking Government . . . It is a country with which we should establish diplomatic relations . . ."

There are columns of such drivel to wade through: Pierre sees foreign investments as a major problem, capitalism and colonialism; thinks that detente with the USSR must govern Canadian foreign policy in NATO; insists that he is not an economic nationalist, seeks to enlist mass public involvement in the affairs of his country - our neighbor.

Pierre absorbed a great deal on his trips to Moscow and Peking.

DEFECTION TO THE WEST

During the last week of July, Anatoly Kuznetsov, regarded by many literary critics as the greatest living Russian writer, flew to London. While there, he escaped from the secret service agent guarding him and defected to the West. He was granted asylum by the government of Great Britain.

Kuznetsov had been very popular in Russia. His books had sold millions of copies, making him a wealthy man there. He also loved the country of Russia itself. Yet he chose to abandon all of this and seek refuge in the Western world.

He made this critical decision because of, in his own words, "the loss of hope." Kuznetsov explained further: "I have arrived at the complete rejection of Marxism-Leninism. I consider today that this doctrine is utterly obsolete...and threatens to go on leading to frightful social tragedies."

For those intellectuals and artists in the West who praise life in the Soviet Union, Kuznetsov's words on his writing career are significant: "Not a single one of my works has been printed in the Soviet Union as I wrote it."

Kuznetsov kept his decision to escape to himself, and confided his plans to no one. The reason he planned alone, he explained, was that "conditions of life in the Soviet Union, where everybody is obliged to spy on everybody else and where hypocrisy prevails, do not allow anyone to take the risk of entrusting a single person with such a secret."

Kuznetsov's words and actions provide further proof of the vast difference between life in the free world and life under the tyranny of communism. HLH

Washington - Merry Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--The purchasers of brand-name drugs are helping, at least indirectly, to finance happy outings and valuable gifts for the doctors who write their prescriptions.

The big drug companies spend millions each year to proselyte and persuade doctors to prescribe drugs by their brand names. The cost is merely added to the price of brand-name drugs, which sell for as high as 10 times more than the same drugs cost under their generic names.

The doctors who accept the lavish hospitality of the drug companies, quite naturally, feel an obligation to prescribe brand-name drugs for their patients. In this way, the sick and the suffering wind up providing the money that the drug manufacturers squander on doctors.

By the conservative estimate of one insider, the pharmaceutical houses spend an average of $3,000 a year on every MD in the country. The pay-offs take the form of contest winnings, research fees, gift medical equipment and all-expenses- paid vacations.

Once the Upjohn Company sent out $5 checks to doctors across the country as an inducement for them to try Upjohn pills and powders. Other manufacturers have paid doctors to write "case reports" on their drugs.

The Eli Lilly Company likes to hand out free medical satchels to new doctors just out of medical school. Every time they open their black bags, presumably, they will be reminded to prescribe Eli Lilly medicines.

The competition to show the doctors a good time is so intense that the pharmaceutical houses have entered into a Gentlemen's Agreement not to provide free transportation for doctors beyond a 150-mile radius of the manufacturer's facilities.

--MEDICAL SPREE--

Charles Pfizer and Company, for instance, has invited a number of Philadelphia doctors and their wives to Groton, Conn., for a two-day Autumn holiday on October 8 and 9.

The letter of invitation promises lyrically: "The program envisioned would include a visit to Mystic Seaport, where sailing ships, whalers, and crafthouses of the Mid-Nineteenth Century can be visited; a steak or lobster dinner at one of Southern New England's better restaurants; possibly dancing on the evening of October 8; and, of course, a scientific inspection visit to the Pfizer Medical Research Laboratories."

Lest the doctors be wary of a sales pitch, the letter assures them: "It should be emphasized that there will be no product mention--even subliminally by packaging operations--throughout your entire visit with us."

Unhappily, however, Philadelphia is more than 150 miles from Groton's Mystic Seaport and Pfizer Pill emporium.

"Because of a Gentlemen's Agreement between other pharmaceutical companies who are competing with us for your attentions," the letter explains delicately, "we areunable to provide free transportation for guests beyond a 150-mile radius of our facilities.

"Groton is about twice that. Therefore, to satisfy this agreement, we will charge $5 per couple for transportation beyond the 150-mile limit...meals, lodging and all but (this) token expenditure for transportation will be provided for you."

NOTE: Earlier this month, the drug companies demonstrated how far they will go to discourage doctors from prescribing drugs by generic names. Dr. John Adriani, a prominent Louisiana physician, was asked to head the food and drug administration's Bureau of Medicine. In congressional testimony last May, however, he had urged the use of generic rather than brand names in prescribing drugs for the public.

Although the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association denied any intervention, several individual drug tycoons got busy behind the scenes, with the result that the Adriani appointment was scrapped. The Nixon administration didn't want to antagonize the powerful drug lobby.

--GI GRIPES--

The armed forces don't like servicemen to take their gripes to Capitol Hill, so in many little ways, the brass hats try to discourage enlisted men from writing to their congressmen.

Any GI who is caught making a congressional squawk, for instance, can expect to encounter the little unpleasantries that lieutenants are so capable of arranging. RESULT: The word gets around that it isn't smart to write to Congress.

At least one army center, however, has spelled out in writing its attitude toward congressional letters. In a memo to all personnel, the Continental Army Command Intelligence Center at Ft. Bragg, N.C., has declared peevishly:

"Your personnel section has been slightly offended here lately. It seems that some of our customers have written to their elected Representatives in Congress when the help and information was available here for them....

"A Congressional inquiry does not influence a Commander's decision. A Commander is carged with certain responsibilities and must act accordingly. The only effect a congressional letter has on the administrative process is to disrupt normal processing and delay other actions pertaining to your buddies."

The letter was signed by Chief Warrant Officer Alfred Leonardo Jr. but was approved by his Commanding Officer, Col. Charles A. Morris.

--TAX TROUBLES--

Treasury aides are busily lobbying in the Senate to modify the tax reforms passed by the house. Yet more, not less reforms are needed to correct the inequities in our tax system.

During the last fiscal year, for example, the Treasury lost a staggering $15 billion through tax loopholes. These figures were supplied by the same treasury aides who are now seeking to reopen some of the loopholes the House tried to close.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

ODD COUPLE:

Arthur Goldberg On Mission For Richard Nixon

New York: -- Soft-spoken, itinerant Arthur J. Goldberg is a man for all seasons and for many reasons. He is also a man of many hats -- virtually all of which are in many rings, political, diplomatic and judicial

At the moment the former UN Ambassador, who has been lining up his forces for a race next year for the seat of his late friend and ally, Sen. Robert Kennedy, is on a sensitive assignment for President Nixon's State Dept.

This rapprochement between the former Associate Justice of the high court with the Republican administration could be significant. It could mean nothing. But former Secretary of Labor Goldberg rarely takes on insignificant missions.

This assignment is part of the determined White House efforts to close the generation and ideological gap between the Soviet Union and the union of unions, the AFL-CIO.

The State Dept., which means Secretary William Rogers, has asked Ambassador Goldberg to confer with Thomas (Teddy) Gleason, president of the 80,000-member International Longshoremen's Assn. (AFL-CIO) in an effort to convince the dockwallopers' leader to end the boycott of USSR ships in American ports.

Recently, as reported in this column, the State Dept. attempted this on its own. Mr. Gleason, who likes to have it appear that he is out of this depth when he's not near his beloved tough waterfront, quite eloquently told the State Dept.'s "European Desk" that his followers would not handle "slave labor goods."

But he added that he would call his executive board together in Atlantic City (N.J.) on the eve of the National AFL-CIO Convention and put the Dept's request before them.

But soon enough "Teddy" sent word the reply would be negative. The State Dept. then turned to Mr. Goldberg, who teethed on the "foreign service" as a young labor lawyer during his Office of Strategic Service World War II days.

The former UN Ambassador agreed to talk to the longshoremen leaders and to AFL-CIO president George Meany if necessary. The lawyer's specific task is to convince the pier workers to handle, load and unload and "turn around" ships flying the Soviet flag. Mr. Goldberg believes in a reconciliation with Moscow. He had kind words to say for Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko when the (Ambassador Goldberg) was in Moscow last July.

A few days ago the State Dept. telephoned Mr. Gleason and asked him to confer with Justice Goldberg. Mr. Gleason demurred. He said he was raised on the hook and hates to get it. He pointed to Mr. Goldberg's awesome barbaining skill and complained he'd be outtalked. But he agreed to see the White House's unique ambassador.

Obviously the bitterly anti-Kremlin longshoremen are not eager to lend their broad shoulders to the building of bridges so far to the east. And just as obviously, the persistance of the State Dept. reveals the priority nature of its coexitence policy.

But inside labor, they're saying there's more to this than meets the hungry eye. Mr. Goldberg's willingness to take on this assignment, which could get him clobbered by powerful labor leaders, indicates his friendship with administration leaders. The former associate justice is an old friend of Richard Nixon for the latter's vice presidential days. Mr. Goldberg also defied the thunder during the presidential campaign when he mused publicly that the "world would not come to an end" if Mr. Nixon were elected. It didn't.

To those who know of the "mission" conjecture comes naturally. There soon will be three vacancies on the Supreme Court. Justice Black soon will be 84. Justice Douglas, not too well these days, is nearly 71. Justice Harlan is past 70 -- and not well al all.

While both Arthur Goldberg and Richard Nixon have said there is no such high court seat as a "Jewish seat" or a Catholic seat, certainly one of the three vacancies will be filled by an eminent jurist of the Jewish faith. The appointment of Mr. Goldberg could easily offset liberal criticism of the nomination of Justice Clement Haynsworth, who has been making the rounds of senatorial offices seeking support.

But conjecture is like ack-ack flak. Sometimes it's on target. Sometimes not. At the moment, on the record, Mr. Goldberg reportedly is preparing to announce his candidacy for the U. S. Senate from New York. This will mean a tough primary fight -- with no guarantee that the state's labor leaders will be throwing their hats, money and manpower in his direction.

So Ambassador Goldberg is a man for all seasons. The ex-Associate Supreme Court Justice keeps his own counsel. One thing is certain -- there is an entente cordiale between Arthur Goldberg and Richard Nixon. An odd couple to be sure.

Ann Landers

Father Demands Proof Of Daughter's Right To Be a 'Bride In White'

Dear Ann Landers: Change the name of the city. I would die if anyone knew about this.

Our daughter, Linda, age 21 and a college senior, plans to be married when she graduates next June. Linda and Tom, her fiance, were seated around the dinner table last night. Also present was our 19-year-old son and our 16-year-old daughter. We were discussing plans for the wedding. Linda said she had always wanted to be married in the traditional white wedding gown and veil. Her father said, and I quote, "Are you entitled to that privilege?" Linda turned red and replied, "What do you mean by THAT?" Her dad answered, "Are you a virgin?" Linda shot back, "What is this, the Spanish Inquisition?" Her dad replied, "If I pay for a white wedding gown I want to make sure I am not being short-changed."

Linda became indignant and shouted, "Do you want an affidavit from our family doctor?" Her dad replied, "Yes."

Both Linda and her fiance left the table. I was on the verge of tears.Our two other children were baffled.

What do you think of this? Hurry your comment.---Wrecksville USA

Dear Wreck: I think your husband's request is outrageous. Try to persuade him to unbraid his brains and give the girl a white wedding gown with no further discussion.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband has been pampered, spoiled and catered-to all his life. In the past ten years he has had affairs with four women that I know of. He always says he is sorry and promises to behave himself.

He's at it again. Divorce is out. What shall I do, Ann? Please don't tell me to take up bowling. I did that last time and it didn't help---Anchorage Dilemma.

Dear Anc: Many factors should be considered. Are there children? Is he a good father? Is there enough money for separate maintenance? How serious is his cheating? Does he become emotionally involved with women or is he just flexing his adolescent muscles? Does he cheat openly and parade around town with the bimbos or does he have enough sense to keep them out of sight?

Each woman must decide for herself if she gains or loses by throwing the bum out. Sometimes the cure is worse than the sickness.

Dear Ann Landers: Your advice to Nightmare Revisited was excellent. She was the woman who had a severe anxiety problem connected with a difficult pregnancy. I, too, had a problem. My child was born with a blood disorder. The baby lived but I was told that the same blood problem would probably be present in other children. The fear of getting pregnant again made me hate sex. Even a kiss on the cheek produced nausea. I refused to let my husband near me. It very nearly put an end to our marriage.

Thank God I had a physician who cared and a psychiatrist who was patient and wise. Without them I couldn't have made it. Keep urging people to get professional help. It saved me.---N.B.

Dear N.B.: I shall. Thanks for writing.

Fashion News

NEW YORK (AP) — "If you've got a pair of pliers and imagination, you can do an awful lot," said an assistant to jewelry designer Bill Smith as she held up a pair of pants made of gold coins.

The pants, along with a matching vest, were one of a number of items at a show Tuesday night of Smith's latest jewelry.

The 34-year-old designer, one of the first Negroes in the business, creates dresses, suits, capes, pants, halters and hats of rhinestones, pearls, black beads and metal chains.

Smith said his designs are "jewelry as clothing. They are strong enough so they can be clothing in themselves."

A former dancer who worked in a jewelry factory when he first came to New York and finally decided he preferred jewelry, he said his designs "can be worn over clothing or instead of clothing."

The models Tuesday draped the jewels over simple jersey dresses by Jon Haggins, over body stockings and over bare skin.

Among the standout items were a long scarf of pearls trimmed with cloth tassels, a metal cape with "pearlized" corks, a floor-length skirt of ropes of pearls, a short skirt and vest of jet beads and a pearl cape.

There are about two dozen pieces in the collection for Richilieu, retailing for between $35 and $250. The pearl scarf, for example, is $150.

Smith admitted that "not everyone can wear these things. There are many people, however who will make sacrifices for beauty."

Among the disadvantages of the jewelry clothing is their weight. The pearls Smith uses have an alabaster or plastic base, but they still make a sixfoot scarf pretty weighty.

Mrs. Eisenhower Observes Time Of Reverence

ABILENE, Kan. (AP)—Mamie Eisenhower returned to Abilene Wednesday and to the modest, native stone chapel where former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was interred last April 2.

Mrs. Eisenhower, wearing a black and white dress with a dark coat draped about her shoulders, was bareheaded as she left her car and quickly entered the chapel, called The Place of Meditation.

Since Einsehower's death the chapel has become the focal point for visitors to the 13-acre Eisenhower Center, which includes a library and museum.

The presidential crypt faces east toward the boyhood home of the former general and president, less than 100 yards away. The body of the Eisenhowers' first son, Doud Dwight, who died at the age of 3, lies next to his father.

Mrs. Eisenhower was accompanied by former Kansas Senator and Mrs. Harry Darby, John Wickman, director of the center; two Secret Service agents, and Mr. and Mrs. John Moaney.

Moaney is a retired Army master sergeant who served with the general in World War II. Mrs. Moaney has been with the Eisenhower family more than 20 years.

A crowd of about 75 persons had gathered near the fountain in front of the chapel and waited quietly under a mild September sun to see the former First Lady.

Mrs. Eisenhower remained in the chapel about 15 minutes. On entering, she appeared to be near tears, but later, she smiled and nodded a greeting to faces in the crowd as she returned to her car.

Earlier in the day the party stopped in Independence, Mo., where Mrs. Eisenhower talked on the telephone to another former first lady, Mrs. Harry S. Truman and briefly visited the Truman Memorial Library to examine mementos donated by her husband.

Capacity Crowd Expected For Mizzou Opener Sat.

COLUMBIA — Like a fellow often stung by a hornet in his ventures near the nest, Mizzou's Dan Devine has to be queasy about football openers.

Oddly enough, the nation's fourth most-successful coach didn't amass his 76.7 lifetime percentage by mowing down opponents in the season's first game. Not at Missouri, anyway.

Devine's 12th Tiger team will be trying to boost his personal 5-6 record for inaugural games to the break - even mark in Saturday's clash with the Air Force Academy. Game-time in Memorial Stadium is 1:30 CDT-- with a crowd forecast of between 52,000 and 55,000.

The Falcons, coached by Ben Martin, need not fret about first- game jitters. They picked S.M.U.'s bones, 26-22 at Dallas last Saturday night in their maiden flight.

Now the airmen return to Memorial Stadium for the first time in ten years, and they bring an impressive cast. Senior Gary Baxter is the hot pilot of the crew. He scored twice against the Mustangs, and his passes -- mostly to split end Charlie Longnecker-- kept the offense buzzing.

Halfbacks Curtis Martin and Ernie Jennings, a couple of scatbacks out of Kansas City's Central high school, provide breakaway speed in Martin's pro-T scheme -- with Jim DeOrio a solid fullback.

Linebacker Dennis Leuthauser adds the important dimension of field- goal kicking. The husky 200- pound senior from Des Moines lofted four three- pointers against S.M.U., and two conversion kicks.

"Any time they get in four- down territory," notes Coach Devine, who scouted the game with several of his assistants, "they are a threat. Leuthauser is the finest field goal kicker I've ever seen."

Missouri, the top-ten pick of several magazines, drew pre-season support on its backfield strength -- since diminished by the disability of fullback James Harrison, at 238 pounds the Tigers' most imposing threat. Last year's top scorer as a sophomore reserve, the 6 ft. 4 Texas will miss the opener with a re- pulled hamstring muscle.

Quarterback Terry McMillan of Coral Gables, Fla., is the manipulator of Mizzou's "I" formation-- and his first- string running mates are Joe Moore, Jon Staggers and Ron McBride. All are excellent runners in Devine's land-based attack -- but flashy Mel Gray at split end heads a group of improved receivers.

With senior Garnett Phelps as back- up for McMillan -- and two other young quarterbacks in the wings, Mike Farmer and Chuck Roper, the Bengals could be more versatile than a year ago.

Defensively, the outlook is less encouraging. Mizzou must replace five quality regulars from a year ago; more significantly, the Black and Gold's best returning lineman, tackle Rocky Wallace, re-injured his thigh muscle Monday night.

If Wallace can't play, that eliminates the Tigers' top pass- rusher. Last year the all-Big Eight lineman dropped enemy backs behind the line 14 times for 78 yards. Sophomore John Cowan is his replacement.

First Game Standouts

Ed Throop Larry Lawrence Mike Shafer

Coach Bill Friday and his coaching staff named two backs and one linemen as Bulldog standouts in last week's 31-14 loss to Mayfield, Ky.

Mike Shafer and Ed Throop were named as backs of the week while Larry Lawrance drew the lineman of the week call.

Shaffer, running from his halfback slot last week, picked up 31 yards on the ground and caught five passes for 74 more while Throop connected on 11 of 23 passes from his quarterback slot for 131 yards.

Lawrance was a standout on defense, playing end and also stood out from his offensive end slot where he caught three passes.

Coach Friday and his aides were still trying to patch up the offensive and defensive units for tomorrow night's Northern Division clash with Perryville after injuries took heavy toll on the Dogs.

The biggest question mark will be in the offensive back field where Throop is the only definite starter, as Charlie Dye,, Mike Shafer and Turner Marshall are still nursing wounds.

Backup men for these staters are David Evans and Ted Watkins at the halfback positions and Randy Reynolds at Fullback.

Pirates Pull Even With Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The best race in the National League's East may be for second place, but Al Oliver would rather not get involved in that one unless he has to.

What he'd rather do is get involved in the last-gasp race to catch the blitzing New York Mets. Oliver got the Pirates started in that direction with a two-run homer Wednesday night that carried the Pittsburgh Pirates past the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-2. The victory drew the Pirates even with the Cardinals for third place.

"New York will be tough to beat," Oliver acknowledged, "but you never know. We have a five-game series coming up in New York and we're the type of team that could sweep them. I will say that we'll need help."

They'll need plenty of help, because New York is 11 games ahead of the Pirates and Cardinals. "We still haven't given up," Oliver added, "but if we don't get first, second will be nice."

The strong-hitting rookie, taking the "all things come to him who waits" approach, ined his 17th homer of the year over the right field fence in the eighth off loser Chuck Taylor, 7-4.

"It was an inside fast ball, sort of low," Oliver said. "The funny thing about it is I got that same pitch two times before. But that time I was waiting on the fastball and he threw one when I was swinging."

Another funny thing about it was that it wasn't a fastball.

"It was a slider," said Taylor, who, having thrown it, should know. "I didn't get it in on him as much as I wanted. He did have to go down a little to get it."

Exactly what the pitch was mattered little to Taylor. "Another mistake," he said. "It only takes one. They really got all their hits in three innings, but they got them together."

Two of the hits came in the eighth when rookie Dave Cash singled and, after two forceouts, Oliver hit the decisive home run. Four of the hits came in the third when the Pirates scored another pair of runs.

The Cardinals came back for a run in the bottom of the third on Dal Maxvill's walk and a two-out single by Curt Flood. They added another run off winner Dock Ellis, 10-16, in the eighth on Dave Ricketts' pinch double and Lou Brock's infield single.

Manager Red Schoendienst planned a little lineup juggling for today's game, the last of the Cardinals' current home stand. Schoendienst planned to play four rookies to back up pitcher Nelson Briles, 15-12. Either Steve Blass, 15-9, or Luke Walker, 2-6, was to pitch for the Pirates.

Thrower Cautious About Season Opener

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Southeast Missouri State College opens its 1969 football season at home Saturday night (Sept. 20) against Delta State College of Cleveland, Miss., and the Indian head coach Tom Thrower is making no predictions.

Thrower, beginning his second season at the helm, has been optimistic during pre-season drills, but his early optimism has now turned into caution.

He points out that he has been able to learn little about the Statesmen. "We don't have a thing on them," he says. "We always go into this game blind, but we always seem to find out they have a pretty good football team."

The Indian mentor is also troubled over some minor injuries to several members of his first units, and he says, "we just hope we can put them back together again before Saturday night."

And he is concerned about a poor scrimmage which his team turned in last Saturday. "It was real disappointing. We expected we wouldn't executive too well, but we just weren't hitting. If we don't snap out of it soon, we are going to be in real trouble."

A large crowd is expected for the 8 p.m. season opener at Houck Stadium. Both Southeast Missouri and Delta will field veteran defensive units, with the Mississippians probably having an edge. Offensively, however, the Indians would appear to be better, on paper at least.

Delta coach Horace McCool, beginning his 9th season after a 5-5 record in 1968, has seven defensive starters back from a unit which last year only allowed the opposition slightly more than 200 yards per game.

Thrower has tapped a bunch of youngsters for starting defensive assignments in two freshmen, five sophomores, two juniors, and two seniors. However, all but the freshmen lettered last year, and eight of them have been starters at some time in the past.

The two freshmen given the nod are lineback Kim Godwin of Cape Girardeau and rover back Jim Powell of Webster Groves.

On offense McCool has only four returnees from last fall's first unit and all are linemen.

Thrower, on the other hand, expects to start six seniors, two juniors, and three sophomores, ten of whom lettered and six of whom started at least part of the time last season.

The Indians also have half of their offensive backfield back for a try at their third MIAA title in as many years. They are senior fullback Bruce Hoffman of Park Forest, Ill., and All-Conference quarterback Greg Schroeder, a senior from St. Louis.

Taking over for Southeast Missouri's great halfback-receiver of the past two campaigns, John Diepenbrock, will be Art Miller, a sophomore from Kirkwood. Al Holmes, a junior college transfer from St. Louis, will fill the spot vacated by Walt Smallwood, who made honorable mention last season in one College Division All-America poll.

Holmes, according to Thrower, is as much of a breakaway threat as Smallwood was, in actually a more elusive runner than Smallwood was, but is not as good an inside runner.

Last season Delta State defeated Southeast Missouri 31-21. The two teams have played nine times over the past 15 years with the Statesmen leading the series 7-2.

Built for quiet inside and out, Ford's luxurious new 1970 LTD Brougham is offered in four- door hardtop (top), two-door hardtop (bottom) and four- door sedan models. The 1970 Fords all feature new rear and side ornamentation, new exterior colors, plus new, more formal grilles.

1970 FORD DIVISION CARS

Ford Division passenger cars for 1970 are highlighted by all-new Torino and Thunderbird lines, a new ultra-luxurious LTD Brougham series, a new mid-range engine, premium quality tires standard on most car lines and more comfort, convenience, safety and security features.

"The 1970 model year may become the first year in which the sales of intermediate-size cars catch, or surpass, sales in the standard-size market," said John Naughton, Ford Motor Company vice president and Ford Division general manager.

"This may be the 'year of the intermediates,' and Torino is our most dramatically redesigned car. Torino is longer, lower and wider with aerodynamic styling, hot performance engines and options, and our first intermediate-size four-door hardtop models," he aid.

"Thunderbird also has an all-new look with a bold front-end design with longer, lower hood, a forward-thrusting grille and exposed headlamps.

"More quiet-car luxury is offered in the standard-size Ford. The entire Ford line presents a more formal appearance with new grilles, ornamentation and rear- end design.

"Mustang comes on stronger and sportier than ever with design changes, hotter engines, bright "Grabber" colors, and interiors with upbeat stripes and houndstooth checks.

"Maverick, introduced in April as the first car of the Seventies, will remain our 'simple machine' with very few changes. Mavericks produced after September 30 will have side marker lights which flash with the turn signals, and a three-way locking steering column.

"Falcon moves into the 1970 market with the proven features of fuel economy, roomy interior and durable performance," Mr. Naughton said.

NEW FEATURES

Several new security, comfort, convenience and performance features are included in Ford Division's 51 models for 1970.

Standard tires on Fords, Torinos, Mustangs and Thunderbirds will last longer, have greater resistance to puncture and provide better traction. Radial-ply tires will be installed on all 1970 Thunderbirds, and fiberglass belted bias-ply tires will be standard on all Fords, Torinos and Mustangs.

An all-new 351-cubic-inch-displacement V-8 engine, developed with the latest computerized technology and assembled on the auto industry's most advanced production line, will be offered on 1970 Mustangs and Torinos. The engine is compact, relatively lightweight and delivers excellent performance and economy.

All bucket seats offered on Ford Division cars are of high-back design. The higher seat backs incorporate integral head restraints and provide added comfort.

For the performance buffs, all optional four-speed manual transmissions feature the competition Hurst Shifter, known for fast, smooth shifting.

An automatic release for the two-door safety latch is available on Ford, Torino, Mustang and Thunderbird models. Both front seat-back latches are automatically released when either door is opened, thereby making it easier to get into and out of the back seat.

New steering wheels on Ford, Torino, Mustang and Thunderbird models are semi-oval in design for easier driver entry and exit and better visibility of the instrument cluster.

On all models except Falcon, odometers are tamper-resistant and non-reversing.

A three-way locking steering column on all models except Falcon is designed to deter car thefts by locking the ignition, the transmission linkage and the steering wheel with the ignition switch.

A new three-point Uni-Lock Safety Harness lap and shoulder belt system— available on all models except Mavericks, Falcons and convertibles—permits outboard front seat occupants to "buckle-up" faster. The separate buckle for the shoulder belt has been eliminated and the three remaining front seat buckles are only half the previous size. The result—a neater, more convenient, more comfortable system that is as safe as ever.

Externally adjustable headlamps on Ford, Torino, Mustang, Maverick and Thunderbird make it unnecessary to remove the headlamp rims to adjust the beams.

On the same models, standard front and rear side marker lamps—amber in front and red in the rear—flash with the turn signals to provide side visibility of the driver's intention to turn.

All cars manufactured for delivery in the state of California will be equipped with an evaporative emission control system.

TORINO

The 1970 Torino has all-new design inside and out. It is longer, lower and wider than its 1969 predecessor, the Fairlane, and offers the first four-door hardtop models in Ford Division's intermediate line.

Five series provide a choice of economy, luxury and performance. Thirteen models are available in Fairlane 500, Torino, Torino GT, Torino Brougham and Torino Cobra series.

All have new grilles, taillamps and ornamentation. Concealed headlamps are optional with Torino and Torino GT models and standard on Torino Brougham models. Windshield wipers are hidden when not in use.

Interiors feature new trim, new instrument panels with horizontal speedometer and Flow-Thru Ventilation systems for quieter, more comfortable windows-up driving. Lively "Blazer" patterns — red stripe or ginger stripe trims — are available on Torino, Torino GT and Torino Cobra models. Black Watch and Rob Roy Red plaid cloth and vinyl trims are available on Torino and Torino Squire station wagons.

Torino's top performance models are Torino GT, available in the sleek SportsRoof and convertible, and Torino Cobra, available in the SportaRoof. New, optional Sport Slats backlite louvers enhance the performance look of the SportaRoof models.

THUNDERBIRD

Thunderbird models feature dramatic new design highlighted by the longer, lower hood and grille with extended center section and exposed headlamps. Two-door models have a lower roofline and more rakish front and back windows.

Other major Thunderbird features for 1970 include the standard radial-ply tires, concealed windshield wipers and radio antenna, a new Special Brougham option group for the ultimate in sports/luxury appointments and a new in-plant simulated road test for the highest possible level of quality.

Thunderbird is offered in three distinctive models—a two-door hardtop, two-door Landau and four-door Landau.

Inside, Thunderbird has a new level of luxury from the standard all-vinyl pleated trim design to the rich Brougham vinyl with leather seating surfaces combination. New front door armrests house controls for power options. The "control console" regulates power windows, power seats, power door locks and the standard left-hand remote-controlled mirror.

Thunderbird's numerous standard equipment items also include a 360- horsepower, 429-c.i.d. four-barrel V-8, SelectShift Cruise-O-Matic transmission, power steering, power front disc brakes, AM radio, electric clock and many more.

FORD

Twenty-one models in the Ford line—14 cars and seven station wagons— are offered in Custom, Custom 500, Galaxie 500, XL, LTD and the new LTD Brougham series.

New front-and rear-end design gives the Ford a more formal appearance. LTD, LTD Brougham and XL models share a dramatic new grille with a bold center section that projects slightly. Headlamps are concealed when not in use.

For 1970, Galaxie 500 as well as XL, LTD and LTD Brougham models feature the sound absorption package that has won LTD the reputation of being the quietest car on the road.

LTD Brougham brings a new, higher-than-ever level of luxury to the Ford car with unique interior trim, exterior ornamentation and many other appearance and convenience items.

Power front disc brakes are now standard on LTD, LTD Brougham and Country Squire and optional on all other models, and Ford's 250-h.p., 351-c.i.d. two-barrel V-8 is now standard on XL, LTD, LTD Brougham and all station wagon models. It is the base V-8 engine option on Galaxie 500 models.

New exterior paint and vinyl roof colors are offered. Vinyl roofs and plaid cloth and vinyl interior trims also are available on station wagons.

MUSTANG

The 1970 Mustang offers a completely redesigned front and rear. Interiors offer bold new colors and optional patterned upholstery.

Seven models are available including the hardtop, convertible, fastback-designed SportsRoof, Grande hardtop, Mach I, Boss 302 and the limited production Boss 429.

A three-quarter Landau-style vinyl roof is standard on the luxurious Grande, and the hot Mach I comes on stronger than ever with stem-to-stern design changes.

Mustang's technical changes enhance its reputation for fine riding quality, easy road handling ability and responsive steering

Engines range from the base 200-c.i.d. Six to the powerful 429 V-8's. Optional Sport Slats and a rear deck air spoiler add to the performance theme of the SportsRoof models.

MAVERICK

Maverick remains basically unchanged since its introduction in April. Its popular assets remain low purchase price, good performance, economy of operation, easy serviceability, durability and sporty design.

Available only as a two-door secan model, Maverick boasts average gas economy of 22-½ miles per gallon with the standard 170-c.i.d. six-cylinder engine. Options include a larger 200-c.i.d. engine, SelectShift Cruise-O-Matic transmission, air conditioning and several appearance items.

FALCON

Falcon retains its long hood and short deck design for 1970. New are a revised model lineup and option list and an improved standard six-cylinder engine.

This year's Falcon line includes two-door and four-door sedans and a four-door station wagon in both the Falcon and Futura series.

You'd think by now God would say "Phooey!"

What with all the hate, the indifference to war, the fanatical selfishness we see around us. But God doesn't go around saying things like "Phooey." He goes around saying things like "Love your neighbor as you love yourself."
Have you tried it lately?

Break the hate habit: love your neighbor.

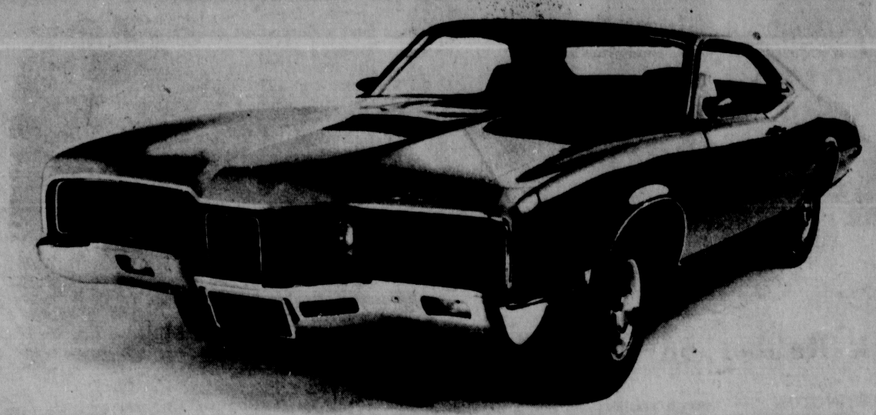
The Mercury Montego has been completely redesigned inside and out for 1970. It is lower, wider, nearly four inches longer overall and the wheelbase has been increased one inch to 117 inches for true family size proportions. A four-door hardtop is offered in the Montego line for the first time. Concealed headlights are standard equipment on the Montego MX Brougham (above). Concealed windshield wipers, bias- belted tires, and oval steering wheel have been added to the list of standard equipment on all models. Two completely new 351-cubic-inch engines and a 429 power plant have been added to the list of available engines.



Three new sporty, youth-oriented models — the Cyclone, Cyclone GT (above) and the Cyclone Spoiler — give Lincoln- Mercury Division new appeal in the growing intermediate market for 1970. All two- door hardtops with rakish rooflines that accentuate their top performance capability, the new models are offered with a host of power plants, including two all- new 351-cubic-inch V-8's and three versions of the 429-cubic- inch engine. Vertical European-type Cyclone running lights highlight the dramatic grille. Sporty new high-back bucket seats with contemporary design are standard on the Cyclone GT and Cyclone Spoiler models. Front and rear air foils are standard on the Cyclone Spoiler.

LINCOLN-MERCURY DIVISION CARS FOR 1970

The first completely redesigned Lincoln Continental in nearly a decade and an all-new expanded line of intermediate-size Montegos and Cyclones highlight Lincoln-Mercury Division's automobiles for 1970.

"Thirty-nine new models ranging from the classic Mark III to the muscular new Cyclone Spoiler give Lincoln-Mercury the broadest market coverage ever," said M.S. (Matt) McLaughlin, Ford Motor Company vice president and division general manager.

"During the Sixties American car buyers showed an ever-increasing appetite for variety and premium quality. We expect that trend to continue and accelerate during the Seventies and our new models for next year are designed to met this demand."

There are new power teams and a host of comfort, convenience and safety features standard on all car lines, including a more convenient three-point seat/shoulder belt system, a locking steering column, bias-belted tires, flow-through ventilation system and an oval steering wheel.

The new Lincoln Continental, while undergoing the most substantial change since 1961, remains clearly identifiable as a Continental with a strong grille theme and understated elegance. While outside dimensions are almost identical to previous models, wheelbase has been lengthened one inch to 127 inches andfront and rear tread are increased. As a result, interior roominess is substantially greater. The model line-up remains the same as in 1969, with a single series consisting of a two-door hardtop and four-door sedan.

The divisions intermediate line has been dramatically redesigned for 1970 and consists of three Montego series, including a new four-door hardtop, and three performance-oriented two-door hardtops, the Cyclone, Cyclone GT and Cyclone Spoiler.

Both Montegos and Cyclones have their own distinctive appearance.

The Cyclones have a racy look with a forward-thrusting grille and unique European-type running lights. Montegos share the same contemporary profile, with the addition of a luxurious, full width grille.

Wheelbase on all models has been increased one inch to 117 inches (114 inches on wagons) and overall length has been increased nearly four inches on sedans and hardtops and eight inches on station wagons.

The most completely equipped personal sports car in its class, Cougar for 1970 features an entirely new front end appearance with a vertical textured grille. Overall length has been increased to 196.1 inches—nearly three inches longer than last year. All of the extra length is at the front, increasing the sports flair appearance of the long hood/short deck proportions of the car.

The division's medium price lines—Marquis, Monterey and Marauder—boast engineering and design refinements and a broad range of new options. The 1970 Marquis maintains its Continental look and, like the Monterey, has newly designed grilles and taillights. The sporty Marauder and Marauder X-100 retain their performance-oriented rear window, swept back rear roof pillars and unique quad taillamps.

The Continental Mark III, America's finest personal luxury car continues its classic elegance for 1970 with modest design modifications. Changes include new concealed windshield wipers, new wheel covers, and redesigned tail and parking lamps. There are extensive interior changes, including genuine walnut trim on the instrument panel, steering wheel and door panels. All Mark IIIs will have as standard equipment Michelin steel-belted radial tires with a warranty of 40,000 miles.

Among the new features standard on the Mark III and optional on all other two-door models is an automatic seat back release. With this new feature, front seat backs are automatically released when either door is opened, making rear seat entrance or exit much easier.

While the Mark III will be equipped with Michelin steel-belted radial tires, all other Lincoln-Mercury Division cars will have as standard equipment new fiberglass belted tires which offer increased mileage, better puncture resistance and improved handling.

A convenience feature standard for all car lines is a modified oval steering wheel. It offers increased wheel-to-seat room, while affording an unobstructed view of the instrument panel.

All models, except convertibles, will have as standard equipment a unique three-point lap and shoulder belt restraint system featuring a "mini buckle." The buckle is nearly half its former size. The new restraint system eliminates the need for inboard shoulder buckles while providing the same degree of protection as the former method.

New safety and security features on all car lines, in addition to the three-point seat belt, include side marker lights that flash with the turn signals, a tamper-resistant odometer and a three-way locking steering column. The three-way locking column is designed to deter car thefts by locking the steering wheel, transmission linkage and ignition switch when the key is removed.

Following are the product highlights by car line:

LINCOLN CONTINENTAL

Lincoln Continental is an all-new car for 1970, yet still bears a strong kinship to its elegant predecessors. Completely redesigned inside and out, this fine motorcar continues to offer the maximum in luxury and performance in the Continental tradition.

The exterior design is highlighted by a new die-cast grille with concealed headlamps, new ventless side windows, concealed windshield wipers and full width rear lighting. The smooth flowing and lightly sculptured side sheet metal contributes strongly to the car's clean appearance and emphasizes the overall length of 225 inches. Rear wheels are partially covered with removable skirts, adding further to the long, sleek appearance.

The traditional high level of interior luxury, comfort and convenience is perfectly executed in the new Lincoln Continental. The standard bench seats offer armrests front and rear and are covered with thick molded foam padding for the utmost comfort. Two-way power seats are standard.

The two standard interior trim packages available are a new knit bodycloth and vinyl in a parallel-pleated design, and an elegant brocade cloth and vinyl in a "cathedral arch" sew pattern. Each combination is available in five colors. Twin comfort lounge front seats with individual adjustments and center armrests are available for the first time. Carpeting is extra thick long-wearing nylon, color-keyed to the car's interior.

The instrument panel is completely new with gauges for alternator, engine temperature, fuel and oil pressure. All instrumentation is fully lighted and directly in front of the driver for maximum convenience.

The doors on both the two-door hardtop and four-door sedan are considerably wider this year affording easier and more convenient entry and exit. The coupe doors are seven inches wider, while the four-door sedan doors are six inches wider at the front and more than four inches wider at the rear. The rear doors on the four-door sedan are hinged at the center pillar rather than the rear pillar as on previous models.

A flow-through fresh air ventilation system essentially the same as that offered in the Continental Mark III is standard this year on the Lincoln Continental.

Lincoln's excellent reputation for fine ride and handling will be further enhanced this year with the new body-on-frame construction, redesigned front suspension and new coil-link rear suspension.

The new body-on-frame construction is the same type as that used on the Mark III. It was developed with the aid of computer technology to provide the best all around functional qualities with least noise, vibration and harshness.

Standard power team with the 1970 Lincoln is the high performance 460-cubic-inch engine, the same engine as in the MarkIII, and SelectShift transmission. This power plant is designed to provide smooth, tractable power and is a direct result of Ford Motor Company's high performance engine program.

Lincoln offers a full complement of new options for 1970 including the Sure-Track Brake System which improves braking stability by helping to prevent sustained rear wheel lockup during maximum braking effort. Other new options are a power lock release group that combines power door locks, power remote control trunk release and automatic front seat back releases; new "Stardust" paints that have a beautiful, lustrous finish with a golden undertone; an electric rear window defroster; and a new FM/AM stereo radio.

All 1970 Lincoln Continentals will be subjected to a rigorous in-plant road-test simulator before shipment to dealers. The simulator has been computer-programmed to subject every Lincoln Continental to a wide variety of operating conditions, allowing a much more comprehensive test of each vehicle than ever before.

MONTEGO AND CYCLONE

Lincoln-Mercury's new intermediates have been completely redesigned— the silhouette is longer and lower with a handsome hug-the-road appearance. Both wheelbase and overall length have been increased. There are two new grilles and two new rooflines.

Three new youth-oriented models — the Cyclone, Cyclone GT and Cyclone Spoiler— give the division broader coverage in the intermediate market. All of the Cyclone models are two-door hardtops with rakish rooflines that accentuate their top performance capability. The Cyclone Spoiler has front and rear air spoilers as standard equipment.

In addition to the Cyclone models, a smart family-size four-door hardtop model is offered for the first time as an addition to the Montego Brougham series.

Interiors are distinguished by all-new trim styles, a new instrument cluster centered by a horizontal speedometer and new oval-design steering wheels. Sporty new high-back bucket seats with contemporary design and supberb seating comfort are standard on the Cyclone Spoiler and the Cyclone GT.

In addition to dramatic new front-end appearance, new side ornamentation, and completely new rear-end design, the 1970 Montego line has new concealed windshield wipers, new standard concealed headlamps on the MX Brougham and Cyclone GT and Cyclone Spoiler.

Completely new design is only part of the story. Significant engineering improvements and the addition of five new engines highlight the Montego and Cyclone lines for 1970.

Last year's 351-cubic-inch engines have been replaced by a completely new 351-cubic-inch engine with significant design improvements even though the displacement is the same. The engine is available in both regular and premium fuel versions and incorporates many of the design improvements and durability features proven with Lincoln-Mercury's competititon engines. The new engine features cylinder heads with larger, more efficient ports; larger intake valves that are canted in the direction of air flow; stronger more durable valve train components; larger runner intake manifold, and larger header-type exhaust manifold. The engine is available in two-barrel and four-barrel versions, with horsepowers of 250 and 300, respectively.

In addition to the new 351 engine there are three versions of the 429-cubic-inch engine in the Montego line-up. The first version is standard on the Cyclone, while a second more powerful version, the 429 CJ, is standard with the Cyclone Spoiler. There also is a 429 Super CJ generating 375 horsepower.

The Traction-Lok rear axle is optional on all 1970 Montego models. It replaces the optional limited-slip rear axle used with smalle; engines last year. Advantages include more traction on ice or snow.

CONTINENTAL MARK III

Continental Mark III, America's most popular personal luxury car, has received only modest exterior design changes for 1970.

The long-hood, short-deck treatment with bold forward-thrusting grille and simulated spare tire carrier are still the dominant design features. Minimum ornamentation and such subtle changes as concealed windshield wipers, new wheel covers and minor modifications to parking lamps and Taillamps, give the Mark III an appearance that is completely different from that of any other car on the road today.

The richness and warmth of fine wood has been added to the interior of all Mark IIIs with the installation of genuine walnut trim to the instrument panel, steering wheel and door panels. Standard interior trim is a luxurious combination of Cimarron/Heather nylon tricot bodycloth and Corinthian grain vinyl, available in a choice of six colors which harmonize with body color.

Front seat occupants may alter their seat position with literally nothing more that the flick of a finger. Power seat controls have been relocated to the armrests, replacing the seat-mounted controls of previous models. The outside rear view mirror controls also are located in the armrests.

An additional convenience is a new automatic time-delay map light switch. When the driver's door is opened, the map light provides illumination in the front passenger area for eight to ten seconds and then automatically shuts off.

All Mark IIIs for 1970 will be equipped with Michelin steel-belted radial tires which have a warranty for 40,000 miles. These tires are world renowned for their superior traction and road holding capability.

The Mark III is available only as a four-passenger, two-door hardtop coupe. For 1970 a new power-operated sun roof giving practically the same open-air effect as a convertible is now optional.

Other options available on the Mark III include two new vinyl roof colors, dark blue and dark brown; four new "Stardust" custom metallic colors; electric rear window defogger; twin comfort lounge seats; remote control trunk release; and dozens more.

The car's nimble performance and ready response come from the 460-cubic inch V-8 engine that is one of the world's smoothest and tractable. It is coupled with a three-speed automatic SelectShift transmission.

All Mark IIIs, are subjected to a rigorous in-plant road test identical to the system employed for the 1970 Lincoln Continental.

MARQUIS, MERCURY MONTEREY AND MARAUDER

Introduced last year as completely new models, Marquis, Mercury Monterey and Marauder receive engineering and design refinements for 1970. They retain their market posture by covering all three segments of the medium price field— the upper medium, the lower medium and the sports specialty. All three car lines have their own distinctive features yet share in the classic design heritage of the Lincoln Continental.

New front and rear end design treatments give the cars a clean crisp appearance. The Marquis, Marquis Brougham, Marauder and Marauder X-100 have a new die-cast grille with a horizontal pattern and concealed headlamps. The grille on the Mercury Monterey and Monterey Custom is anodized extruded aluminum with a horizontal theme. Headlamps are exposed and combineation parking lights/turn signals/ front side marker lights are set in the leading edge of the fenders.

Rear lights on the Marquis run full-width above the massive bumper, enclosed in three separate horizontal units trimmed in bright metal. Back-up lights are in the center of the outboard units. Monterеys have a similar appearance, with twin horizontal taillamp assemblies and Marauders retain their performance-oriented rear appearance.

Interior improvements include two-inch wider seat backs; more comfortable armrests; pull-type door handles; and new seat trim patterns. Approximately 35 pounds of additional soundproofing materials have been added to reduce exterior road noises.

A noteworthy addition to the option line-up for 1970 is an electric rear window defroster. This device quickly clears the back window of fog and frost and melts small amounts of snow and ice. Traction-Lok rear axle is optional on all models.

An important advancement in ride control, freon filled shock absorbers, are standard on all models. This improved design features a plastic bag filled with inert freon gas submerged in the shock absorber hydraulic fluid reservoir. It takes the place of the air space in the conventional design shock absorber.

Three engines including the smooth and durable 390-cubic-inch V-8 and the higher performing 429-cubic-inch engines in both two-barrel and four-barrel versions are available to meet all road and load conditions.

COUGAR

Cougar, America's most completely equipped sports compact car, continues into 1970 with evolutionary design changes, a number of mechanical improvements, new interior luxury and new power teams.

The Cougar design has been refined modestly with a new vertical grille and forward thrusting front end. The highly styled Cougar XR-7 grille has a unique bright and black trim scheme giving it a luxury appearance.

Overall length has been increased 2.3 inches to 196.1 inches. All of the extra length is at the front, increasing the sporty flair appearance of the long-hood/ short rear deck proportions.

On the interior, highback bucket seats are standard and a sprightly accent is offered by a cloth and vinyl houndstooth check in two colors with matching vinyl roof. Glove-soft natural grain leather is used on the seating surfaces of the Cougar XR-7.

For 1970, Cougar is available in five models—a hardtop and convertible in both the base series and the richly appointed XR-7 line and the high-performance Eliminator featuring front and rear air spoilers.

The Eliminator has special ornamentation, identification and performance equipment. The base engine is the completely new 351-cubic-inch 4V engine. Optional engines are the Boss 302 4V V-8, the CJ 428-4V, the CJ 428-4V with ram air, and the new Cougar Boss 429-4V V-8.

The standard power team for the Cougar and Cougar XR-7 is the 351-cubic-inch 2V engine with a three speed manual transmission. SelectShift and four-speed manual transmissions also are available. The high performance Hurst Shifter is standard with the four-speed manual transmission on all Cougar models.

Vinyl roof availability for 1970 has been increased to seven colors— black, parchment, blue, brown, green, black houndstooth and ginger houndstooth.

Unique Lake Bid to Reverse Pollution Trend

MARKLEEVILLE, Calif. (AP) — A unique lake teeming with rainbow trout on the eastern slope of the Sierra near here is filled with a billion gallons of treated sewage water and authorities say it's pure enough to drink.

Called Indian Creek Reservoir, the man-made-lake is fed by a 22-inch pipeline snaking over a 7,000 foot mountain pass from a sewage plant at South Lake Tahoe, 14 miles north.

"The plant is the only one of its kind in the world," says Bob Wakeman, a director of the South Tahoe Public Utility District, serving an area with about 15,000 residents. "The water it produces meets U.S. public health service drinking water standards."

The growth of resort and year-round communities at Tahoe has caused pollution, silting and algae to mar Lake Tahoe's natural beauty, Wakeman says. The $3-million plant and 14-mile pipeline were built to help reverse the trend.

After treatment with lime to remove solids, the sewage water is pumped through filtration beds, channeled through five 30-foot columns containing $180,000 worth of activated charcoal, then chlorinated. The lime and charcoal are later reclaimed.

The water arrives at Indian Creek Reservoir colorless, odorless, tasteless and stripped of harmful wastes.

"Everyone asks us why we don't pump the water back into Tahoe and save some money," says Wakeman. "The answer is we could and probably no one would know the difference, but the project is still experimental and its results must be tested thoroughly."

In one test shortly after the 27-acre reservoir opened in August, 8,000 rainbow were planted to see how well they will survive.

Smith Named To Occupy Dirksen Seat

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Ralph T. Smith, the speaker of the Illinois House, was named by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie today to fill the Illinois seat in the U.S. Senate left vacant by the death of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen.

Smith, a Republican from Alton, was the expected choice after Atty. Gen. William J. Scott withdrew from the race Monday. Rep. John B. Anderson, RIll., of Rockford, also was a strong contender to succeed Dirksen who died Sept. 7 in Washington.

Ogilvie made the announcement in his office. Smith, his wife, and Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., were present.

The governor said he telephone President Nixon Tuesday to tell him of his decision.

Smith will fly Thursday to Washington to take the oath of office. The appointment is for the interim period until January 1971 when the winner of the 1970 general election will take office.

About Our Schools

By Lynn Twitty

A study conduct by the Educational Testing Service of Princeton, New Jersey indicated that there wee more important changes in the High School curriculum and teaching methods in the last ten years in the United States than in any previous decade. Substantial changes were reported in the methods of teaching mathematics, science, and modern foreign languages. However, the teaching of English and history and the social studies have remained about the same in the last ten years. Most English teachers, according to the report, are emphasizing formal grammar, traditional test and workbooks, but many students among the 38,000 involved in this study also reported that they had studied linguistics, structure of grammar, usage problems, and history of the English language.

The survey was financed by the College Entrance Board.

We have a problem at football games, with which parents must help us, or we will be forced to take steps to restrict attendance to some elementary and pre-school children.

The problem is this: many, (not all of course), of these youngsters run without restraint in front of spectators, hang on the safety cable in front of the stands, climb over the wire onto the slope in front of the stands, down over the retaining wall onto the track. This is of course a distraction and is disagreeable to spectators who wish to see the game. However, this is not our major concern. The main problem is the danger involved to the youngster who does not remain seated. There are dangerous pipes enbeded in the concrete retaining wall. These were placed in the event that future tiers of concrete bleachers would be erected on the slope back of the retaining wall. A child could easily injure himself on one of these pipes or in falling from the wall. There will be no danger if parents will see to it that their children remain seated as they should. In the past we have asked some of our teachers and principals to assist in restricting these children from running around or roughhousing in the prohibited areas. But, this is not their function, and unless there is more control on the part of parents it will be necessary that we make new policies for attendance.

It is not our desire to keep anyone from attending the game, in fact quite the contrary. But we do find it necessary to insist that this unrestricted and dangerous activity on the part of some of these youngsters be ended. We do not wish to see any of these children hurt. We believe that parents will cooperate with us in solving this problem.

The Legislation passed at the last session of the Missouri General Assembly will provide about $35 million more for Missouri schools this year. In addition to providing funds for other school services, this money enabled most Board of Education's to make increases in teacher salaries. Our Board, because of the additional anticipated funds and through eliminating or curtailing some other projects which had more-or-less served their purpose, was able to make a rather substantial $700 minimum increase. This amount was added to each step of the existing salary schedule for faculty members. However, we believe that the schedule has some built-in equities and it should be revised in order that some of the inequities be eliminated, and to give each teacher more equal and justifiable pay in relation to duties or responsibilities, experience, and professional qualifications.

We are setting up a committee of teachers and administrators to revise the schedule and present it to the Board of Education. The schedule will, of course, be limited by the total amount available for salaries, but perhaps some improvements in the way funds are distributed to teachers, can be made.

We would be forced to agree with a conclusion of Engelhardt and Leggett, Inc., of Purdy Station, New York that the financial administration of many school systems is based on out-of-date methods.

Sometimes, we think, this is the fault of the administrators or Board of Education. Sometimes, it is because of our factors, a traditional community which will not allow changes, lack of funds, trained personnel, perhaps many others. Sometimes, the administrators may be sound educators, but not necessarily financial managers.

First of all the complexity and size of the school system many times make it the most difficult administrative problem in the community. Today's schools are involved in not only providing a broad and comprensive educational program for children and adults with widely varying needs, but they run extensive transportation systems, food service programs, cater to the health needs of their students, and add to this many more tasks and areas unknown in the days of the little red schoolhouse. Too frequently, administrators become so involved in the business operation in the school system that they forget the primary aim of creating a teacher-student situation that will accomplish the only purpose for which the school exists – to educate students. Fortunately, many Board of Education's recognize this fact, and provide for a delegation of responsibilities to individuals who are trained in business management or who at least can accomplish this aim because it is their primary assignment.

Some school systems have, in the past few years, improved their efficiency through the use of better budgeting and cost control, the use of computers, and other modern business methods to, at least, a limited extent.

Our Board is doing some of these things and have plans for other improvements. Some are limited by the budget. We suspect, however, that a good management team could come into our system and find many areas that would be bettered if we were able to adopt the techniques or methods generally common in larger businesses and industry.

JOSEPH LLOYD THOMAS

Bank Robber on FBI List

WASHINGTON - Joseph Lloyd Thomas, a veteran criminal and convicted bank robber now charged with violating Federal parole and bank robbery, has been added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives" for the second time.

Thomas was previously placed on the "Top Ten" list in October, 1950, and was apprehended by FBI Agents on December 10, 1959, at Pelzer, South Carolina. When arrested on that occasion, Thomas had grown a mustache for disguise, had two hacksaw blades strapped to one leg, carried $125 in cash in his shoes, and had a loaded .38 caliber revolver secreted behind the radio of his car.

Thomas was subsequently convicted in 1960 of robbing a Louisiana bank of $34,000 and given a 25-year sentence which was later reduced to 15 years. He was paroled on March 27, 1967.

On the afternoon of February 28, 1969, Thomas allegedly robbed at the point of a snub- hosed revolver the K-Mart Plaza Branch of the Merchants National Bank at Terre Haute, Indiana, fleeing with $22,072 stuffed in a shopping bag.

A Federal warrant for Thomas' arrest was issued on March 1, 1969, at Terre Haute, Indiana, charging him with bank robbery. In addition, the United States Board of Parole issued a warrant on March 18, 1969, charging him with violating the terms of his parole from a Federal penitentiary.

Thomas' long criminal record, which began in 1928, includes convictions for vehicle theft, robbery, and possession of a still, in addition to bank robbery.

A white American, he was born on October 20, 1911, at Terre Haute, Indiana. He is 5' 7" to 5' 8" tall and weighs 150 to 160 pounds, having blue eyes and gray hair. Thomas has a medium complexion and medium build. Small scars appear on the right side of his mouth, at the base of his left index finger, and on the first joint of his right middle finger.

Thomas, who wears prescription glasses and a partial denture of upper front teeth, has been treated both for a mild heart condition and ulcers. In the past he is said to have worn sports coats and sports shirts, left open at the collar. At the Terre Haute bank robbery he reportedly was dressed in a dark gray fedora and a gray suit jacket or topcoat. He has frequently smoked a curved-stem pipe.

Described as associates as a glib confidence man, Thomas prefers motels to hotels and has lived in house trailers. He is said to be an avid player of bowling machines in taverns which he frequents, and reportedly prefers shooting dice to other forms of gambling. He is considered to be a good dancer.

A former drive-in restaurant owner, Thomas also has bought and sold military surplus merchandise and cafe equipment. In addition, he has been employed as an advertising promoter, telephone fund raiser, used car salesman, bricklayer, service station attendant, laborer, and carpenter. In connection with the surplus merchandise business, Thomas frequently drove large trucks between various cities in the [illegible]

He is reportedly usually armed with a revolver and has allegedly stated he would not hesitate to use it if cornered. He is regarded as an escape risk and should be considered armed and very dangerous. Thomas is believed possibly accompanied by a female associate who is reportedly involved in a check-passing scheme.

Anyone with information concerning Thomas is requested to immediately contact the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be found on the first page of local telephone directories.

Spain Named To Committee

BERNIE - State Representative James E. Spain of Stoddard County has been named by the Speaker of the House, James E. Godfrey, to a committee for the purpose of proposing revisions to the criminal code of Missouri. This appointment was made by letter to Governor Warren E. Hearnes.

Two members of the House of Representatives, one from each political party, were named [illegible] to represent the House of Representatives on this committee.

The purpose of the committee will be to study the present criminal code of the State of Missouri and to make recommendations concerning its revision and updating. Many of the present laws are the same or only varied slightly from the statutes of 1855. It is felt that this is an area of vital concern to all Missourians and that a constant effort should be made to keep Missouri's Criminal Code updated. The study will be a joint effort of the several branches of State and local government.

The committee will consist of twelve persons with the Chairman to be the Honorable Norwin Houser, Commissioner of the Supreme Court of Missouri. The coordinator of the committee will be Professor Edward Hunvald who teaches law at the University of Missouri.

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — "It is far more exciting to be a Catholic than a Protestant these days," says the Rev. Dr. Walter W. Benjamin, a Methodist and head of the religion department at Hamline University, St. Paul, Minn.

TV Officials Say Censorship Will Be Resisted

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Spokesmen of two major television networks say they plan to resist censorship and cater to more sophisticated viewers, but that orders to play down violence will stay in effect.

"Television is becoming more permissive all the time," Michael H. Dann, CBS-TV senior vice president for programs, told a meeting of nearly 400 broadcasting and advertising executives Tuesday.

"I know we are going to continue to be more adult."

Mort Werner, NBC-TV vice president for programs and talent, said he saw no concerted drive to censor telecasts and as for "a lowering of the curtain, I don't think so."

"I don't think the networks are going to knuckle in," he added.

Both spoke in answer to questions by nembers of the Hollywood Radio and Television Society who expressed apprehension over censorship threats.

"Eight to ten years ago there was an intoxicating excitement in television, with an occasional 'hell' and 'damn,'" said Harry Ackerman, vice president and executive producer of Screen Gems, Inc.

"Suddenly it's like Czechoslovakia. Everything's changed. Are the networks going to knuckle in to Pastore and institute a new dark age of censorship?"

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., who has conducted an investigation of TV program content, is an outspoken critic of violence on the home screen.

Dann commented, "Violence in our society is coming from social change. TV in effect is not responsible for it."

But, he added, "we're going to continue a de-emphasis on violence at all times."

William Self, president of 20th Century-Fox Television, recalled that about a year ago Dann called a producers' meeting on employment of Negro actors and asked if Dann had a progress report.

"All anybody has to do is turn on a set and know there is a phenomenal, explosive use of Negro performers," said Dann. "The great challenge for the industry is to get people on the other side of the camera."

Demo Policy Council May Revive HHH

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic National Committee's new policy council is finally ready for business—and it may provide Hubert H. Humphrey with a platform from which to challenge President Nixon's performance.

Humphrey, the party's 1968 defeated presidential nominee and a possible candidate again in 1972, is chairman of the panel assigned to keep vigil on the Republicans.

Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma, the party chairman, and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, the 1968 nominee for vice president, are vice chairmen of the Democratic policy council, which has been some eight months in the making.

Muskie and even Harris are considered possible 1972 candidates for the Democratic presidential nod.

Harris announced the council's makeup on the eve of a conference of Democratic state chairmen today, and a meeting of the national committee Thursday.

He appointed 20 Democrats, among them three governors, three senators, three members of the House and two big-city mayors, to the council executive committee.

Harris said 30 prominent Democrats later would be named members at large and six committees which deal with policy and issues in major areas.

Harris hopes liaison, and general agreement on the issues, would avoid the problem faced by a similar group during the Republican Eisenhower administration when Democratic congressional leaders regarded the council as an intruder.

Sen. Mike Mansfield, the Democratic leader, said he would be glad to work with the new council. "We just have to make up our own minds here, and do what we think is best, because we vote."

Bernie Council Talks Cable TV

BERNIE - The Bernie city council met in regular session Monday night at the city hall.

Seals, a representative of Mid-Continent Cable TV Service was present to propose to install a TV cable in Bernie. The cable would provide service from five channels carrying all three networks, and would cost a fee of $10 for a hook-up plus a $5 per month service charge. The board took the proposal under advisement. Before the city could grant a franchise it would be necessary for an election to be held.

Since school has started the city will enforce a 10 o'clock curfew week nights for all for all children 16 years of age and under. Violation carries a $25 penalty to parents. The board has received complaints of unattended children, 16 years and under, being on the streets after the curfew.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Question 7. Which electoral reform plan has the greatest opportunity for acceptance by the Congress, State Legislatures and the people?

Answer. Both Mr. George Gallup and Mr. Lou Harris, leading public pollsters, have tested the pulse of the American people on the question of a direct popular election. 81% of the people polled by Mr. Gallup responded favorably to a direct election. This figure, when broken down, reflected the following regional statistics:

Midwest:81% East: 82%
South: 76% West:81%

Mr. Harris' poll, although lower at 78%, still showed that an overwhelming number of Americans think that they should vote directly for the President.

In 1966, Senator Quentin Burdick polled all state legislators on their preferences of electoral reform plans. Of those responding, the direct election plan was supported by 58%, or more than all other plans combined.

An impressive number ofnational organizations have carefully reviewed the electoral question and declared their support for the direct election plan. These include the AFL-CIO, the United Auto Workers, the National Federation of Independent Business, the National Small Business Association, and the Bar Association of the City of New York.

The Judiciary Committee of the House recently reported, by a vote of 29-6, a direct election plan. An unofficialppoll of House members indicates that over two-thirds of the Members favor a direct election. Supporters include Speaker John McCormack, Minority Leader Gerald Ford, Judiciary Chairman Emanuel Celler, Ranking Minority Member William McCulloch and Majority Whip Hale Bogga.

In the Senate, forty-three Members have cosponsored a direct election plan, while over a dozen others have announced for such a proposal even though they are not cosponsers. In short, more members of Congress support direct election than any other proposal.

The direct election plan is actually the compromise measure before the Congress. It is only proposal that requires all groups to give up their so-called advantages. The large states surrender the advantage of the unit rule; the small states, their advantage of the two Senatorial electors. Every state, every voter is on the same footing. Each citizen's vote counts and counts equally, no matter where he lives.

Ancient herbalists believed that sage, now a staple in many dressings, improved the memory and assured long life. Doctors at Salerno, the great medieval school of medicine, asked, "How can a man die who grows sage in his garden?"

Though it has slipped to second place in population, New York state still holds a lead over California in the number of manufacturing establishments located within its borders. According to Dun's Market Identifiers, a marketing service of Dun & Bradstreet, there are 46,901 manufacturing firms doing business in the Empire State compared with 36,053 in California.

LANGUAGE CONFUSION

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP) — African pupils who must know two languages if they want to study at high school now have to learn a third one. Before the present government came to power in 1948 Africans were taught mainly in English. The late Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd, then minister of native affairs, in 1954 ordered that Africans be educated in junior school in their own tribal language to stop producing what he called "black Englishmen."

High school education continued mainly in English but now, the government has ordered that high school education must be in both English and Afrikaans, the languages of the two main white groups in South Africa. Maliza said Metcalf Maliza, principal of the Kwazakele High School here, said the change from the vernacular to one white language already caused confusion and the situation would become worse.

Stalin's Madness Lives!

The Personality Cult is gone but the persecutions linger on, says an imprisoned Ukranian writer whose petition accuses the Russians of destroying non-Russian life by deportation, colonization and Aesopian division of lands. The writer shows Russia as the model of heartless discrimination backed by armed force, proving that in Russia it pays to be a Russian and woe to the Jew, the Moldavian and the Tartar.

By
Svyatoslav Karavansky
A prisoner in a Communist
Labor Camp

Over the last 30 years, the Council of Nationalities of the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R. has investigated very few of the pressing problems that should be of primary concern to it. Obviously, one can neither criticize nor condemn the Council's activities up to 1953, for like all Soviet state organs, it was represented by Stalin personally. During this period it existed formally, but did not in fact perform any official business. Unfortunately, inertia still characterizes the Council, although it is high time that it undertook the correction of a long list of abuses resulting from the Stalinist cult of personality - abuses which even today restrict and undermine friendly relations between the nations of the U.S.S.R.

Such friendship will develop successfully and increase in strength only when all the nations of the Soviet Union are accorded equal rights in every branch of social and political life. This is a truth that is self-evident. It is the principle that has compelled me to address the Council of Nationalities, and to petititon it for the implementation of the measures to remove the vestiges of discrimination against nationalities in our soviety.

To begin with, I call your attention to the discrimination against the Jewish population. I stated this problem first because the attitude of a society toward its Jewish population is the litmus paper indicating that society's level of international consciousness. The closing down of Jewish cultural institutions (newspapers, schools, theaters, publishing houses); the execution of Jewish cultural workers; discrimination in admitting Jews to institutions of higher and secondary learning - these are all practices that flourished in the era of the personality cult. It would seem that the condemnation of the cult should have also put an end to these flagrant injustices, yet this did not occur. To appease public opinion abroad, Nikita Khrushchev (who paid little attention to public opinion in the Soviet Union itself) was forced to "rehabilitate" the innocent Jewish cultural leaders executed under Stalin. But he went no further.

Where are the Jewish theaters now, the newspapers and publishing houses, the schools? In Odessa, there are approximately 150,000 Jews, but not one Jewish school. And what about admission to institutions of higher learning? Again in Odessa, where 25% of the population is Jewish, Jews make up only 3-5 per cent of the student body at those institutions. That is the unofficial quota maintained in processing admissions. Yet Jewish students applying to institutions of higher learning in other cities are told: "You have a school in Odessa - go to your 'own' school." Students from the Urals, Siberia, Moscow, Tula, Saratov (all with their own large, well - established universities) are permitted to study in Odessa, where they are provided with specially constructed dormitories, while local Jewish students (as well as the local Ukrainians and Moldavians) are severely restricted in their right to a higher education.

Practices such as these can only lead the Jews to an awareness of the fact that in the Soviet Union they belong to an inferior and unequal national group, and so drive them to Zionism. One must admit that never before has Zionism been as popular among the Jewish population as it is today, and this is a direct result of discriminatory practices against the Jewish minority.

An equally glaring example of national discrimination was the mass deportation of the Crimean Tartars and the Germans from their own territories and confiscation of their statehood. The expulsion of the Tartars from Crimea was an act of open injustice that no argument can excuse. How, in the 20th century, could a society that wants to create the most just order on earth deport a nation of 900,000 from its historic land for "treason against the motherland" committed by a few of its people? Who has the right in this century to delve into the archives of an imperialism long past to come up with an argument that "historically" this land belonged not to the Tartars but to the Russians? If one followed this line of reasoning then Khabarovsky Kray, Prymorsky Kray, and the Amursk Oblast should all be immediately returned to the Chinese Republic because the imperialistic Tsars of Russia forcefully seized these lands from the Chinese rulers. Can friendship among the Soviet nations possibly be encouraged by depriving the Crimean Tartars of statehood, by scattering them throughout the expanses of Kazakhstan and Siberia, by depriving them of their schools, newspapers, and theaters?

And how are the Germans of the Volga Region responsible to society for Hitler's crimes? Does Marxism solve complex problems by judging people on the basis of their nationality rather than their social contribution? Does not the slogan "Workers of the world, unite!" apply to the Jews, the Germans of the Volga Region? We have no bourgeois Jews, no capitalist Tartars, no German landowners in the Soviet Union. We have only workers.

How can our young people be educated in the spirit of internationalism when they see entire nations deprived of their right to national autonomy and of their right to an education in both their native and foreign languages? What friendship can there be between the man who has been exiled from his own home, from his native land, and the man who has taken over this home and this land?

To the injustices above one must also add the errors committed in the restoration of the national statehood to the Chechens, Ingush, Kalmyks, Karachais, and a number of other nationalities. This seemingly just act toward the smaller national groups was not accomplished without blunders, making it obvious to these nationalities that they are still less than equal. According to the established procedure, the families of these unjustly exiled national groups are not given back their immovable property - their buildings and their homes; if they wish to return to their ancestral lands, they must buy back their homes from the local state authorities, or else build new ones. Having given them the right to return, the decree of the Supreme Soviet did not secure for them the means to realize this return. It is the same as presenting someone with an expensive cake, after first eating the chocolate icing and filling. Can such a gift be considered a gift?

During the era of the personality cult many injustices were likewise perpetrated against the Baltic nations. The Estonian population occupying regions near the Soviet- Estonian border was deported en masse to Siberia although the only crime of these people was that they happened to live near the border. They could at least have been resettled in another part of the Estonian Republic; but, no, the entire population of the town of Silamaye was transported to Siberia.

As everyone knows, in 1940, the Latvian Republic joined the Soviet Union of its own accord. Therefore, no repressive measures should have been taken against the military personnel of the Latvian Army. Strangely enough, however, officers of the Latvian Army were invited in 1941 to military maneuvers from which they have never returned; they were interned, and their fate is unknown. No one of these officers ever came home. This is true, too, of the thousands of Lithuanians who were unjustly repressed and deported in 1940-41. The suspicion arises that under Beria's arbitrary rule, these Soviet citizens may have been liquidated in one way or another in the concentration camps. This is in itself a crime against humanity and can hardly strengthen friendship among nations. To prevent similar occurrences in the future, it is time to investigate, and if necessary, perform the appropriate excavations and exhumations of bodies in order to prosecute those criminally responsible for murdering thousands of Lithuanian and Latvian citizens of the Soviet Union.

Meanwhile, inordinate damage to the friendship of nations has been and is being done by the distorted national policies applied in one of the largest republics of the U.S.S.R., the Ukraine. The Russification of Ukrainian institutions of higher learning introduced after 1937 has been condemned and partially corrected in the Western Ukraine, but in the Eastern Ukraine, these institutions remain completely Russified. This discriminatory policy is explained by the supposed difference between the two regions; but if this is the case, why did the Ukrainian nation unite into one Ukrainian Soviet state in the first place? Obviously, so that the entire Ukrainian nation, previously deprived of statehood, could develop into one national organism. Now, in the field of education the united republic is divided into two parts. Practices of this kind not only discourage friendship; they even divide one nation into two.

It is no secret that the unjust acts against the Ukrainian nation- the execution of leaders...; the execution of writers...; the groundless exlusion of the Communist Party of the Western Ukraine from the Comintern; the liquidation and deportation of the Ukrainian intelligentsia of Lvov between 1939-53; the compulsory mass deportations of Ukrainians to Siberia; the forced Russification of the Ukrainian population in Kukan, Biiohorod, Stavrodub - that all these acts could not fail to provoke the national outrage which developed into a national revolt between 1943-49. The majority of the participants in this revolt and even mere witnesses (there are more of these) are still living beyond the borders of their own republic.

These victims of the personality cult should be returned to their native homes. A true friendship among the Soviet nations requires a wide and general amnesty for all those prisoners who (after 15, 18, or 20 years) are wasting away in prisons and concentration camps for the active opposition to the personality cult and to Beria's terror. If there is really to be friendship among the nations of the U.S.S.R., then it must be based on humane relations, and not on national hatreds and fratricide.

One can only presume that it is precisely because it intends to prevent the release of these persons that the U.S.S.R., continues to maintain its barbaric 25-year prison term. For at this time 24-year sentences are being served primarily by Ukrainians, Lithuanians, Latvians, Estonians, Byelorussians, and Moldavians. Why is there no pardon for them?

The practice of settling the cities of the national republics with Russians further contradicts true friendship among the Soviet nations. In the (Ukrainian) S.S.R., the Russian population systematically increases while the Ukrainian population decreases. ...The colonization of the Ukraine with a large number of Russians (retired officers, retired KGB officials, and other privileged categories of citizens who settle in the cities and get all the comfortable jobs and professional positions, has forced the native Ukrainian population into low- salaried jobs as unskilled laborers, ambulance drivers, caretakers, stevedores, construction and farm workers...

In 1958, when the Chechens and the Ingush finally returned to their native lands, they were greeted by the Russian population of Grozny with banners reading, "Chechens and Ingush, get out of the Caucasus" and "Long live Stalin's national policies!" ... Is this not a shameful expression of international enmity?

An equally pernicious vestige of the personality cult is the so-called system of passport registration that exists in the Soviet Union. According to this law, a person may live only where the militia allows him to live; he does not have the right to move about freely in the country - or more precisely, he has the right to move to Siberia, to the Urals, to Kazakhstan, but he does not have the right to live in the so- called "regime" cities. Thus an inhabitant of the Ukraine is not free to settle in Kiev, Odessa, or Lvov; an inhabitant of Lithuania, in Vilna or Kaunas; an inhabitant of Latvia, in Riga. Why? How could the fact that Ukrainians live in Kiev threaten the safety of the Communist society there?

In 1948, the Soviet Union signed the International Convention on Human Rights, which contains a paragraph concerning the right of people to move about freely within a given country. But this freedom does not exist in the Soviet Union, where the inhabitants of a national republic do not have the right even to settle in the cities of their own republic...

Discrimination against certain nationalities is further manifest in the "errors" made in designating the borders of the national republics...

In the case of the autonomous republics, the division of lands might have been carried out by the lion in Aesop's fable. A part of the Penza Oblast and the city of Penza, settled by Moldavinians, were excluded from the Mordovian A.S.S.R. Large territories of the Ulyanovsk and Orenburg Oblasts, settled by the Tartars, were excluded from the Tartar A.S.S.R.

The Author...

Svyatoslav Karavansky is a Ukrainian poet and literary worker now serving 25 years in a labor camp in the Soviet Union for protesting cruel obliteration of non- Russian peoples within the U.S.S.R.

His petition, dated April 10, 1966, in the labor camp, and appearing in this issue, was circulated in the underground, then sent to the West where it was first published in the New Leader, publication of the American Labor Conference on International Affairs.

Note that in the text that two words appear in boldface type. This is done only to warn the reader that such words have been employed either in the manner of a propagandist (usage which does not square with the facts) or are a sop, with sarcastic undertone, to the writer's government which has jailed him.

At any rate, the author's message is sufficient unto itself: Communism is tyranny, and the Soviet Union of Slave States continues to obliterate all those without and within its borders who pose the slightest roadblock to Communist domination of the world.

DENVER (AP) — Allen Miller, 20-year-old University of Georgia golfer, defeated four members of the University of Texas golf team on his way to the Trans-Mississippi title at Cherry Hills. Miller beat Chip Stewart, Rik Massengale and Tom Kite before vanquishing Dean Overturf 4 and 3 in the finals.

Missouri Heritage

Lew Larkin
In the Kansas City Times

One of the lesser native tribes, the Kickapoo, has an interesting but neglected history in Missouri. Some highlights:

The tribe benefited greatly, perhaps better than any other Missouri tribe unless it be the Osages, from contact with Christianity, and Chief Keeanneekuk became a devout Christian and had a great influence on the tribe. The best authority for this observation is George Catlin, the famous artist, who visited almost all of the major tribes and did paintings of the chiefs and leading braves.

The Kickapoos were on friendly terms with their white neighbors. They hunted, trapped and cultivated land. But while not warlike, they could be fiercely defensive.

When Emmanuel Hesse and British officers began recruiting eight trbies for the assault on St. Louis in 1780, the Kickapoos were not enthusiastic although a few joined. This was when George Rogers Clark, brother of William Clark, and his hastily recruited "Missourians," whipped the British - led tribes.

Just 136 years ago last Thursday, at Castor Hill in St. Louis County, the Kickapoos signed a treaty with the United States ceding all their land in Missouri in return for 1,200 square miles of land north and west of Leavenworth.

The Kickapoos were of the Algonquin stock and are known to have become strong in Wisconsin and Illinois. One account says that in 1797 they established a village near Ste. Genevieve. Another relates that they first settled at the confluence of the Missouri and Mississippi rivers, in 1805. In 1808 there were about 20,000 Indians in Missouri - Osages, Missouris, Iowas, Sacs, Fox, Kickapoos, Shawnees and Delawares. The French had gotten along fairly well with the tribes and so did the pioneers coming from the East.

From 1804 to 1820 there were three treaties with Indians regarding land in Missouri. In 1804 the Sac and Fox ceded land for which they received money and annuities, but no land. In 1808 the Great and Little Osage tribes ceded land for money, annuities and other considerations, and in 1819 the government ceded land to the Kickapoos in Missouri who were from Indiana and Illinois.

In 1812 a band of Kickapoos settled in what is now the southwest par of Springfield, Mo., and from 1819 to 1832 they occupied the north half of what is now Greene County. In 1829-30 the first white settlers, John P. Campbell and William Fulbright, arrived to establish homes in the Springfield area.

When the Illinois Kickapoos went to Southwest Missouri in 1819 and afterward, the Osages began to complain to the government that they had sold their lands to the whites and did not like the idea of the Kickapoos coming in to kill their game and settle on the land. There were a few encounters and several Kickapoo families moved on to Kansas, many more in 1832 under a new treaty.

William Clark of Lewis and Clark fame found himself mighty busy for 31 years as federal superintendent of Indian affairs. He was friendly with the tribes, and except for some warpath "brush fires" kept the Missouri tribes from any large scale war except for an Osage uprising shortly before his death on September 1, 1838.

There were some Kickapoos in Green County to lend a helping hand in 1838 to the Cherokees on the "Trail of Tears" tragedy, but like all other tribes the Kickapoos were gradually pushed westward and southwestward by those who taught them Christianity.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — South Africa has less observable racial tension than the United States, Pretoria University Prof. Ben Marais told the South African Institute of Race Relations.

Marais, who lectures in Christian history, said the lack of obvious tension does not mean this country is closer to solving its race problem. It might merely mean South Africa has not yet reached the same stage as the U.S.

There are differences between the racial problems in the two countries, he said. Americans did not always realize most black South Africans still have ties with their tribal background whereas American Negroes constitute a group without tribal ties.

FIRE PREVENTION STRESSED BY NSC

Each year, according to National Safety Council statistics, farm fires result in the loss of 500 lives and $200 million in property damage.

The Council particularly stressed prevention of farm fires since fire damage to farms and rural property is three to six times greater than in the average city fire.

Jack Burke, a program specialist in the Council's Farm Department, explains that it takes longer for fire fighters to get to the scene than it does in the average city.

A common problem on farms, according to the safety specialist, is clutter.

"Stuff piles up or is strewn about, offering an open invitation to fires - not to mention falls, cuts, bruises, shocks, splinters, and poisonings," Burke says.

Preventive measures, Burke says, are relatively simple if done routinely:

—Keep buildings free of unneeded combustible material and accumulations of chaff, straw and dust.

—Rid the farmstead of dry weeds, brush and old lumber.

—Keep paint rags in metal containers.

—Store farm fuels 40 or more feet from buildings.

—Keep small quantities of fuels in sturdy, well- marked metal containers.

—Burn rubbish at a safe distace from buildings and other combustibles, and only when the wind is calm.

—Check electrical systems and make necessary repairs.

—Watch smoking in buildings.

—Check daily the temperature of newly stored hay.

—Place portable heaters away from anything that could catch fire.

—Place fire extinguishers in buildings, and on tractors, self-propelled harvesting machinery and trucks.

Dear Mr. Cashon:

I would like to tell you of the immediate results I received from placing a classified ad in The Daily Standard.

The pool table I advertised for sale was sold the very first day the ad appeared in your paper. I received many telephone calls concerning this classified ad. These inquiries came not only from Sikeston, but from many surrounding communities.

With a press run of over 10,000 each day, I can understand the big area covered by The Daily Standard and the large number of readers you must have. I was more than satisfied from the great response I received from my ad.

Sincerely,
Leroy Hardin

REBS VS MIZZOU IN ORANGE?

It's a long time until the annual bowl games get under way and yet from reliable sources comes word that if the Orange Bowl selection committee has its way there'll be a matching of the University of Mississippi and the University of Missouri in the 1970 Orange Bowl Classic at Miami.

Word has already leaked from the Ole Miss camp that players, in an unofficial vote, have decided to vote to accept a Orange bid, should it present itself at season's end. Unofficially Orange committeemen have expressed themselves as seeing both teams finishing with no worse than a 8-2 record and, what with Mizzou's 35-10 stunning of Bear Bryant's 'Bama contingent last season Missouri alumni would like to see Mizzou tangle with wiley Coach Johnny Vaught's experience laden Rebels. The Rebs trampled Va. Tech. 34-17 in last year's Liberty Bowl after training 17-0.

Ole Miss returned 42 lettermen this season and what with the sure passing dual there at Archie Manning at the controls -- he's already been named as the Southeastern Conference's best passer -- plus the fact that the Vaughtmen lost seven via the senior route, should be the prime target of all SEC teams.

Both Ole Miss and Missouri have been picked in the top 10 of most of the pre-season polls, the Rebels being given the top notch in at one selection and ranking, along with Missouri, at from 4-5 to 8-9 in most of the others. Experts seeing Missouri losing a pair in winning the Big Eight and the Rebs possibly losing the same number-- Georgia and Alabama, Tennessee or LSU. Oklahoma, Kansas and Colorado pose Missouri top threats.

If it does mate rialize it should be a whale of a contest, what with Vaught's expected unveiling of a new series of pro set formations and Missouri also expected to "open up its game."

VAUGHT TOP WINNER

In games played over a 20 year span Vaught tops the nation as the winningest coach percentagewise, showing a 22 year record of 187 wins against 56 losses and 12 ties over that span for a .755 percentage while Bear Bryant in 24 years of coaching has 187 wins against 56 losses and 15 deadlocks. Missouri's Dan Devine, operational for 14 years has a percentage of .747 off of 105 wins, 33 losses and eight ties. Nebraska's Bob Devaney, a junior member of the top Big Four having coached only 12 seasons, is the percentage leader at .772 with 94 wins, 26 losses and five ties.

KINARD CHOSEN AGAIN

Frank (The Bruiser) Kinard, adjudged the greatest tackle that ever planted a cleat on gridiron turf, has done it again. Kinard was chosen as a pairing tackle this week in a poll of the greatest football players of the last 40 years. After gaining recognition as Mississippi's first All-American (1936-37) he joined ranks with Brooklyn of the old National League and immediately started gaining recognition. Today he holds distinctions as All National League in 1940, 41, 44, 46; picked on the Football Writer's Association All-Pro of 1938-40; the UP All-America Conference pro in; became an all time All-America selection as he gained a tackle berth on Christy Walsh's 25-year All-America Board team -- defeating pairing tackle Ed Widseth of Minnesota 21-15 for the top tackle slot. He is a charter member of the Football Hall of Fame; the All Time All-American selection; of the Helm's Foundation College Hall of Fame and Pop Warner's all time team.

HERE AND THERE . . . The 1969 Ole Miss Rebel Football Guide, edited by Rebel sports publicity director Billy Gates, is a joy to behold, with its 220 pages and multi- colored cover again showing the dedication this veteran publicity man has done at Oxford...His 1968 Guide was one of the eight District winners across the nation, in District 3 and this year's compilation should top anything else a pub director could come up with... its the Rebs first link with College Football's Centennial observance. Gates has long been noted as possibly he most statistically minded director in the nation... Bootheel squirrel hunters just won't give up... despite unsuccessful trips to their usually prolific Van Buran area woods they plan return trips next week.. seems the story is spreading that the squirrels are migrating into the area from other areas even worse off for food than Van Buren... the first of what is expected to be an Annual Casting Clinic, will be held beginning Sept. 29, at the parking lot of Wal-Mart Discount Center on East Malone... it will conclude with a Saturday-Sunday run at a Bootheel Lake... the even is co-sponsored by The Daily Standard and Wal-Mart... both kids and oldsters, desiring to learn to cast, or improve their casting, may register at Wal-Mart... several fishing experts will handle the instruction periods.

FIND QUOTE

JERUSALEM (AP) A 1,500-year-old quote from the Bible has been discovered on the sacred Western (Wailing) Wall of the Great Jewish temple.

A leading Israeli archaeologist says it proves Jews lived in and worshipped Jerusalem in 400 A.D.

Prof. Benyamin Mazar, heading excavations around the temple walls, said the sentence was from Isaiah, Chapter 66, verse 14:

"And when ye see this, your heart shall rejoice, and your bones shall flourish like an herb."

Mazar said the inscription was written at the time Jerusalem was ruled by Roman Emperor Julian, who permitted the Jews to rebuild part of the temple destroyed by an earlier Roman conqueror.

"The inscription proves we were there at that time, and that we longed for Jerusalem even then," Mazar said.

Most archaeological finds in the wall area so far have been of Moslem nature.

Flying Cross Awarded to Captain Kinkade

BERNIE - Capt. Maurice Edward Kinkade, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kinkade of Bernie has been awarded The Distinguished Flying Cross.

The citation reads: Capt. Maurice E. Kinkade distinguished himself by extraordinary achievement while participating in aerial flight as an EF-4C Aircraft Commander on June 17, 1968. On that date, Capt. Kinkade was tasked to fly a low level reconnaissance mission over North Vietnam after encountering intense ground fire on his first garget run, Capt. Kinkade heroically elected to run a nearby target despite the heavy anti-aircraft fire. Through his great courage and outstanding professionalism, valuable intelligence concerning the disposition of hostile forces was obtained. The professional competence, aerial skill and devotion to duty displayed by Capt. Kinkade reflect great credit upon himself and the United Air Force.

Capt. Kinkade entered the Air Force in June 1964 as a 2nd Lieutenant.

Captain and Mrs. Kinkade are living in Alconburg, England where he is stationed.

If You Were the Judge

Malpractice May Not Involve Patient

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Harry took his unwilling nephew to a doctor for a shot. When the gleaming needle was injected, however, it was Harry, and not his nephew, who let out a howl. In the confusion created by the squirming nephew, with Harry trying to hold him down, the doctor missed the target and jabbed the needle into Harry's hand.

While it took several days for Harry's hand to become seriously infected, it took Harry several long years to start a lawsuit against the doctor for his injuries.

"He waited too long in starting the action," the doctor's lawyer argued in court. "The time limit in which a person is required to start a malpractice action has long since expired."

"But I'm suing him for negligence and not malpractice," was Harry's answer. "For malpractice, there must be a doctor-patient relationship and I wasn't his patient. My nephew was."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you consider the lawsuit one for malpractice and thus, barred by the passage of time?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! He held that malpractice is the failure of a doctor to exercise that degree of care, skill and diligence required of him; that there need not be a doctor-patient relationship for a malpractice suit. Therefore, by not having started the action within the time prescribed for a malpractice suit, concluded the judge, Harry's action had to be dismissed. (Based upon a 1959 U.S. Court of Appeals Decision.)

Private School Group May Seek Defeat of Opposing Legislators

ST. LOUIS (AP)—State legislators who do not support state aid to private schools may be opposed actively by the Missouri Association on non-public schools, Chairman James J. Powers said Tuesday night.

Powers, a member of the school office of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of St. Louis, told representatives of 22 church parishes at a meeting on school matters said the association will strive to elect legislators sympathetic to its position.

Powers said recently initial efforts of the association will be directed toward Catholic schools. He said other sectors of the non-public school community were in sympathy and would become full partners in the organization's campaign.

Doctor of Jurisprudence Degrees Awarded

COLUMBIA — Alumni of the school of law, University of Missouri, who received the bachelor of law degree upon their graduation prior to 1965, continue to request the doctor of jurisprudence degree. The school has been awarding the J. D. degree since 1965 to graduates.

To date, more than 1,000 lawyers who graduated before 1965 have been awarded the new J. D. diplomas. Dean Willard L. Eckhardt said that in changing from the LL.B. to the J.D., the School took the position that its graduates were entitled to a degree with doctoral status to distinguish their professional degree from the undergraduate bachelor degree. Most of the nation's law schools now award the J.D.

The 97-year-old law school has about 2,000 living alumni, most of them in Missouri. Requests for the J.D. diplomas have come from graduates in 39 states.

Among lawyers to whom the new diplomas have been issued are:

Cape Girardeau - C. Gene Fee, Carol Jean Staples Fee, and Stephen N. Linbaugh.

Portageville - John Ragan Bailey.

Caruthersville - James Edward Reeves.

Sikeston - James D. Sickal and John H. Sides.

Dexter- C. H. Parsons Jr.

House Rejects District Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House turned down a plan Wednesday to award electoral votes to presidential candidates on the basis of congressional districts rather than states.

In 192-159 vote against the district plan boosted the chances of another proposed electoral reform which would abolish the electoral vote system in favor of direct popular elections.

Many members who support the district plan have said they would vote for direct election on final passage if the district plan failed.

Final passage requires a two-thirds majority vote.

Other plans are still to be offered before the House brings its historic debate on electoral reform to close. But the district plan was believed to have had the most support among the alternatives to direct election.

DENVER (AP) — Charles (Red) Ruffing, once a New York Yankee pitching star and now at 64 a pitching coach for the Denver Bears, says he didn't hear anyone yell when he was struck by a batted ball in practice. New Shows Promising Additions

NEW YORK (AP) — wo new offerings, presented on ABC and NBC Wednesday night, promise to be fine additions to the television season: "Room 222" and "Then Came Bronson."

Bronson first rode his motorcycle onto the NBC screen last season in one of those movies-for-TV and it appeared to be just another action show, about a laconic young man riding a motorcycle from adventure to adventure.

But if the series' first episode is typical, it will be much more. The program had Bronson picking up a job at a summer camp for disturbed children. The story then focused on one boy who was completely withdrawn, without speech and self-destructive.

The hour was primarily devoted to showing how Bronson used the boy's affection and interest in the motorcycle to reach his troubled mind. Although the story was a delicate tapestry it was not without drama. The boy escaped from Bronson during a critical moment and his final breakthrough was moving.

Michael Parks in the title role is a silent, sober young man who reminds one of the late James Dean. The opening segment, however, was stolen by Mark Lester, who played the disturbed boy with conviction.

"Room 222" centered on Pete Dixon, a history teacher in a big city high school. The first episode, introducing the continuing characters, told how a sympathetic and involved instructor kept a bright pupil from being shipped to an inferior school.

While the physical background of the half-hour ABC series is reminiscent of the old "Mr. Novak" series, this one tackles schools and teachers from another angle. It probably must be counted a situation comedy—what else has a laugh track?—but Lloyd Haynes, a newcomer, makes a vital, attractive young man of the history teacher. The fact that he is black is noted, but not hammered in.

The program made its points, about learning, about human and race relations, but with dispatch and managed to get in some rich humor and amusing lines frequently.

"The Courtship of Eddie's Father," which preceded it on ABC, fared less well. Central characters in this were a young widower, played by Bill Bixby, and the 6-year-old son who even in the first show seemed to be the more mature, less flappalle.

The show's gimmick apparently will be the boy's determination to find a wife for his father. In the first episode he invited home a candidate, but it all moved rather slowly and predictably. Miyoshi Umeki played the family housekeeper and some of the jokes were based on language problems.

The series aims to pluck the heartstrings while evoking laughter, but falls a bit flat.

Mamie Visits Truman Library

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Mamie Eisenhower stopped at the Truman Memorial Library Wednesday and in a 20- minute span called the home of former president Harry Truman and talked with Mrs. Truman.

The widow of former president Eisenhower was accompanied by Sgt. and Mrs. John Money. The sergeant served throughout World War II with Eisenhower and Mrs. Money has been with the Eisenhower family 21 years.

Mrs. Eisenhower was met at the library by Dr. Philip Brooks, director, and was taken to the offices maintained there for Truman. She called the Truman home from the office.

In the library proper Mrs. Eisenhower took interest in a painting of her late husband. It hangs across from one of Truman in the entranceway to a replica of the presidential office.

She also examined an autograph of Eisenhower's on "Crusade in Europe," a book by the World War II general. The autographed copy has been on display in a special case just west of the main lobby.

Mrs. Eisenhower was dressed in a black and white print dress, was bareheaded and had black gloves.

Three Hospitalized After Accidents

Three were hospitalized after two highway accidents Wednesday.

The passengers injured were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital. They were Esther Campbell, 18, and Mrs. Consuelo Escalanti, 44, both of Grand Rapids.

The driver lost control, causing the vehicle to go into a ditch and overturn.

Harol Davis, 20, Bardwell, Tex., lost control of his 1969 Rambler, while coming off the Cairo bridge today at 5:30 a.m.

The car went down a steep levee and overturned.

The annexation would bring 500 acres into the city near the intersections of interstates 57 and 55.

Last Kansas Death Row Cell Empty

LANSING, Kan. (AP) - Death row is quiet today at the Kansas State Penitentiary for the first time since anyone now here can recall. All of the 6-by-10-foot death row cells are empty.

A prison spokesman said it is the first time since 1944, when the first hanging took place after the death penalty was reestablished in Kansas.

William Frederick Zimmer, who had spent nearly four years in isolation in the south wing of the maximum security building here, was the last occupant of a death row cell.

Zimmer was received in 1965 under sentence of death in the kidnap-slaying of a 7-year-old Topeka girl. Last week a Shawnee county district judge set aside his death sentence. The judge said prospective jurors in the Zimmer trial had been excluded if they had scruples against capital punishment. He cited a U. S. Supreme Court decision that such exclusion was unconstitutional.

Nineteen executions in all were carried out on the Lansing gallows since March 10, 1944. There were three executions that year. Since then there were two in 1947; one each in 1950, 1951 and 1952; three in 1954; three in 1955; one in 1962 and four in 1965.

Four of those hanged were military prisoners executed by the state under an agreement with the Army. The last hangings there were in June 22, 1965, when James D. Latham and George R. York, were executed for the murder of a Kansas railroad worker.

The maximum security building isn't empty, however, since it also houses men who are held in isolation or require segregation from the rest of the inmate population.

East Prairie Man Dies in Wyoming

RAWLINS, Wyo. (AP) — A truck pulling a load of bombs went off a freeway embankment west of Rawlins early today, killing a Missouri drive who was sleeping in a compartment behind the cab.

There was no explosion. but the highway patrol closed a secondary road that crosses under the freeway near the accident.

Dead is Donald R. Husk, 33, of East Prairie, Mo.

The driver and a third man, William W. Brady, 28, of Waco, Texas and Wayne L. Stallings, 26, of Charleston, Mo., are in critical condition at the Rawlins hospital.

The patrol said the accident occurred at 2:20 a.m. when the driver apparently fell asleep. The truck and its trailer tumbled off Interstate 80 five miles west of Rawlins and went down an embankment.

The jolt dislodged the load of bombs on the trailer and they shifted forward, sheering off the sleeping compartment and the cab.

An ordnance team from Ft. Carson, Colo, was being flown by helicopter to Rawlins to gather up the bombs which reportedly were scattered over a large area.

Both Stallings and Brady suffered a broken back, and multiple cuts and bruises.

The Shelby Funeral Home in East Prairie, Mo., is in charge of funeral arrangements for Rusk.

BY E. J. MAYS
State Editor

DEXTER - Pomp and beauty will prevail at 6 p.m. tonight as the annual Stoddard County Fall Festival parade travels a two-mile parade trek, ending at the fair grounds, with bands, swinging majorettes, beauty queens and unusual floats participating.

Prizes of $50, $25 and $15 will be awarded the first through third place float winners in school and general entry classes.

The 1969 Miss Stoddard County and Little Miss Stoddard County, will lead the parade.

Star City and Mingo 4-H clubbers dominated the fair's second pig scramble as Mickey Huey and Charles Smith and Mike Jones and Tommy Schuerenberg of Mingo latched onto prize gilts while David Gasser of Puxico recorded the catch of the fifth available pig. Steve Kenna of Mingo and Mike Smith failed to score after losing grips on the oil slicked swine.

The winning 4-Hers, like the winning FFA quintet of Tuesday night, promise, if possible to give a gilt each for next year's pig scramble, which is sponsored by the Farm Bureau. This is the 15th year the scramble has been held.

Darrell Schurenberg and Donald Kenna of Mingo and Stacy Hyden of Puxico, a trio of 1968 winners, donated gilts used last night and Farm Bureau members Sam Huey and Bob Mayer each contributed a gilt to the scramble.

A shetland pony show at the arena and a pony pulling contest are slated for 7:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. respectively Thursday night, following completion of the parade.

A 6 p.m. Thursday deadline will be observed for the entry of all livestock entries.

Kidney Patient Admits Stealing to Ease Pain

KENNETT - Dunklin County Sheriff Raymond Scott announced today he has obtained a full confession from a Kennett man for the burglaries of the Doctors Dunmire-Cash and Meltenberger-Legan Clinics.

Sheriff Scott said last night he obtained a confession from Vernise Howe, 21, of Kennett. Howe told the sheriff that he had committee both burglaries on September 4, because he was in severe pain, and he needed the pain-killing medicine he stole. Taken in the burglaries were several vials of Talwin, a pain-killing drug.

Howe told Sheriff Scott he couldn't get any more shots from the doctor, and he had broken into the clinics and took the Talwin. Nothing else was disturbed at either clinic. Howe said in his confession that with the Talwin, he could give himself the shots he needed.

Sheriff Scott said today that Howe's pain was obviously so great, that he broke into the buildings and took the medicine. "He said he knew exactly where the drug was kept in the clinics," Scott said.

Howe, who received area attention when his plight was learned on his kidney condition, has to undergo twice a week a seven-hour blood process. Sheriff Scott said a special kidney machine pumps all the blood from his body and purifies it. The process takes seven hours, and must be undergone twice a week for survival.

Scott said today Howe was not admitted to jail and no charges have been filed.

Also, the interchange at route A will only have two of the ramps in use, with two way traffic on each ramp.

This is necessary as traffic is being carried is entirely on the N.B.L., while the S.B.L. is being re-built with asphaltic concrete, and route K must be closed to complete construction work on it.

Improved Air Service Promised

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Ozark Air Lines promised dissatisfied Cape Girardeau, Mo., residents Wednesday something will be done about providing service for passengers who have been unable to board Ozark planes for lack of space.

Grant Rees, Ozark's president of airport operations, said a turn around flight from St. Louis to Cape Girardeau will be initiated next month to take care of passengers not now being accommodated.

Rees, in response to complaints that there are not enough personnel to handle the Ozark ticket counter at Cape Girardeau, said extra telephones will be installed and another employe will be added.

Debbie Quits New TV Show

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Debbie Reynolds quit her first television series almost before it began, objecting to the presentation of a cigarette commercial during its premiere.

"I will not be a party to such commercials," she told the National Broadcasting Co. Wednesday.

"We're rather mystified," said NBC-TV Vice President Mort Werner. A network spokesman said "Miss Reynolds' own people" had known about the commercial since March.

The actress said she discovered it Tuesday night, the first commercial in the premiere of her "Debbie Reynolds Show," and, "I was shocked." At noon Wednesday she quit.

"I consider cigarette commercials directly opposed to health and well being," she said. "This gesture is a complete breach of my understanding and agreement with NBC."

But the 36-year-old actress said she'd finish a shooting schedule today, leaving the network 10 complete shows of 25 scheduled. The NBC spokesman said the 10 probably would be aired.

Dinis Wins New Hearing On Autopsy

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) - Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis was granted a new hearing today on his petition for an autopsy on the body of Mary Jo Kopechne after he filed an amended version that said a certain amount of blood was present in the mouth and nose of the dead girl.

Judge Bernard C. Brominski of Luzerne County Common pleas court set Sept. 29 at 10 a.m. for the hearing requested by the New Bedford, Mass. prosecutor.

Miss Kopechne, a Washington, D. C., secretary, was found dead July 19 in Sen. Kennedy's car which had gone off a bridge into a pond on Chappaquiddick Island off the Massachusetts coast.

An inquest into her death was postponed earlier this month.

Dinis' disclosures were contained in a four-page letter sent to the Luzurne County, Pa., Court of Common Please, where a judge demanded more evidence from Dinis before granting permission for a hearing to determine if an autopsy was necessary.

"There appear on the white shirt worn by Mary Jo Kopechne 'washed out' reddish brown and brown stains on the backs of both sleeves, the back and collar; that these stains give positive benzidine reaction, and indication of the presence of residual traces of blood; that said residue is of insufficient amount to make further tests as to specific origin or type," said the letter released by Dinis' assistant, Armand Fernandez.

"Investigation has revealed there was present a certain amount of blood in both Mary Jo Kopechne's mouth and nose, which may or may hot have been consistent with death by drowning."

The letter said these facts were not available to Dinis until after the girl was buried in Larksville, Pa.

Kidnap Victim's Father Dies

KANSAS CITY (AP) - Robert C. Greenlease, father of Bobby Greenlease a child kidnap-murder victim in the early 1950s, died Wednesday night at his home in suburban Mission Hills, Kan. He was 87 years old.

Greenlease made a fortune as an automobile distributor when that industry was in its infancy. He was honored for over 50 years activity in distributing and selling Cadillac automobiles and was a partner in operations that covered a large part of the country west of the Mississippi River for that line of cars. He was involved in General Motors dealer operations particularly in Oklahoma and Texas.

In September, 1953, his six-year-old son Bobby Greenlease was kidnaped from a private school in Kansas City and held for ransom.

Cairo Report Says Nasser Ill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Gamal Abdel Nasser is reported out of action indefinitely due to illness, but it isn't clear who's running Egypt.

The semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahram reported today that the 51-year-old president came down with an "acute influenza infection" following the Arab summit meeting in Cairo two weeks ago and is now under the care of three doctors.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — President Nixon, making his first appearance before a global forum, urgently appealed to all members of the United Nations today to "take an active hand" in promoting a Vietnam peace.

In an address for the U.N. General Assembly, and for live television-radio broadcast, Nixon held Hanoi wholly responsible for the long stalemate in Paris negotiations.

The President urged all 126 member countries of the United Nations to "use your best diplomatic efforts" to break down what he pictured as the intransigence of Hanoi.

Springing no surpises in his first speech to the world organization, Nixon again went on record as favoring sober and serious negotiations with the Soviet Union on the Middle East, arms race curbs and other topics.

And, he said, "Whenever the leaders of Communist China choose to abandon their self-imposed isolation, we are ready to talk with them in the same frank and serious spirit."

Looking toward broad international cooperation in areas ranging from population control and space exploration to a counterattack against aircraft hijackings, Nixon asserted:

" ... Let us press toward an open world—a world of open doors, open hearts, open minds —a world open to the exchange of ideas and of people, and open to the reach of the human spirit —a world open in its search for truth, and unconcerned with the fate of old dogmas and isms—a world open at last to the light of justice, and reason, and to the achievement of that true peace which the people of every land carry in their hearts and celebrate in their hopes."

The President, accompanied by Mrs. Nixon, was making a quick roundtrip to New York from the capital, but staying long enough to meet privately during the afternoon with a number of visiting foreign ministers, and to entertain U.N. diplomats at an evening reception.

No formal conference with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei N. Gromyko was scheduled.

In discussing Vietnam, Nixon once again said "our one limited but fundamental objective" there is to ensure South Vietnam's right of self-determination without outside interference. On that point, the United States will not compromise, he stated. As for lack of progress in Paris, he said:

"The missing ingredient so far has been the willingness of the other side to talk on any terms other than those that would predetermine the result and deny the right of self-determination to the people of South Vietnam."

Once the other side is genuinely willing to reach agreement, he said, "The practical solutions can readily be found."

Then he voiced his appeal:

"This makes it urgent that the U.N. members who have long taken an active interest in peace in Vietnam now take an active hand in achieving it...

"In the name of peace, I urge all of you here—representing 126 nations—to use your best diplomatic efforts to persuade Hanoi to move seriously into the negotiations which could end this war."

The Soviet Union was taken to task by Nixon, for not yet agreeing to negotiations on limitation of strategic arms.

"The date we proposed for the opening of talks has passed for lack of response," he said. "We remain ready ..." The United States had suggested an early August beginning.

Picturing the arms race as becoming a more serious problem with the passage of time, Nixon conceded complex issues are involved. But he said:"We are prepared to deal with them seriously, concretely and purposefully—and to make a determined effort not only to limit the buildup of strategic arms, but to reverse it."

As for the strife-ridden Middle East, on which the United States and Russia today renew already extensive consultations, Nixon said recent violence there "points up anew the urgency of a stable peace."

Blackwell Absent as Hearnes' Tax Bill Passes

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - The Missouri Senate passed Gov. Warren E. Hearnes: $112.7 million income tax bill today after a long argument.

The vote sending the bill to the house for action next week was 21-11. Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, its chief opponent, was absent when the final vote came.

The bill was advanced to position for passage Wednesday on a 21-11 vote, three more than the 18 needed to pass it. Once past the Senate it goes to the House for consideration there next week.

The key vote in the long tax battle came Wednesday when the Senate defeated a final attempt by Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, to cut out any personal income tax increase. His substitute was downed 7-26.

Then a plan offered by Sen. Richard M. Webster, R-Carthage, as a compromise was defeated 28-5. It would have yielded an estimated $141 million in 18 months by reducing the individual tax hike.

He called it an effort "to meet a spendthrift administration half way" and charged the governor's bill actually would raise $176 million, or $66 million more than the governor says is needed to finance the 1970-71 budget.

A battle also developed over the so-called tax simplification features of the administratione bill. Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R Clayton, said they really would make things more complicated and would not align Missouri's tax procedure with the federal law as promised.

The Senate rejected several Jones amendments to this part of the bill but adopted one. It would let a taxpayer take a tax credit on any city earnings tax he pays over 1 per cent. Jones said it would help the cities in the future.

St. Louis now levies a 1 per cent earnings tax and Kansas City 1 ½ of 1 per cent.

Efforts to raise the exemption for each dependent from $400 to either $600 or $700 were defeated on grounds that would cut too deeply into the state's revenue.

If the bill gets through both houses, Blackwell, who has fought any individual tax increase ever since last January, said he would start circulating petitions to have the law defeated by a referendum vote in the 1970 general election.

Efforts to tack a referendum provision on the bill also are expected in the House next week.

End to B52 Raids May Be Offered for De-Escalation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is prepared to negotiate an end to B52 raids in South Vietnam in return for enemy steps to de-escalate the war, U.S. officials report.

The eight-engine, high-flying bombers are the most dreaded and least costly of American weapons being used in the war, officlas say, and some believe the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong might be willing to pay a price to get the attacks stopped.

President Nixon suspended B52 raids for 36 hours last week at the end of a cease-fire called by the enemy to memorialize the late President Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam.

White House sources said this week a major reason for the suspension was to make clear to the new leadership in Hanoi that everything in the war is negotiable except the right of self-determination for the South Vietnamese people.

The primary cause of the suspension was military. Nixon feit that if the enemy intended to prolong the cease-fire indefinitely he wanted to encourage them rather than take the initiative with new bombing raids which could quickly wreck any such attempt at de-escalation.

But Nixon's hopes, however slender, were quickly blasted as enemy troops resumed operations when the cease-fire ended.

Last week officials here denied any signal had been directed toward the enemy for which the U.S. expected a response. Tuesday, however, in explaining President Nixon's latest troop withdrawal decision, White House sources said the B52 suspension definitely was a signal, one to which the new leadership in Hanoi might be slow in reacting.

President Nixon has indicated for months that if he could not negotiate a mutual withdrawal of troops and a peace settlement wanted to de-escalate the war as much as possible by action not requiring agreement with the enemy.

At present, only his troop withdrawal program seems to offer any immediate hope for progressively extricating the U.S. from the war, but the possibility of working out a de-escalation arrangement actively interests Washington policy makers. Such an arrangement could be negotiated or might be arrived at by parallel actions.

White House and State Department sources report the Paris peace talks are totally deadlocked. While there is some speculation the post-Ho Chi Minh regime in Hanoi might be more peacefully inclined, top policy makers here are deeply skeptical.

"We have to realize that the dead hand of their departed leader is likely to paralyze their policy for quite some time, one official said.

DEFANGING THE PANTHERS

It's probably too much to hope that the arrest of the national chairman of the radical Black Panther party, Bobby Seale, would end the eign of terror of that group once and for all.

Phillip Abbott Luce, a former leader of the so-called New Left, gives credit to Stokeley Carmichael and SNCC for the birth of the Panthers. This may or may not be true, but the place or origin is of little consequence now. They exist and they grow more dangerous with each passing day.

A former leader of the Panthers, Huey Newton, is already in a California prison for killing an Oakland policeman. We hope that Bobby Seale will join him there. They deserve one another.

Ironically, Seale's arrest was for the murder of another Panther in New Haven, Connecticut. The murdered man was a New York Panther. He was found mutilated and burned in a small stream last May. Police believe that he was tried in a Panther kangaroo court on charges of disloyalty to the party. This should be evidence to everyone as to just how vicious this pack of animals can be. They operate on the theory that fear is a weapon for use against black and white. They terrorize ghetto-dwellers into submission in much the same manner as the Mafia. They pretend to be concerned for the plight of the Negro, but they plunder without regard for race, creed or color.

It is time for an all-out drive against the Black Panthers. We agree with those who say that people cannot be made to like each other just by passing a law. But we can stop bigotry. Organized terror and murder must be stopped before it stops us. Whether that hate comes from organized groups like the Mafia, or organized revolutionaries like the Panthers, is of no importance.

We hope that investigation of these factions and their followers will be pressed by Attorney General John Mitchell and the Nixon administration.

SEPTEMBER IS FAMILY FITNESS MONTH

Don't sit there! Exercise!

That's the word from the Family Fitness Council which is sponsoring National Family Fitness Month in September.

Objective of the month-long event is to crystallize attention on the urgent need for daily exercise for figure control and health.

"There is no substitute for daily exercise in developing a supple energetic body," states Herbert C. Johnson, Jr., President of the Council.

"The development of equipment for home use is a psychological inducement to use it regularly, unaffected by weather and with a cloak of privacy," Johnson points out.

GO HOME, BUCKY

A century-and-a-half ago George Noel Gordon - Lord Byron - wrote the famous words: "Tis strange, but true; for truth is always strange, - Stranger than fiction."

Over two years ago, Bucky Still of Smyrna, Delaware, disappeared from his parents' home. He was nineteen years old and his parents had left him at home while they and another son vacationed in Florida. The brother returned home before the parents and found the house a shambles from a party that Bucky had held in their absence. Bucky, possibly fearing the wrath of his parents, took off and hasn't been heard from since.

Bucky would now be twenty one and no longer a minor. His parents have no legal hold on him. He is legally an adult. Mrs. Still is worried about his draft status. He is, according to the State News, being sought by the FBI because of his failure to report a change of address to the draft board. But his mother is more concerned about his doing what is right.

She said: "If he wanted to leave home at 19, I have nothing against it. But I'm not proud that he doesn't want to fulfill his obligation to his country.

"If I did know where he was, I would tell the draft board. I don't believe my child is better than anyone else's.

"There are so many stories where parents turn their children in. People don't realize that it takes more courage to do the right thing.

"It's a mother's instinct to protect her children, but you can't coddle them and expect them to have principles."

We feel that if Bucky is half the person his mother is, he'll go home. He left as a child; he now has the opportunity to return as a man.

HIGH COST OF COLLEGE

An emergency bill aimed at making bank loans available to college students, already passed by the Senate, is scheduled to come before the House under suspension of the rules on Monday (Sept. 15).

College students, already preoccupied by the Viet Nam war, the draft and campus protests, have something else to worry about as the 1969-70 academic year approaches. Tuition and other fees have risen steeply since September 1968. More to the point, so have interest rates. The result is that students dependent on commercial lending institutions to finance their educations are in serious trouble.

The Higher Education Act of 1965 allowed the government to pay lending institutions the interest due on loans to college students until the recipients took over repayment after graduation. Maximum interest could not exceed 6 per cent a year on the unpaid principal. A 1968 amendment extended the program through 1971 and raised the maximum interest level to 7 per cent.

In the year since the higher rate was adopted, according to the U.S. Office of Education, around 730,000 students received approximately $670 million in loans under the federally guaranteed lending program. The trouble is that the prime interest rate (the rate banks charge their preferred customers) now stands at 8½ per cent. Consequently, it is estimated that 200,000 of the 900,000 students who applied for government - guaranteed loans for this college year have been unable to find a lender.

HEW Secretary Robert H. Finch appealed to commercial lenders late last month to make loans to students despite the tight- money situation. For many students, Finch said, the availability of loans represented the "literal difference" between continuing their education or terminating it prematurely. All indications are that banks have responded favorably to Finch's plea.

The banks have acted in the expectation that Congress will further raise the interest limit on student loans. A bill that passed the Senate on Aug. 12 would add a 3 per cent "incentive allowance" to the 7 per cent ceiling on loans under the federally guaranteed program.

Several attempts to bring a bill to the floor of the House without a rule from the Rules Committee have ended in failure. Such a procedure ordinarily requires unanimous consent, and this has not been forthcoming. But passage will be possible under suspension of the rules on Monday, Sept. 15. A bill considered on a day when House rules are suspended requires a two - thirds vote for approval. No amendments from the floor are permitted.

Any loans granted this year would be for larger amounts than those extended in 1968. A recent survey by U.S. News & World Report found that four out of every five colleges and universities have raised their charges to students for the coming academic year. "A hike of $440 a year in fees for out- of- state students at Indiana University is typical of what is happening at many schools."

Such increases are burdensome not only on students eligible for loans but also on parents deemed capable by colleges and lending institutions of paying their children's education costs. The minimum annual cost of supporting a student at most Ivy League colleges is estimated at $4,000. That figure is bound to rise. Princeton and Yale both are admitting female undergraduates this autumn in a crash coeducation program. The girls no doubt will create a need for additional facilities, the cost of which probably will be passed on to them and to their male co-students in the form of higher fees in future years.

NEW YORK (AP) — "Life is constant change," said Keir Dullea, "and this is a good thing because it means there is hope.

"But half the evils of the world can be traced to the fact that people fight or are afraid of change."

It was the desire for change and adventure that led the handsome young film star, after a year at Rutgers University, to hitchhike to the West Coast, a 20-day, hardship-filled trek which he feels helped mature him considerably.

While working as an assistant carpenter to pay his way through San Francisco State College, he fell in with a group of young actors and decided on a stage career himself.

Returning here, he studied drama for two years, supported by his parents, who operate a Greenwich Village bookshop, before landing a series of stage and television roles.

Dullea—it is prounced "Doolay"—is profoundly grateful for the financial help and understanding given him by his parents.

"They realized that the stage is a highly competitive business and the chances of success in it are small," he said. "But they didn't object to my trying it. They thought it was important that I do whatever I wanted to do and enjoyed.

"So many people who don't do this, even if they are successful, end up unhappy."

An agent spotted Keir in a soap opera and suggested him for the role of the killer in "The Hoodlum Priest." Since then he has starred in a number of films, including "David and Lisa," "Madame X," "Bunny Lake Is Missing," "2001: A Space Odyssey," and "The Fox."

Currently he plays the title role in "De Sade," and is rehearsing in "Butterflies Are Free," a Broadway comedy drama which opens next month.

Keir is intensely serious about his profession and feels it satisfies a psychological need in his makeup.

"Being an actor fulfills my personal desire for change," he remarked. "But you also have to have certain consistencies in life.

"Acting fulfills the need for both change and consistency. Every role is a change, a new set of circumstances, but the field of acting itself is a consistent line of endeavor."

Keir and his wife, Susan Lessans, a former fashion director, live quietly in a small Greenwich Village apartment. It has a patio where the actor enjoys raising flowers.

A JUST SOCIETY

Canada's Prime Minister, Pierre Elliott Trudeau, has been in office half-a-year. He calls his administration the "Just Society." That may have more appeal than the "Great Society," but it is surely more demanding. He gave a long interview to the New York Times on November 27, and allowed that it "takes a hell-of-a lot of time to be a Prime Minister . . . "

Then it is revealed that he slipped away from the burdens of his office for an "unnoticed" weekend in New York City. And what do you suppose the Prime Minister did in Fun City? It's reported that he lunched with Secretary General U Thant, saw a Japanese movie (unidentified), went to a discotheque, and to see the Broadway rock musical "Hair."

The order of events is not specified; if there was entertainment at the U Thant luncheon, we will never be told; as for the Japanese movie, the only ones we can identify are "adults only" tupes which might titillate a terribly tired bachelor; the discotheque isn't named either, but Mayor Lindsy sanctions those topless go-go dancer types these days and we can only guess about Pierre's choice. But his selection of "Hair" among all the Broadway attractions is specific. That's the charmer in which the members of the cast, male and female, do a curtain - call together in the altogether. Stark naked. Even if you're a Prime Minister, if you travel all the way Ottawa for a lost weekend, you absorb all the culture you can.

Revealing as it may be, the Prime Minister's recreation is as nothing compared with the full-page interview. One quote will set the tone: . . . "because of Czechoslovakia we have evidence that the Soviet Union is weaker now than it was before; it can no longer count on Czechoslovakia as a solid ally in a military conflict."

And: ". . . I think the time has been right for a great many years to recognize the Peking Government . . . It is a country with which we should establish diplomatic relations . . . "

There are columns of such drivel to wade through: Pierre sees foreign investments as a major problem, capitalism and colonialism; thinks that detente with the USSR must govern Canadian foreign policy in NATO; insists that he is not an economic nationalist, seeks to enlist mass public involvement in the affairs of his country - our neighbor.

Pierre absorbed a great deal on his trips to Moscow and Peking.

DEFECTION TO THE WEST

During the last week of July, Anatoly Kuznetsov, regarded by many literary critics as the greatest living Russian writer, flew to London. While there, he escaped from the secret service agent guarding him and defected to the West. He was granted asylum by the government of Great Britain.

Kuznetsov had been very popular in Russia. His books had sold millions of copies, making him a wealthy man there. He also loved the country of Russia itself. Yet he chose to abandon all of this and seek refuge in the Western world.

He made this critical decision because of, in his own words, "the loss of hope." Kuznetsov explained further: "I have arrived at the complete rejection of Marxism-Leninism. I consider today that this doctrine is utterly obsolete...and threatens to go on leading to frightful social tragedies."

For those intellectuals and artists in the West who praise life in the Soviet Union, Kuznetsov's words on his writing career are significant: "Not a single one of my works has been printed in the Soviet Union as I wrote it."

Kuznetsov kept his decision to escape to himself, and confided his plans to no one. The reason he planned alone, he explained, was that "conditions of life in the Soviet Union, where everybody is obliged to spy on everybody else and where hypocrisy prevails, do not allow anyone to take the risk of entrusting a single person with such a secret."

Kuznetsov's words and actions provide further proof of the vast difference between life in the free world and life under the tyranny of communism.

Washington - Merry Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--The purchasers of brand-name drugs are helping, at least indirectly, to finance happy outings and valuable gifts for the doctors who write their prescriptions.

The big drug companies spend millions each year to proselyte and persuade doctors to prescribe drugs by their brand names. The cost is merely added to the price of brand-name drugs, which sell for as high as 10 times more than the same drugs cost under their generic names.

The doctors who accept the lavish hospitality of the drug companies, quite naturally, feel an obligation to prescribe brand-name drugs for their patients. In this way, the sick and the suffering wind up providing the money that the drug manufacturers squander on doctors.

By the conservative estimate of one insider, the pharmaceutical houses spend an average of $3,000 a year on every MD in the country. The pay-offs take the form of contest winnings, research fees, gift medical equipment and all-expenses- paid vacations.

Once the Upjohn Company sent out $5 checks to doctors across the country as an inducement for them to try Upjohn pills and powders. Other manufacturers have paid doctors to write "case reports" on their drugs.

The Eli Lilly Company likes to hand out free medical satchels to new doctors just out of medical school. Every time they open their black bags, presumably, they will be reminded to prescribe Eli Lilly medicines.

The competition to show the doctors a good time is so intense that the pharmaceutical houses have entered into a Gentlemen's Agreement not to provide free transportation for doctors beyond a 150-mile radius of the manufacturer's facilities.

--MEDICAL SPREE--

Charles Pfizer and Company, for instance, has invited a number of Philadelphia doctors and their wives to Groton, Conn., for a two-day Autumn holiday on October 8 and 9.

The letter of invitation promises lyrically: "The program envisioned would include a visit to Mystic Seaport, where sailing ships, whalers, and crafthouses of the Mid-Nineteenth Century can be visited; a steak or lobster dinner at one of Southern New England's better restaurants; possibly dancing on the evening of October 8; and, of course, a scientific inspection visit to the Pfizer Medical Research Laboratories."

Lest the doctors be wary of a sales pitch, the letter assures them: "It should be emphasized that there will be no product mention--even subliminally by packaging operations--throughout your entire visit with us."

Unhappily, however, Philadelphia is more than 150 miles from Groton's Mystic Seaport and Pfizer Pill emporium.

"Because of a Gentlemen's Agreement between other pharmaceutical companies who are competing with us for your attentions," the letter explains delicately, "we areunable to provide free transportation for guests beyond a 150-mile radius of our facilities.

"Groton is about twice that. Therefore, to satisfy this agreement, we will charge $5 per couple for transportation beyond the 150-mile limit...meals, lodging and all but (this) token expenditure for transportation will be provided for you."

NOTE: Earlier this month, the drug companies demonstrated how far they will go to discourage doctors from prescribing drugs by generic names. Dr. John Adriani, a prominent Louisiana physician, was asked to head the food and drug administration's Bureau of Medicine. In congressional testimony last May, however, he had urged the use of generic rather than brand names in prescribing drugs for the public.

Although the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association denied any intervention, several individual drug tycoons got busy behind the scenes, with the result that the Adriani appointment was scrapped. The Nixon administration didn't want to antagonize the powerful drug lobby.

--GI GRIPES--

The armed forces don't like servicemen to take their gripes to Capitol Hill, so in many little ways, the brass hats try to discourage enlisted men from writing to their congressmen.

Any GI who is caught making a congressional squawk, for instance, can expect to encounter the little unpleasantries that lieutenants are so capable of arranging. RESULT: The word gets around that it isn't smart to write to Congress.

At least one army center, however, has spelled out in writing its attitude toward congressional letters. In a memo to all personnel, the Continental Army Command Intelligence Center at Ft. Bragg, N.C., has declared peevishly:

"Your personnel section has been slightly offended here lately. It seems that some of our customers have written to their elected Representatives in Congress when the help and information was available here for them....

"A Congressional inquiry does not influence a Commander's decision. A Commander is carged with certain responsibilities and must act accordingly. The only effect a congressional letter has on the administrative process is to disrupt normal processing and delay other actions pertaining to your buddies."

The letter was signed by Chief Warrant Officer Alfred Leonardo Jr. but was approved by his Commanding Officer, Col. Charles A. Morris.

--TAX TROUBLES--

Treasury aides are busily lobbying in the Senate to modify the tax reforms passed by the house. Yet more, not less reforms are needed to correct the inequities in our tax system.

During the last fiscal year, for example, the Treasury lost a staggering $15 billion through tax loopholes. These figures were supplied by the same treasury aides who are now seeking to reopen some of the loopholes the House tried to close.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

ODD COUPLE:

Arthur Goldberg On Mission For Richard Nixon

New York: -- Soft-spoken, itinerant Arthur J. Goldberg is a man for all seasons and for many reasons. He is also a man of many hats -- virtually all of which are in many rings, political, diplomatic and judicial.

At the moment the former UN Ambassador, who has been lining up his forces for a race next year for the seat of his late friend and ally, Sen. Robert Kennedy, is on a sensitive assignment for President Nixon's State Dept.

This rapprochement between the former Associate Justice of the high court with the Republican administration could be significant. It could mean nothing. But former Secretary of Labor Goldberg rarely takes on insignificant missions.

This assignment is part of the determined White House efforts to close the generation and ideological gap between the Soviet Union and the union of unions, the AFL-CIO.

The State Dept., which means Secretary William Rogers, has asked Ambassador Goldberg to confer with Thomas (Teddy) Gleason, president of the 80,000-member International Longshoremen's Assn. (AFL-CIO) in an effort to convince the dockwallopers' leader to end the boycott of USSR ships in American ports.

Recently, as reported in this column, the State Dept. attempted this on its own. Mr. Gleason, who likes to have it appear that he is out of this depth when he's not near his beloved tough waterfront, quite eloquently told the State Dept.'s "European Desk" that his followers would not handle "slave labor goods."

But he added that he would call his executive board together in Atlantic City (N.J.) on the eve of the National AFL-CIO Convention and put the Dept's request before them.

But soon enough "Teddy" sent word the reply would be negative. The State Dept. then turned to Mr. Goldberg, who teethed on the "foreign service" as a young labor lawyer during his Office of Strategic Service World War II days.

The former UN Ambassador agreed to talk to the longshoremen leaders and to AFL-CIO president George Meany if necessary. The lawyer's specific task is to convince the pier workers to handle, load and unload and "turn around" ships flying the Soviet flag. Mr. Goldberg believes in a reconciliation with Moscow. He had kind words to say for Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko when the (Ambassador Goldberg) was in Moscow last July.

A few days ago the State Dept. telephoned Mr. Gleason and asked him to confer with Justice Goldberg. Mr. Gleason demurred. He said he was raised on the hook and hates to get it. He pointed to Mr. Goldberg's awesome barbaining skill and complained he'd be outtalked. But he agreed to see the White House's unique ambassador.

Obviously the bitterly anti-Kremlin longshoremen are not eager to lend their broad shoulders to the building of bridges so far to the east. And just as obviously, the persistance of the State Dept. reveals the priority nature of its coexitence policy.

But inside labor, they're saying there's more to this than meets the hungry eye. Mr. Goldberg's willingness to take on this assignment, which could get him clobbered by powerful labor leaders, indicates his friendship with administration leaders. The former associate justice is an old friend of Richard Nixon for the latter's vice presidential days. Mr. Goldberg also defied the thunder during the presidential campaign when he mused publicly that the "world would not come to an end" if Mr. Nixon were elected. It didn't.

To those who know of the "mission" conjecture comes naturally. There soon will be three vacancies on the Supreme Court. Justice Black soon will be 84. Justice Douglas, not too well these days, is nearly 71. Justice Harlan is past 70 -- and not well al all.

While both Arthur Goldberg and Richard Nixon have said there is no such high court seat as a "Jewish seat" or a Catholic seat, certainly one of the three vacancies will be filled by an eminent jurist of the Jewish faith. The appointment of Mr. Goldberg could easily offset liberal criticism of the nomination of Justice Clement Haynsworth, who has been making the rounds of senatorial offices seeking support.

But conjecture is like ack-ack flak. Sometimes it's on target. Sometimes not. At the moment, on the record, Mr. Goldberg reportedly is preparing to announce his candidacy for the U. S. Senate from New York. This will mean a tough primary fight -- with no guarantee that the state's labor leaders will be throwing their hats, money and manpower in his direction.

So Ambassador Goldberg is a man for all seasons. The ex-Associate Supreme Court Justice keeps his own counsel. One thing is certain -- there is an entente cordiale between Arthur Goldberg and Richard Nixon. An odd couple to be sure.

Ann Landers

Father Demands Proof Of Daughter's Right To Be a 'Bride In White'

Dear Ann Landers: Change the name of the city. I would die if anyone knew about this.

Our daughter, Linda, age 21 and a college senior, plans to be married when she graduates next June. Linda and Tom, her fiance, were seated around the dinner table last night. Also present was our 19-year-old son and our 16-year-old daughter. We were discussing plans for the wedding. Linda said she had always wanted to be married in the traditional white wedding gown and veil. Her father said, and I quote, "Are you entitled to that privilege?" Linda turned red and replied, "What do you mean by THAT?" Her dad answered, "Are you a virgin?" Linda shot back, "What is this, the Spanish Inquisition?" Her dad replied, "If I pay for a white wedding gown I want to make sure I am not being short-changed."

Linda became indignant and shouted, "Do you want an affidavit from our family doctor?" Her dad replied, "Yes."

Both Linda and her fiance left the table. I was on the verge of tears.Our two other children were baffled.

What do you think of this? Hurry your comment.---Wrecksville USA

Dear Wreck: I think your husband's request is outrageous. Try to persuade him to unbraid his brains and give the girl a white wedding gown with no further discussion.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband has been pampered, spoiled and catered-to all his life. In the past ten years he has had affairs with four women that I know of. He always says he is sorry and promises to behave himself.

He's at it again. Divorce is out. What shall I do, Ann? Please don't tell me to take up bowling. I did that last time and it didn't help---Anchorage Dilemma.

Dear Anc: Many factors should be considered. Are there children? Is he a good father? Is there enough money for separate maintenance? How serious is his cheating? Does he become emotionally involved with women or is he just flexing his adolescent muscles? Does he cheat openly and parade around town with the bimbos or does he have enough sense to keep them out of sight?

Each woman must decide for herself if she gains or loses by throwing the bum out. Sometimes the cure is worse than the sickness.

Dear Ann Landers: Your advice to Nightmare Revisited was excellent. She was the woman who had a severe anxiety problem connected with a difficult pregnancy. I, too, had a problem. My child was born with a blood disorder. The baby lived but I was told that the same blood problem would probably be present in other children. The fear of getting pregnant again made me hate sex. Even a kiss on the cheek produced nausea. I refused to let my husband near me. It very nearly put an end to our marriage.

Thank God I had a physician who cared and a psychiatrist who was patient and wise. Without them I couldn't have made it. Keep urging people to get professional help. It saved me.---N.B.

Dear N.B.: I shall. Thanks for writing.

NEW YORK (AP) — "If you've got a pair of pliers and imagination, you can do an awful lot," said an assistant to jewelry designer Bill Smith as she held up a pair of pants made of gold coins.

The pants, along with a matching vest, were one of a number of items at a show Tuesday night of Smith's latest jewelry.

The 34-year-old designer, one of the first Negroes in the business, creates dresses, suits, capes, pants, halters and hats of rhinestones, pearls, black beads and metal chains.

Smith said his designs are "jewelry as clothing. They are strong enough so they can be clothing in themselves."

A former dancer who worked in a jewelry factory when he first came to New York and finally decided he preferred jewelry, he said his designs "can be worn over clothing or instead of clothing."

The models Tuesday draped the jewels over simple jersey dresses by Jon Haggins, over body stockings and over bare skin.

Among the standout items were a long scarf of pearls trimmed with cloth tassels, a metal cape with "pearlized" corks, a floor-length skirt of ropes of pearls, a short skirt and vest of jet beads and a pearl cape.

There are about two dozen pieces in the collection for Richilieu, retailing for between $35 and $250. The pearl scarf, for example, is $150.

Smith admitted that "not everyone can wear these things. There are many people, however who will make sacrifices for beauty."

Among the disadvantages of the jewelry clothing is their weight. The pearls Smith uses have an alabaster or plastic base, but they still make a sixfoot scarf pretty weighty.

Mrs. Eisenhower Observes Time Of Reverence

ABILENE, Kan. (AP)—Mamie Eisenhower returned to Abilene Wednesday and to the modest, native stone chapel where former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was interred last April 2.

Mrs. Eisenhower, wearing a black and white dress with a dark coat draped about her shoulders, was bareheaded as she left her car and quickly entered the chapel, called The Place of Meditation.

Since Einsehower's death the chapel has become the focal point for visitors to the 13-acre Eisenhower Center, which includes a library and museum.

The presidential crypt faces east toward the boyhood home of the former general and president, less than 100 yards away. The body of the Eisenhowers' first son, Doud Dwight, who died at the age of 3, lies next to his father.

Mrs. Eisenhower was accompanied by former Kansas Senator and Mrs. Harry Darby, John Wickman, director of the center; two Secret Service agents, and Mr. and Mrs. John Moaney.

Moaney is a retired Army master sergeant who served with the general in World War II. Mrs. Moaney has been with the Eisenhower family more than 20 years.

A crowd of about 75 persons had gathered near the fountain in front of the chapel and waited quietly under a mild September sun to see the former First Lady.

Mrs. Eisenhower remained in the chapel about 15 minutes. On entering, she appeared to be near tears, but later, she smiled and nodded a greeting to faces in the crowd as she returned to her car.

Earlier in the day the party stopped in Independence, Mo., where Mrs. Eisenhower talked on the telephone to another former first lady, Mrs. Harry S. Truman and briefly visited the Truman Memorial Library to examine mementos donated by her husband.

Capacity Crowd Expected For Mizzou Opener Sat.

COLUMBIA — Like a fellow often stung by a hornet in his ventures near the nest, Mizzou's Dan Devine has to be queasy about football openers.

Oddly enough, the nation's fourth most-successful coach didn't amass his 76.7 lifetime percentage by mowing down opponents in the season's first game. Not at Missouri, anyway.

Devine's 12th Tiger team will be trying to boost his personal 5-6 record for inaugural games to the break - even mark in Saturday's clash with the Air Force Academy. Game-time in Memorial Stadium is 1:30 CDT-- with a crowd forecast of between 52,000 and 55,000.

The Falcons, coached by Ben Martin, need not fret about first- game jitters. They picked S.M.U.'s bones, 26-22 at Dallas last Saturday night in their maiden flight.

Now the airmen return to Memorial Stadium for the first time in ten years, and they bring an impressive cast. Senior Gary Baxter is the hot pilot of the crew. He scored twice against the Mustangs, and his passes -- mostly to split end Charlie Longnecker-- kept the offense buzzing.

Halfbacks Curtis Martin and Ernie Jennings, a couple of scatbacks out of Kansas City's Central high school, provide breakaway speed in Martin's pro-T scheme -- with Jim DeOrio a solid fullback.

Linebacker Dennis Leuthauser adds the important dimension of field- goal kicking. The husky 200- pound senior from Des Moines lofted four three- pointers against S.M.U., and two conversion kicks.

"Any time they get in four- down territory," notes Coach Devine, who scouted the game with several of his assistants, "they are a threat. Leuthauser is the finest field goal kicker I've ever seen."

Missouri, the top-ten pick of several magazines, drew pre-season support on its backfield strength -- since diminished by the disability of fullback James Harrison, at 238 pounds the Tigers' most imposing threat. Last year's top scorer as a sophomore reserve, the 6 ft. 4 Texas will miss the opener with a re- pulled hamstring muscle.

Quarterback Terry McMillan of Coral Gables, Fla., is the manipulator of Mizzou's "I" formation-- and his first- string running mates are Joe Moore, Jon Staggers and Ron McBride. All are excellent runners in Devine's land-based attack -- but flashy Mel Gray at split end heads a group of improved receivers.

With senior Garnett Phelps as back- up for McMillan -- and two other young quarterbacks in the wings, Mike Farmer and Chuck Roper, the Bengals could be more versatile than a year ago.

Defensively, the outlook is less encouraging. Mizzou must replace five quality regulars from a year ago; more significantly, the Black and Gold's best returning lineman, tackle Rocky Wallace, re-injured his thigh muscle Monday night.

If Wallace can't play, that eliminates the Tigers' top pass- rusher. Last year the all-Big Eight lineman dropped enemy backs behind the line 14 times for 78 yards. Sophomore John Cowan is his replacement.

First Game Standouts

Ed Throop Larry Lawrence Mike Shafer

Coach Bill Friday and his coaching staff named two backs and one linemen as Bulldog standouts in last week's 31-14 loss to Mayfield, Ky.

Mike Shafer and Ed Throop were named as backs of the week while Larry Lawrance drew the lineman of the week call.

Shaffer, running from his halfback slot last week, picked up 31 yards on the ground and caught five passes for 74 more while Throop connected on 11 of 23 passes from his quarterback slot for 131 yards.

Lawrance was a standout on defense, playing end and also stood out from his offensive end slot where he caught three passes.

Coach Friday and his aides were still trying to patch up the offensive and defensive units for tomorrow night's Northern Division clash with Perryville after injuries took heavy toll on the Dogs.

The biggest question mark will be in the offensive back field where Throop is the only definite starter, as Charlie Dye, Mike Shafer and Turner Marshall are still nursing wounds.

Backup men for these staters are David Evans and Ted Watkins at the halfback positions and Randy Reynolds at Fullback.

Pirates Pull Even With Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The best race in the National League's East may be for second place, but Al Oliver would rather not get involved in that one unless he has to.

What he'd rather do is get involved in the last-gasp race to catch the blitzing New York Mets. Oliver got the Pirates started in that direction with a two-run homer Wednesday night that carried the Pittsburgh Pirates past the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-2. The victory drew the Pirates even with the Cardinals for third place.

"New York will be tough to beat," Oliver acknowledged, "but you never know. We have a five-game series coming up in New York and we're the type of team that could sweep them. I will say that we'll need help."

They'll need plenty of help, because New York is 11 games ahead of the Pirates and Cardinals. "We still haven't given up," Oliver added, "but if we don't get first, second will be nice."

The strong-hitting rookie, taking the "all things come to him who waits" approach, ined his 17th homer of the year over the right field fence in the eighth off loser Chuck Taylor, 7-4.

"It was an inside fast ball, sort of low," Oliver said. "The funny thing about it is I got that same pitch two times before. But that time I was waiting on the fastball and he threw one when I was swinging."

Another funny thing about it was that it wasn't a fastball.

"It was a slider," said Taylor, who, having thrown it, should know. "I didn't get it in on him as much as I wanted. He did have to go down a little to get it."

Exactly what the pitch was mattered little to Taylor. "Another mistake," he said. "It only takes one. They really got all their hits in three innings, but they got them together."

Two of the hits came in the eighth when rookie Dave Cash singled and, after two forceouts, Oliver hit the decisive home run. Four of the hits came in the third when the Pirates scored another pair of runs.

The Cardinals came back for a run in the bottom of the third on Dal Maxvill's walk and a two-out single by Curt Flood. They added another run off winner Dock Ellis, 10-16, in the eighth on Dave Ricketts' pinch double and Lou Brock's infield single.

Manager Red Schoendienst planned a little lineup juggling for today's game, the last of the Cardinals' current home stand. Schoendienst planned to play four rookies to back up pitcher Nelson Briles, 15-12. Either Steve Blass, 15-9, or Luke Walker, 2-6, was to pitch for the Pirates.

Thrower Cautious About Season Opener

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Southeast Missouri State College opens its 1969 football season at home Saturday night (Sept. 20) against Delta State College of Cleveland, Miss., and the Indian head coach Tom Thrower is making no predictions.

Thrower, beginning his second season at the helm, has been optimistic during pre-season drills, but his early optimism has now turned into caution.

He points out that he has been able to learn little about the Statesmen. "We don't have a thing on them," he says. "We always go into this game blind, but we always seem to find out they have a pretty good football team."

The Indian mentor is also troubled over some minor injuries to several members of his first units, and he says, "we just hope we can put them back together again before Saturday night."

And he is concerned about a poor scrimmage which his team turned in last Saturday. "It was real disappointing. We expected we wouldn't executive too well, but we just weren't hitting. If we don't snap out of it soon, we are going to be in real trouble."

A large crowd is expected for the 8 p.m. season opener at Houck Stadium. Both Southeast Missouri and Delta will field veteran defensive units, with the Mississippians probably having an edge. Offensively, however, the Indians would appear to be better, on paper at least.

Delta coach Horace McCool, beginning his 9th season after a 5-5 record in 1968, has seven defensive starters back from a unit which last year only allowed the opposition slightly more than 200 yards per game.

Thrower has tapped a bunch of youngsters for starting defensive assignments in two freshmen, five sophomores, two juniors, and two seniors. However, all but the freshmen lettered last year, and eight of them have been starters at some time in the past.

The two freshmen given the nod are lineback Kim Godwin of Cape Girardeau and rover back Jim Powell of Webster Groves.

On offense McCool has only four returnees from last fall's first unit and all are linemen.

Thrower, on the other hand, expects to start six seniors, two juniors, and three sophomores, ten of whom lettered and six of whom started at least part of the time last season.

The Indians also have half of their offensive backfield back for a try at their third MIAA title in as many years. They are senior fullback Bruce Hoffman of Park Forest, Ill., and All-Conference quarterback Greg Schroeder, a senior from St. Louis.

Taking over for Southeast Missouri's great halfback-receiver of the past two campaigns, John Diepenbrock, will be Art Miller, a sophomore from Kirkwood. Al Holmes, a junior college transfer from St. Louis, will fill the spot vacated by Walt Smallwood, who made honorable mention last season in one College Division All-America poll.

Holmes, according to Thrower, is as much of a breakaway threat as Smallwood was, in actually a more elusive runner than Smallwood was, but is not as good an inside runner.

Last season Delta State defeated Southeast Missouri 31-21. The two teams have played nine times over the past 15 years with the Statesmen leading the series 7-2.

Built for quiet inside and out, Ford's luxurious new 1970 LTD Brougham is offered in four- door hardtop (top), two-door hardtop (bottom) and four- door sedan models. The 1970 Fords all feature new rear and side ornamentation, new exterior colors, plus new, more formal grilles.

1970 FORD DIVISION CARS

Ford Division passenger cars for 1970 are highlighted by all-new Torino and Thunderbird lines, a new ultra-luxurious LTD Brougham series, a new mid-range engine, premium quality tires standard on most car lines and more comfort, convenience, safety and security features.

"The 1970 model year may become the first year in which the sales of intermediate-size cars catch, or surpass, sales in the standard-size market," said John Naughton, Ford Motor Company vice president and Ford Division general manager.

"This may be the 'year of the intermediates,' and Torino is our most dramatically redesigned car. Torino is longer, lower and wider with aerodynamic styling, hot performance engines and options, and our first intermediate-size four-door hardtop models," he aid.

"Thunderbird also has an all-new look with a bold front-end design with longer, lower hood, a forward-thrusting grille and exposed headlamps.

"More quiet-car luxury is offered in the standard-size Ford. The entire Ford line presents a more formal appearance with new grilles, ornamentation and rear- end design.

"Mustang comes on stronger and sportier than ever with design changes, hotter engines, bright "Grabber" colors, and interiors with upbeat stripes and houndstooth checks.

"Maverick, introduced in April as the first car of the Seventies, will remain our 'simple machine' with very few changes. Mavericks produced after September 30 will have side marker lights which flash with the turn signals, and a three-way locking steering column.

"Falcon moves into the 1970 market with the proven features of fuel economy, roomy interior and durable performance," Mr. Naughton said.

NEW FEATURES

Several new security, comfort, convenience and performance features are included in Ford Division's 51 models for 1970.

Standard tires on Fords, Torinos, Mustangs and Thunderbirds will last longer, have greater resistance to puncture and provide better traction. Radial-ply tires will be installed on all 1970 Thunderbirds, and fiberglass belted bias-ply tires will be standard on all Fords, Torinos and Mustangs.

An all-new 351-cubic-inch-displacement V-8 engine, developed with the latest computerized technology and assembled on the auto industry's most advanced production line, will be offered on 1970 Mustangs and Torinos. The engine is compact, relatively lightweight and delivers excellent performance and economy.

All bucket seats offered on Ford Division cars are of high-back design. The higher seat backs incorporate integral head restraints and provide added comfort.

For the performance buffs, all optional four-speed manual transmissions feature the competition Hurst Shifter, known for fast, smooth shifting.

An automatic release for the two-door safety latch is available on Ford, Torino, Mustang and Thunderbird models. Both front seat-back latches are automatically released when either door is opened, thereby making it easier to get into and out of the back seat.

New steering wheels on Ford, Torino, Mustang and Thunderbird models are semi-oval in design for easier driver entry and exit and better visibility of the instrument cluster.

On all models except Falcon, odometers are tamper-resistant and non-reversing.

A three-way locking steering column on all models except Falcon is designed to deter car thefts by locking the ignition, the transmission linkage and the steering wheel with the ignition switch.

A new three-point Uni-Lock Safety Harness lap and shoulder belt system— available on all models except Mavericks, Falcons and convertibles—permits outboard front seat occupants to "buckle-up" faster. The separate buckle for the shoulder belt has been eliminated and the three remaining front seat buckles are only half the previous size. The result—a neater, more convenient, more comfortable system that is as safe as ever.

Externally adjustable headlamps on Ford, Torino, Mustang, Maverick and Thunderbird make it unnecessary to remove the headlamp rims to adjust the beams.

On the same models, standard front and rear side marker lamps—amber in front and red in the rear—flash with the turn signals to provide side visibility of the driver's intention to turn.

All cars manufactured for delivery in the state of California will be equipped with an evaporative emission control system.

TORINO

The 1970 Torino has all-new design inside and out. It is longer, lower and wider than its 1969 predecessor, the Fairlane, and offers the first four-door hardtop models in Ford Division's intermediate line.

Five series provide a choice of economy, luxury and performance. Thirteen models are available in Fairlane 500, Torino, Torino GT, Torino Brougham and Torino Cobra series.

All have new grilles, taillamps and ornamentation. Concealed headlamps are optional with Torino and Torino GT models and standard on Torino Brougham models. Windshield wipers are hidden when not in use.

Interiors feature new trim, new instrument panels with horizontal speedometer and Flow-Thru Ventilation systems for quieter, more comfortable windows-up driving. Lively "Blazer" patterns — red stripe or ginger stripe trims — are available on Torino, Torino GT and Torino Cobra models. Black Watch and Rob Roy Red plaid cloth and vinyl trims are available on Torino and Torino Squire station wagons.

Torino's top performance models are Torino GT, available in the sleek SportsRoof and convertible, and Torino Cobra, available in the SportsRoof. New, optional Sport Slats backlite louvers enhance the performance look of the SportsRoof models.

THUNDERBIRD

Thunderbird models feature dramatic new design highlighted by the longer, lower hood and grille with extended center section and exposed headlamps. Two-door models have a lower roofline and more rakish front and back windows.

Other major Thunderbird features for 1970 include the standard radial-ply tires, concealed windshield wipers and radio antenna, a new Special Brougham option group for the ultimate in sports/luxury appointments and a new in-plant simulated road test for the highest possible level of quality.

Thunderbird is offered in three distinctive models—a two-door hardtop, two-door Landau and four-door Landau.

Inside, Thunderbird has a new level of luxury from the standard all-vinyl pleated trim design to the rich Brougham vinyl with leather seating surfaces combination. New front door armrests house controls for power options. The "control console" regulates power windows, power seats, power door locks and the standard left-hand remote-controlled mirror.

Thunderbird's numerous standard equipment items also include a 360- horsepower, 429-c.i.d. four-barrel V-8, SelectShift Cruise-O-Matic transmission, power steering, power front disc brakes, AM radio, electric clock and many more.

FORD

Twenty-one models in the Ford line—14 cars and seven station wagons— are offered in Custom, Custom 500, Galaxie 500, XL, LTD and the new LTD Brougham series.

New front-and rear-end design gives the Ford a more formal appearance. LTD, LTD Brougham and XL models share a dramatic new grille with a bold center section that projects slightly. Headlamps are concealed when not in use.

For 1970, Galaxie 500 as well as XL, LTD and LTD Brougham models feature the sound absorption package that has won LTD the reputation of being the quietest car on the road.

LTD Brougham brings a new, higher-than-ever level of luxury to the Ford car with unique interior trim, exterior ornamentation and many other appearance and convenience items.

Power front disc brakes are now standard on LTD, LTD Brougham and Country Squire and optional on all other models, and Ford's 250-h.p., 351-c.i.d. two-barrel V-8 is now standard on XL, LTD, LTD Brougham and all station wagon models. It is the base V-8 engine option on Galaxie 500 models.

New exterior paint and vinyl roof colors are offered. Vinyl roofs and plaid cloth and vinyl interior trims also are available on station wagons.

MUSTANG

The 1970 Mustang offers a completely redesigned front and rear. Interiors offer bold new colors and optional patterned upholstery.

Seven models are available including the hardtop, convertible, fastback-designed SportsRoof, Grande hardtop, Mach I, Boss 302 and the limited production Boss 429.

A three-quarter Landau-style vinyl roof is standard on the luxurious Grande, and the hot Mach I comes on stronger than ever with stem-to-stern design changes.

Mustang's technical changes enhance its reputation for fine riding quality, easy road handling ability and responsive steering

Engines range from the base 200-c.i.d. Six to the powerful 429 V-8's. Optional Sport Slats and a rear deck air spoiler add to the performance theme of the SportsRoof models.

MAVERICK

Maverick remains basically unchanged since its introduction in April. Its popular assets remain low purchase price, good performance, economy of operation, easy serviceability, durability and sporty design.

Available only as a two-door secan model, Maverick boasts average gas economy of 22-½ miles per gallon with the standard 170-c.i.d. six-cylinder engine. Options include a larger 200-c.i.d. engine, SelectShift Cruise-O-Matic transmission, air conditioning and several appearance items.

FALCON

Falcon retains its long hood and short deck design for 1970. New are a revised model lineup and option list and an improved standard six-cylinder engine.

This year's Falcon line includes two-door and four-door sedans and a four-door station wagon in both the Falcon and Futura series.

The Mercury Montego has been completely redesigned inside and out for 1970. It is lower, wider, nearly four inches longer overall and the wheelbase has been increased one inch to 117 inches for true family size proportions. A four-door hardtop is offered in the Montego line for the first time. Concealed headlights are standard equipment on the Montego MX Brougham (above). Concealed windshield wipers, bias- belted tires, and oval steering wheel have been added to the list of standard equipment on all models. Two completely new 351-cubic-inch engines and a 429 power plant have been added to the list of available engines.

Three new sporty, youth-oriented models — the Cyclone, Cyclone GT (above) and the Cyclone Spoiler — give Lincoln- Mercury Division new appeal in the growing intermediate market for 1970. All two- door hardtops with rakish rooflines that accentuate their top performance capability, the new models are offered with a host of power plants, including two all- new 351-cubic-inch V-8's and three versions of the 429-cubic- inch engine. Vertical European-type Cyclone running lights highlight the dramatic grille. Sporty new high-back bucket seats with contemporary design are standard on the Cyclone GT and Cyclone Spoiler models. Front and rear air foils are standard on the Cyclone Spoiler.

LINCOLN-MERCURY DIVISION CARS FOR 1970

The first completely redesigned Lincoln Continental in nearly a decade and an all-new expanded line of intermediate-size Montegos and Cyclones highlight Lincoln-Mercury Division's automobiles for 1970.

"Thirty-nine new models ranging from the classic Mark III to the muscular new Cyclone Spoiler give Lincoln-Mercury the broadest market coverage ever," said M.S. (Matt) McLaughlin, Ford Motor Company vice president and division general manager.

"During the Sixties American car buyers showed an ever-increasing appetite for variety and premium quality. We expect that trend to continue and accelerate during the Seventies and our new models for next year are designed to met this demand."

There are new power teams and a host of comfort, convenience and safety features standard on all car lines, including a more convenient three-point seat/shoulder belt system, a locking steering column, bias-belted tires, flow-through ventilation system and an oval steering wheel.

The new Lincoln Continental, while undergoing the most substantial change since 1961, remains clearly identifiable as a Continental with a strong grille theme and understated elegance. While outside dimensions are almost identical to previous models, wheelbase has been lengthened one inch to 127 inches andfront and rear tread are increased. As a result, interior roominess is substantially greater. The model line-up remains the same as in 1969, with a single series consisting of a two-door hardtop and four-door sedan.

The divisions intermediate line has been dramatically redesigned for 1970 and consists of three Montego series, including a new four-door hardtop, and three performance-oriented two-door hardtops, the Cyclone, Cyclone GT and Cyclone Spoiler.

Both Montegos and Cyclones have their own distinctive appearance.

The Cyclones have a racy look with a forward-thrusting grille and unique European-type running lights. Montegos share the same contemporary profile, with the addition of a luxurious, full width grille.

Wheelbase on all models has been increased one inch to 117 inches (114 inches on wagons) and overall length has been increased nearly four inches on sedans and hardtops and eight inches on station wagons.

The most completely equipped personal sports car in its class, Cougar for 1970 features an entirely new front end appearance with a vertical textured grille. Overall length has been increased to 196.1 inches—nearly three inches longer than last year. All of the extra length is at the front, increasing the sports flair appearance of the long hood/short deck proportions of the car.

The division's medium price lines—Marquis, Monterey and Marauder—boast engineering and design refinements and a broad range of new options. The 1970 Marquis maintains its Continental look and, like the Monterey, has newly designed grilles and taillights. The sporty Marauder and Marauder X-100 retain their performance-oriented rear appearance with recessed rear window, swept back rear roof pillars and unique quad taillamps.

The Continental Mark III, America's finest personal luxury car continues its classic elegance for 1970 with modest design modifications. Changes include new concealed windshield wipers, new wheel covers, and redesigned tail and parking lamps. There are extensive interior changes, including genuine walnut trim on the instrument panel, steering wheel and door panels. All Mark IIIs will have as standard equipment Michelin steel-belted radial tires with a warranty of 40,000 miles.

Among the new features standard on the Mark III and optional on all other two-door models is an automatic seat back release. With this new feature, front seat backs are automatically released when either door is opened, making rear seat entrance or exit much easier.

While the Mark III will be equipped with Michelin steel-belted radial tires, all other Lincoln-Mercury Division cars will have as standard equipment new fiberglass belted tires which offer increased mileage, better puncture resistance and improved handling.

A convenience feature standard for all car lines is a modified oval steering wheel. It offers increased wheel-to-seat room, while affording an unobstructed view of the instrument panel.

All models, except convertibles, will have as standard equipment a unique three-point lap and shoulder belt restraint system featuring a "mini buckle." The buckle is nearly half its former size. The new restraint system eliminates the need for inboard shoulder buckles while providing the same degree of protection as the former method.

New safety and security features on all car lines, in addition to the three-point seat belt, include side marker lights that flash with the turn signals, a tamper-resistant odometer and a three-way locking steering column. The three-way locking column is designed to deter car thefts by locking the steering wheel, transmission linkage and ignition switch when the key is removed.

Following are the product highlights by car line:

LINCOLN CONTINENTAL

Lincoln Continental is an all-new car for 1970, yet still bears a strong kinship to its elegant predecessors. Completely redesigned inside and out, this fine motorcar continues to offer the maximum in luxury and performance in the Continental tradition.

The exterior design is highlighted by a new die-cast grille with concealed headlamps, new ventless side windows, concealed windshield wipers and full width rear lighting. The smooth flowing and lightly sculptured side sheet metal contributes strongly to the car's clean appearance and emphasizes the overall length of 225 inches. Rear wheels are partially covered with removable skirts, adding further to the long, sleek appearance.

The traditional high level of interior luxury, comfort and convenience is perfectly executed in the new Lincoln Continental. The standard bench seats offer armrests front and rear and are covered with thick molded foam padding for the utmost comfort. Two-way power seats are standard.

The two standard interior trim packages available are a new knit bodycloth and vinyl in a parallel-pleated design, and an elegant brocade cloth and vinyl in a "cathedral arch" sew pattern. Each combination is available in five colors. Twin comfort lounge front seats with individual adjustments and center armrests are available for the first time. Carpeting is extra thick long-wearing nylon, color-keyed to the car's interior.

The instrument panel is completely new with gauges for alternator, engine temperature, fuel and oil pressure. All instrumentation is fully lighted and directly in front of the driver for maximum convenience.

The doors on both the two-door hardtop and four-door sedan are considerably wider this year affording easier and more convenient entry and exit. The coupe doors are seven inches wider, while the four-door sedan doors are six inches wider at the front and more than four inches wider at the rear. The rear doors on the four-door sedan are hinged at the center pillar rather than the rear pillar as on previous models.

A flow-through fresh air ventilation system essentially the same as that offered in the Continental Mark III is standard this year on the Lincoln Continental.

Lincoln's excellent reputation for fine ride and handling will be further enhanced this year with the new body-on-frame construction, redesigned front suspension and new coil-link rear suspension.

The new body-on-frame construction is the same type as that used on the Mark III. It was developed with the aid of computer technology to provide the best all around functional qualities with least noise, vibration and harshness.

Standard power team with the 1970 Lincoln is the high performance 460-cubic-inch engine, the same engine as in the MarkIII, and SelectShift transmission. This power plant is designed to provide smooth, tractable power and is a direct result of Ford Motor Company's high performance engine program.

Lincoln offers a full complement of new options for 1970 including the Sure-Track Brake System which improves braking stability by helping to prevent sustained rear wheel lockup during maximum braking effort. Other new options are a power lock release group that combines power door locks, power remote control trunk release and automatic front seat back releases; new "Stardust" paints that have a beautiful, lustrous finish with a golden undertone; an electric rear window defroster; and a new FM/AM stereo radio.

All 1970 Lincoln Continentals will be subjected to a rigorous in-plant road-test simulator before shipment to dealers. The simulator has been computer-programmed to subject every Lincoln Continental to a wide variety of operating conditions, allowing a much more comprehensive test of each vehicle than ever before.

MONTEGO AND CYCLONE

Lincoln-Mercury's new intermediates have been completely redesigned-- the silhouette is longer and lower with a handsome hug-the-road appearance. Both wheelbase and overall length have been increased. There are two new grilles and two new rooflines.

Three new youth-oriented models — the Cyclone, Cyclone GT and Cyclone Spoiler— give the division broader coverage in the intermediate market. All of the Cyclone models are two-door hardtops with rakish rooflines that accentuate their top performance capability. The Cyclone Spoiler has front and rear air spoilers as standard equipment.

In addition to the Cyclone models, a smart family-size four-door hardtop model is offered for the first time as an addition to the Montego Brougham series.

Interiors are distinguished by all-new trim styles, a new instrument cluster centered by a horizontal speedometer and new oval-design steering wheels. Sporty new high-back bucket seats with contemporary design and supberb seating comfort are standard on the Cyclone Spoiler and the Cyclone GT.

In addition to dramatic new front-end appearance, new side ornamentation, and completely new rear-end design, the 1970 Montego line has new concealed windshield wipers, new standard concealed headlamps on the MX Brougham and Cyclone GT and Cyclone Spoiler.

Completely new design is only part of the story. Significant engineering improvements and the addition of five new engines highlight the Montego and Cyclone lines for 1970.

Last year's 351-cubic-inch engines have been replaced by a completely new 351-cubic-inch engine with significant design improvements even though the displacement is the same. The engine is available in both regular and premium fuel versions and incorporates many of the design improvements and durability features proven with Lincoln-Mercury's competititon engines. The new engine features cylinder heads with larger, more efficient ports; larger intake valves that are canted in the direction of air flow; stronger more durable valve train components; larger runner intake manifold, and larger header-type exhaust manifold. The engine is available in two-barrel and four-barrel versions, with horsepowers of 250 and 300, respectively.

In addition to the new 351 engine there are three versions of the 429-cubic-inch engine in the Montego line-up. The first version is standard on the Cyclone, while a second more powerful version, the 429 CJ, is standard with the Cyclone Spoiler. There also is a 429 Super CJ generating 375 horsepower.

The Traction-Lok rear axle is optional on all 1970 Montego models. It replaces the optional limited-slip rear axle used with smalle; engines last year. Advantages include more traction on ice or snow.

CONTINENTAL MARK III

Continental Mark III, America's most popular personal luxury car, has received only modest exterior design changes for 1970.

The long-hood, short-deck treatment with bold forward-thrusting grille and simulated spare tire carrier are still the dominant design features. Minimum ornamentation and such subtle changes as concealed windshield wipers, new wheel covers and minor modifications to parking lamps and Taillamps, give the Mark III an appearance that is completely different from that of any other car on the road today.

The richness and warmth of fine wood has been added to the interior of all Mark IIIs with the installation of genuine walnut trim to the instrument panel, steering wheel and door panels. Standard interior trim is a luxurious combination of cloth and vinyl houndstooth check in two colors with matching vinyl roof. Glove-soft natural grain leather is used on the seating surfaces of the Cougar XR-7.

Front seat occupants may alter their seat position with literally nothing more that the flick of a finger. Power seat controls have been relocated to the armrests, replacing the seat-mounted controls of previous models. The outside rear view mirror controls also are located in the armrests.

An additional convenience is a new automatic time-delay map light switch. When the driver's door is opened, the map light provides illumination in the front passenger area for eight to ten seconds and then automatically shuts off.

All Mark IIIs for 1970 will be equipped with Michelin steel-belted radial tires which have a warranty for 40,000 miles. These tires are world renowned for their superior traction and road holding capability.

The Mark III is available only as a four-passenger, two-door hardtop coupe. For 1970 a new power-operated sun roof giving practically the same open-air effect as a convertible is now optional.

Other options available on the Mark III include two new vinyl roof colors, dark blue and dark brown; four new "Stardust" custom metallic colors; electric rear window defogger; twin comfort lounge seats; remote control trunk release; and dozens more.

The car's nimble performance and ready response come from the 460-cubic inch V-8 engine that is one of the world's smoothest and tractable. It is coupled with a three-speed automatic SelectShift transmission.

MARQUIS, MERCURY MONTEREY AND MARAUDER

Introduced last year as completely new models, Marquis, Mercury Monterey and Marauder receive engineering and design refinements for 1970. They retain their market posture by covering all three segments of the medium price field— the upper medium, the lower medium and the sports specialty. All three car lines have their own distinctive features yet share in the classic design heritage of the Lincoln Continental.

New front and rear end design treatments give the cars a clean crisp appearance. The Marquis, Marquis Brougham, Marauder and Marauder X-100 have a new die-cast grille with a horizontal pattern and concealed headlamps. The grille on the Mercury Monterey and Monterey Custom is anodized extruded aluminum with a horizontal theme. Headlamps are exposed and combineation parking lights/turn signals/ front side marker lights are set in the leading edge of the fenders.

Rear lights on the Marquis run full-width above the massive bumper, enclosed in three separate horizontal units trimmed in bright metal. Back-up lights are in the center of the outboard units. Montereys have a similar appearance, with twin horizontal taillamp assemblies and Marauders retain their performance-oriented rear appearance.

Interior improvements include two-inch wider seat backs; more comfortable armrests; pull-type door handles; and new seat trim patterns. Approximately 35 pounds of additional soundproofing materials have been added to reduce exterior road noises.

A noteworthy addition to the option line-up for 1970 is an electric rear window defroster. This device quickly clears the back window of fog and frost and melts small amounts of snow and ice. Traction-Lok rear axle is optional on all models.

An important advancement in ride control, freon filled shock absorbers, are standard on all models. This improved design features a plastic bag filled with inert freon gas submerged in the shock absorber hydraulic fluid reservoir. It takes the place of the air space in the conventional design shock absorber.

Three engines including the smooth and durable 390-cubic-inch V-8 and the higher performing 429-cubic-inch engines in both two-barrel and four-barrel versions are available to meet all road and load conditions.

COUGAR

Cougar, America's most completely equipped sports compact car, continues into 1970 with evolutionary design changes, a number of mechanical improvements, new interior luxury and new power teams.

The Cougar design has been refined modestly with a new vertical grille and forward thrusting front end. The highly styled Cougar XR-7 grille has a unique bright and black trim scheme giving it a luxury appearance.

Overall length has been increased 2.3 inches to 196.1 inches. All of the extra length is at the front, increasing the sporty flair appearance of the long-hood/ short rear deck proportions.

On the interior, highback bucket seats are standard and a sprightly accent is offered by a cloth and vinyl houndstooth check in two colors with matching vinyl roof. Glove-soft natural grain leather is used on the seating surfaces of the Cougar XR-7.

For 1970, Cougar is available in five models—a hardtop and convertible in both the base series and the richly appointed XR-7 line and the high-performance Eliminator featuring front and rear air spoilers.

The Eliminator has special ornamentation, identification and performance equipment. The base engine is the completely new 351-cubic-inch 4V engine. Optional engines are the Boss 302 4V V-8, the CJ 428-4V, the CJ 428-4V with ram air, and the new Cougar Boss 429-4V V-8.

The standard power team for the Cougar and Cougar XR-7 is the 351-cubic-inch 2V engine with a three speed manual transmission. SelectShift and four-speed manual transmissions also are available. The high performance Hurst Shifter is standard with the four-speed manual transmission on all Cougar models.

Vinyl roof availability for 1970 has been increased to seven colors— black, parchment, blue, brown, green, black houndstooth and ginger houndstooth.

Unique Lake Bid to Reverse Pollution Trend

MARKLEEVILLE, Calif. (AP) — A unique lake teeming with rainbow trout on the eastern slope of the Sierra near here is filled with a billion gallons of treated sewage water and authorities say it's pure enough to drink.

Called Indian Creek Reservoir, the man-made-lake is fed by a 22-inch pipeline snaking over a 7,000 foot mountain pass from a sewage plant at South Lake Tahoe, 14 miles north.

"The plant is the only one of its kind in the world," says Bob Wakeman, a director of the South Tahoe Public Utility District, serving an area with about 15,000 residents. "The water it produces meets U.S. public health service drinking water standards."

The growth of resort and year-round communities at Tahoe has caused pollution, silting and algae to mar Lake Tahoe's natural beauty, Wakeman says. The $3-million plant and 14-mile pipeline were built to help reverse the trend.

After treatment with lime to remove solids, the sewage water is pumped through filtration beds, channeled through five 30-foot columns containing $150,000 worth of activated charcoal, then chlorinated. The lime and charcoal are later reclaimed.

The water arrives at Indian Creek Reservoir colorless, odorless, tasteless and stripped of harmful wastes.

"Everyone asks us why we don't pump the water back into Tahoe and save some money," says Wakeman. "The answer is we could and probably no one would know the difference, but the project is still experimental and its results must be tested thoroughly."

In one test shortly after the 27-acre reservoir opened in August, 8,000 rainbow were planted to see how well they will survive.

Smith Named To Occupy Dirksen Seat

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Ralph T. Smith, the speaker of the Illinois House, was named by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie today to fill the Illinois seat in the U.S. Senate left vacant by the death of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen.

Smith, a Republican from Alton, was the expected choice after Atty. Gen. William J. Scott withdrew from the race Monday. Rep. John B. Anderson, RIll., of Rockford, also was a strong contender to succeed Dirksen who died Sept. 7 in Washington.

Ogilvie made the announcement in his office. Smith, his wife, and Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., were present.

The governor said he telephone President Nixon Tuesday to tell him of his decision.

Smith will fly Thursday to Washington to take the oath of office. The appointment is for the interim period until January 1971 when the winner of the 1970 general election will take office.

About Our Schools

By Lynn Twitty

A study conduct by the Educational Testing Service of Princeton, New Jersey indicated that there wee more important changes in the High School curriculum and teaching methods in the last ten years in the United States than in any previous decade. Substantial changes were reported in the methods of teaching mathematics, science, and modern foreign languages. However, the teaching of English and history and the social studies have remained about the same in the last ten years. Most English teachers, according to the report, are emphasizing formal grammar, traditional test and workbooks, but many students among the 38,000 involved in this study also reported that they had studied linguistics, structure of grammar, usage problems, and history of the English language.

The survey was financed by the College Entrance Board.

We have a problem at football games, with which parents must help us, or we will be forced to take steps to restrict attendance to some elementary and pre-school children.

The problem is this: many, (not all of course), of these youngsters run without restraint in front of spectators, hang on the safety cable in front of the stands, climb over the wire onto the slope in front of the stands, down over the retaining wall onto the track. This is of course a distraction and is disagreeable to spectators who wish to see the game. However, this is not our major concern. The main problem is the danger involved to the youngster who does not remain seated. There are dangerous pipes enbeded in the concrete retaining wall. These were placed in the event that future tiers of concrete bleachers would be erected on the slope back of the retaining wall. A child could easily injure himself on one of these pipes or in falling from the wall. There will be no danger if parents will see to it that their children remain seated as they should. In the past we have asked some of our teachers and principals to assist in restricting these children from running around or roughhousing in the prohibited areas. But, this is not their function, and unless there is more control on the part of parents it will be necessary that we make new policies for attendance.

It is not our desire to keep anyone from attending the game, in fact quite the contrary. But we do find it necessary to insist that this unrestricted and dangerous activity on the part of some of these youngsters be ended. We do not wish to see any of these children hurt. We believe that parents will cooperate with us in solving this problem.

The Legislation passed at the last session of the Missouri General Assembiy will provide about $35 million more for Missouri schools this year. In addition to providing funds for other school services, this money enabled most Board of Education's to make increases in teacher salaries. Our Board, because of the additional anticipated funds and through eliminating or curtailing some other projects which had more-or-less served their purpose, was able to make a rather substantial $700 minimum increase. This amount was added to each step of the existing salary schedule for faculty members. However, we believe that the schedule has some built-in equities and it should be revised in order that some of the inequities be eliminated, and to give each teacher more equal and justifiable pay in relation to duties or responsibilities, experience, and professional qualifications.

We are setting up a committee of teachers and administrators to revise the schedule and present it to the Board of Education. The schedule will, of course, be limited by the total amount available for salaries, but perhaps some improvements in the way funds are distributed to teachers, can be made.

We would be forced to agree with a conclusion of Engelhardt and Leggett, Inc., of Purdy Station, New York that the financial administration of many school systems is based on out-of-date methods.

Sometimes, we think, this is the fault of the administrators or Board of Education. Sometimes, it is because of our factors, a traditional community which will not allow changes, lack of funds, trained personnel, perhaps many others. Sometimes, the administrators may be sound educators, but not necessarily financial managers.

First of all the complexity and size of the school system many times make it the most difficult administrative problem in the community. Today's schools are involved in not only providing a broad and comprensive educational program for children and adults with widely varying needs, but they run extensive transportation systems, food service programs, cater to the health needs of their students, and add to this many more tasks and areas unknown in the days of the little red schoolhouse. Too frequently, administrators become so involved in the business operation in the school system that they forget the primary aim of creating a teacher-student situation that will accomplish the only purpose for which the school exists – to educate students. Fortunately, many Board of Education's recognize this fact, and provide for a delegation of responsibilities to individuals who are trained in business management or who at least can accomplish this aim because it is their primary assignment.

Some school systems have, in the past few years, improved their efficiency through the use of better budgeting and cost control, the use of computers, and other modern business methods to, at least, a limited extent.

Our Board is doing some of these things and have plans for other improvements. Some are limited by the budget. We suspect, however, that a good management team could come into our system and find many areas that would be bettered if we were able to adopt the techniques or methods generally common in larger businesses and industry.

JOSEPH LLOYD THOMAS

Bank Robber on FBI List

WASHINGTON - Joseph Lloyd Thomas, a veteran criminal and convicted bank robber now charged with violating Federal parole and bank robbery, has been added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives" for the second time.

Thomas was previously placed on the "Top Ten" list in October, 1950, and was apprehended by FBI Agents on December 10, 1959, at Pelzer, South Carolina. When arrested on that occasion, Thomas had grown a mustache for disguise, had two hacksaw blades strapped to one leg, carried $125 in cash in his shoes, and had a loaded .38 caliber revolver secreted behind the radio of his car.

Thomas was subsequently convicted in 1960 of robbing a Louisiana bank of $34,000 and given a 25-year sentence which was later reduced to 15 years. He was paroled on March 27, 1967.

On the afternoon of February 28, 1969, Thomas allegedly robbed at the point of a snub- hosed revolver the K-Mart Plaza Branch of the Merchants National Bank at Terre Haute, Indiana, fleeing with $22,072 stuffed in a shopping bag.

A Federal warrant for Thomas' arrest was issued on March 1, 1969, at Terre Haute, Indiana, charging him with bank robbery. In addition, the United States Board of Parole issued a warrant on March 18, 1969, charging him with violating the terms of his parole from a Federal penitentiary.

Thomas' long criminal record, which began in 1928, includes convictions for vehicle theft, robbery, and possession of a still, in addition to bank robbery.

A white American, he was born on October 20, 1911, at Terre Haute, Indiana. He is 5' 7" to 5' 8" tall and weighs 150 to 160 pounds, having blue eyes and gray hair. Thomas has a medium complexion and medium build. Small scars appear on the right side of his mouth, at the base of his left index finger, and on the first joint of his right middle finger.

Thomas, who wears prescription glasses and a partial denture of upper front teeth, has been treated both for a mild heart condition and ulcers. In the past he is said to have worn sports coats and sports shirts, left open at the collar. At the Terre Haute bank robbery he reportedly was dressed in a dark gray fedora and a gray suit jacket or topcoat. He has frequently smoked a curved-stem pipe.

Described as associates as a glib confidence man, Thomas prefers motels to hotels and has lived in house trailers. He is said to be an avid player of bowling machines in taverns which he frequents, and reportedly prefers shooting dice to other forms of gambling. He is considered to be a good dancer.

A former drive-in restaurant owner, Thomas also has bought and sold military surplus merchandise and cafe equipment. In addition, he has been employed as an advertising promoter, telephone fund raiser, used car salesman, bricklayer, service station attendant, laborer, and carpenter. In connection with the surplus merchandise business, Thomas frequently drove large trucks between various cities in the South, Midwest and Southwest.

He is reportedly usually armed with a revolver and has allegedly stated he would not hesitate to use it if cornered. He is regarded as an escape risk and should be considered armed and very dangerous. Thomas is believed possibly accompanied by a female associate who is reportedly involved in a check-passing scheme.

Anyone with information concerning Thomas is requested to immediately contact the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be found on the first page of local telephone directories.

Spain Named To Committee

BERNIE - State Representative James E. Spain of Stoddard County has been named by the Speaker of the House, James E. Godfrey, to a committee for the purpose of proposing revisions to the criminal code of Missouri. This appointment was made by letter to Governor Warren E. Hearnes.

Two members of the House of Representatives, one from each political party, were named to represent the House of Representatives on this committee.

The purpose of the committee will be to study the present criminal code of the State of Missouri and to make recommendations concerning its revision and updating. Many of the present laws are the same or only varied slightly from the statutes of 1855. It is felt that this is an area of vital concern to all Missourians and that a constant effort should be made to keep Missouri's Criminal Code updated. The study will be a joint effort of the several branches of State and local government.

The committee will consist of twelve persons with the Chairman to be the Honorable Norwin Houser, Commissioner of the Supreme Court of Missouri. The coordinator of the committee will be Professor Edward Hunvald who teaches law at the University of Missouri.

Incidentally, the school consulting firm referred to: Engelhardt and Leggett, Inc., have worked with our Board of Education on several occasions.

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — "It is far more exciting to be a Catholic than a Protestant these days," says the Rev. Dr. Walter W. Benjamin, a Methodist and head of the religion department at Hamline University, St. Paul, Minn.

After attending a two-week seminar at a Jesuit seminary here, he says the "healthy ferment" in Roman Catholicism has made it the "Protestant church today — the church reformed, but always to be reformed."

TV Officials Say Censorship Will Be Resisted

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Spokesmen of two major television networks say they plan to resist censorship and cater to more sophisticated viewers, but that orders to play down violence will stay in effect.

"Television is becoming more permissive all the time," Michael H. Dann, CBS-TV senior vice president for programs, told a meeting of nearly 400 broadcasting and advertising executives Tuesday.

"I know we are going to continue to be more adult."

Mort Werner, NBC-TV vice president for programs and talent, said he saw no concerted drive to censor telecasts and as for "a lowering of the curtain, I don't think so."

"I don't think the networks are going to knuckle in," he added.

Both spoke in answer to questions by nembers of the Hollywood Radio and Television Society who expressed apprehension over censorship threats.

"Eight to ten years ago there was an intoxicating excitement in television, with an occasional 'hell' and 'damn,'" said Harry Ackerman, vice president and executive producer of Screen Gems, Inc.

"Suddenly it's like Czechoslovakia. Everything's changed. Are the networks going to knuckle in to Pastore and institute a new dark age of censorship?"

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., who has conducted an investigation of TV program content, is an outspoken critic of violence on the home screen.

Dann commented, "Violence in our society is coming from social change. TV in effect is not responsible for it."

But, he added, "we're going to continue a de-emphasis on violence at all times."

William Self, president of 20th Century-Fox Television, recalled that about a year ago Dann called a producers' meeting on employment of Negro actors and asked if Dann had a progress report.

"All anybody has to do is turn on a set and know there is a phenomenal, explosive use of Negro performers," said Dann. "The great challenge for the industry is to get people on the other side of the camera."

Demo Policy Council May Revive HHH

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic National Committee's new policy council is finally ready for business—and it may provide Hubert H. Humphrey with a platform from which to challenge President Nixon's performance.

Humphrey, the party's 1968 defeated presidential nominee and a possible candidate again in 1972, is chairman of the panel assigned to keep vigil on the Republicans.

Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma, the party chairman, and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, the 1968 nominee for vice president, are vice chairmen of the Democratic policy council, which has been some eight months in the making.

Muskie and even Harris are considered possible 1972 candidates for the Democratic presidential nod.

Harris announced the council's makeup on the eve of a conference of Democratic state chairmen today, and a meeting of the national committee Thursday.

He appointed 20 Democrats, among them three governors, three senators, three members of the House and two big-city mayors, to the council executive committee.

Harris said 30 prominent Democrats later would be named members at large and six committees which deal with policy and issues in major areas.

Harris hopes liaison, and general agreement on the issues, would avoid the problem faced by a similar group during the Republican Eisenhower administration when Democratic congressional leaders regarded the council as an intruder.

Sen. Mike Mansfield, the Democratic leader, said he would be glad to work with the new council. "We just have to make up our own minds here, and do what we think is best, because we vote."

Bernie Council Talks Cable TV

BERNIE - The Bernie city council met in regular session Monday night at the city hall.

Seals, a representative of Mid-Continent Cable TV Service was present to propose to install a TV cable in Bernie. The cable would provide service from five channels carrying all three networks, and would cost a fee of $10 for a hook-up plus a $5 per month service charge. The board took the proposal under advisement. Before the city could grant a franchise it would be necessary for an election to be held.

Since school has started the city will enforce a 10 o'clock curfew week nights for all for all children 16 years of age and under. Violation carries a $25 penalty to parents. The board has received complaints of unattended children, 16 years and under, being on the streets after the curfew.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Question 7. Which electoral reform plan has the greatest opportunity for acceptance by the Congress, State Legislatures and the people?

Answer. Both Mr. George Gallup and Mr. Lou Harris, leading public pollsters, have tested the pulse of the American people on the question of a direct popular election. 81% of the people polled by Mr. Gallup responded favorably to a direct election. This figure, when broken down, reflected the following regional statistics:

Midwest:81% East: 82%
South: 76% West:81%

Mr. Harris' poll, although lower at 78%, still showed that an overwhelming number of Americans think that they should vote directly for the President.

In 1966, Senator Quentin Burdick polled all state legislators on their preferences of electoral reform plans. Of those responding, the direct election plan was supported by 58%, or more than all other plans combined.

An impressive number ofnational organizations have carefully reviewed the electoral question and declared their support for the direct election plan. These include the American Bar Association, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, the AFL-CIO, the United Auto Workers, the National Federation of Independent Business, the National Small Business Association, and the Bar Association of the City of New York.

The Judiciary Committee of the House recently reported, by a vote of 29-6, a direct election plan. An unofficialppoll of House members indicates that over two-thirds of the Members favor a direct election. Supporters include Speaker John McCormack, Minority Leader Gerald Ford, Judiciary Chairman Emanuel Celler, Ranking Minority Member William McCulloch and Majority Whip Hale Boggs.

In the Senate, forty-three Members have cosponsored a direct election plan, while over a dozen others have announced for such a proposal even though they are not cosponsers. In short, more members of Congress support direct election than any other proposal.

The direct election plan is actually the compromise measure before the Congress. It is only proposal that requires all groups to give up their so-called advantages. The large states surrender the advantage of the unit rule; the small states, their advantage of the two Senatorial electors. Every state, every voter is on the same footing. Each citizen's vote counts and counts equally, no matter where he lives.

Ancient herbalists believed that sage, now a staple in many dressings, improved the memory and assured long life. Doctors at Salerno, the great medieval school of medicine, asked, "How can a man die who grows sage in his garden?"

Though it has slipped to second place in population, New York state still holds a lead over California in the number of manufacturing establishments located within its borders. According to Dun's Market Identifiers, a marketing service of Dun & Bradstreet, there are 46,901 manufacturing firms doing business in the Empire State compared with 36,053 in California.

LANGUAGE CONFUSION

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP) — African pupils who must know two languages if they want to study at high school now have to learn a third one. Before the present government came to power in 1948 Africans were taught mainly in English. The late Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd, then minister of native affairs, in 1954 ordered that Africans be educated in junior school in their own tribal language to stop producing what he called "black Englishmen."

High school education continued mainly in English but now, said Metcalf Maliza, principal of the Kwazakele High School here, the government has ordered that high school education must be in both English and Afrikaans, the languages of the two main white groups in South Africa. Maliza said the change from the vernacular to one white language already caused confusion and the situation would become worse.

Stalin's Madness Lives!

The Personality Cult is gone but the persecutions linger on, says an imprisoned Ukranian writer whose petition accuses the Russians of destroying non-Russian life by deportation, colonization and Aesopian division of lands. The writer shows Russia as the model of heartless discrimination backed by armed force, proving that in Russia it pays to be a Russian and woe to the Jew, the Moldavian and the Tartar.

By
Svyatoslav Karavansky
Labor Camp

Over the last 30 years, the Council of Nationalities of the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R. has investigated very few of the pressing problems that should be of primary concern to it. Obviously, one can neither criticize nor condemn the Council's activities up to 1953, for like all Soviet state organs, it was represented by Stalin personally. During this period it existed formally, but did not in fact perform any official business. Unfortunately, inertia still characterizes the Council, although it is high time that it undertook the correction of a long list of abuses resulting from the Stalinist cult of personality - abuses which even today restrict and undermine friendly relations between the nations of the U.S.S.R.

Such friendship will develop successfully and increase in strength only when all the nations of the Soviet Union are accorded equal rights in every branch of social and political life. This is a truth that is self-evident. It is the principle that has compelled me to address the Council of Nationalities, and to petititon it for the implementation of the measures to remove the vestiges of discrimination against nationalities in our soviety.

To begin with, I call your attention to the discrimination against the Jewish population. I stated this problem first because the attitude of a society toward its Jewish population is the litmus paper indicating that society's level of international consciousness. The closing down of Jewish cultural institutions (newspapers, schools, theaters, publishing houses); the execution of Jewish cultural workers; discrimination in admitting Jews to institutions of higher and secondary learning - these are all practices that flourished in the era of the personality cult. It would seem that the condemnation of the cult should have also put an end to these flagrant injustices, yet this did not occur. To appease public opinion abroad, Nikita Khrushchev (who paid little attention to public opinion in the Soviet Union itself) was forced to "rehabilitate" the innocent Jewish cultural leaders executed under Stalin. But he went no further.

Where are the Jewish theaters now, the newspapers and publishing houses, the schools? In Odessa, there are approximately 150,000 Jews, but not one Jewish school. And what about admission to institutions of higher learning? Again in Odessa, where 25% of the population is Jewish, Jews make up only 3-5 per cent of the student body at those institutions. That is the unofficial quota maintained in processing admissions. Yet Jewish students applying to institutions of higher learning in other cities are told: "You have a school in Odessa - go to your 'own' school." Students from the Urals, Siberia, Moscow, Tula, Saratov (all with their own large, well - established universities) are permitted to study in Odessa, where they are provided with specially constructed dormitories, while local Jewish students (as well as the local Ukrainians and Moldavians) are severely restricted in their right to a higher education.

Practices such as these can only lead the Jews to an awareness of the fact that in the Soviet Union they belong to an inferior and unequal national group, and so drive them to Zionism. One must admit that never before has Zionism been as popular among the Jewish population as it is today, and this is a direct result of discriminatory practices against the Jewish minority.

An equally glaring example of national discrimination was the mass deportation of the Crimean Tartars and the Germans from their own territories and confiscation of their statehood. The expulsion of the Tartars from Crimea was the an act of open injustice that no argument can excuse. How, in the 20th century, could a society that wants to create the most just order on earth deport a nation of 900,000 from its historic land for "treason against the motherland" committed by a few of its people? Who has the right in this century to delve into the archives of an imperialism long past to come up with an argument that "historically" this land belonged not to the Tartars but to the Russians? If one followed this line of reasoning then Khabarovsky Kray, Prymorsky Kray, and the Amursk Oblast should all be immediately returned to the Chinese Republic because the imperialistic Tsars of Russia forcefully seized these lands from the Chinese rulers. Can friendship among the Soviet nations possibly be encouraged by depriving the Crimean Tartars of statehood, by scattering them throughout the expanses of Kazakhstan and Siberia, by depriving them of their schools, newspapers, and theaters?

And how are the Germans of the Volga Region responsible to society for Hitler's crimes? Does Marxism solve complex problems by judging people on the basis of their nationality rather than their social contribution? Does not the slogan "Workers of the world, unite!" apply to the Jews, the Crimean Tartars, and the Germans of the Volga Region? We have no bourgeois Jews, no capitalist Tartars, no German landowners in the Soviet Union. We have only workers.

How can our young people be educated in the spirit of internationalism when they see entire nations deprived of their right to national autonomy and of their right to an education in both their native and foreign languages? What friendship can there be between the man who has been exiled from his own home, from his native land, and the man who has taken over this home and this land?

To the injustices above one must also add the errors committed in the restoration of the national statehood to the Chechens, Ingush, Kalmyks, Karachais, and a number of other nationalities. This seemingly just act toward the smaller national groups was not accomplished without blunders, making it obvious to these nationalities that they are still less than equal. According to the established procedure, the families of these unjustly exiled national groups are not given back their immovable property - their buildings and their homes; if they wish to return to their ancestral lands, they must buy back their homes from the local state authorities, or else build new ones. Having given them the right to return, the decree of the Supreme Soviet did not secure for them the means to realize this return. It is the same as presenting someone with an expensive cake, after first eating the chocolate icing and filling. Can such a gift be considered a gift?

During the era of the personality cult many injustices were likewise perpetrated against the Baltic nations. The Estonian population occupying regions near the Soviet- Estonian border was deported en masse to Siberia - although the only crime of these people was that they happened to live near the border. They could at least have been resettled in another part of the Estonian Republic; but, no, the entire population of the town of Silamaye was transported to Siberia.

As everyone knows, in 1940, the Latvian Republic joined the Soviet Union of its own accord. Therefore, no repressive measures should have been taken against the military personnel of the Latvian Army. Strangely enough, however, officers of the Latvian Army were invited in 1941 to military maneuvers from which they have never returned; they were interned, and their fate is unknown. No one of these officers ever came home. This is true, too, of the thousands of Lithuanians who were unjustly repressed and deported in 1940-41. The suspicion arises that under Beria's arbitrary rule, these Soviet citizens may have been liquidated in one way or another in the concentration camps. This is in itself a crime against humanity and can hardly strengthen friendship among nations. To prevent similar occurrences in the future, it is time to investigate, and if necessary, perform the appropriate excavations and exhumations of bodies in order to prosecute those criminally responsible for murdering thousands of Lithuanian and Latvian citizens of the Soviet Union.

Meanwhile, inordinate damage to the friendship of nations has been and is being done by the distorted national policies applied in one of the largest republics of the U.S.S.R., the Ukraine. The Russification of Ukrainian institutions of higher learning introduced after 1937 has been condemned and partially corrected in the Western Ukraine, but in the Eastern Ukraine, these institutions remain completely Russified. This discriminatory policy is explained by the supposed difference between the two regions; but if this is the case, why did the Ukrainian nation unite into one Ukrainian Soviet state in the first place? Obviously, so that the entire Ukrainian nation, previously deprived of statehood, could develop into one national organism. Now, in the field of education the united republic is divided into two parts. Practices of this kind not only discourage friendship; they even divide one nation into two.

It is no secret that the unjust acts against the Ukrainian nation- the execution of leaders...; the execution of writers...; the groundless exlusion of the Communist Party of the Western Ukraine from the Comintern; the liquidation and deportation of the Ukrainian intelligentsia of Lvov between 1939-53; the compulsory mass deportations of Ukrainians to Siberia; the forced Russification of the Ukrainian population in Kukan, Biiohorod, Stavrodub - that all these acts could not fail to provoke the national outrage which developed into a national revolt between 1943-49. The majority of the participants in this revolt and even mere witnesses (there are more of these) are still living beyond the borders of their own republic.

These victims of the personality cult should be returned to their native homes. A true friendship among the Soviet nations requires a wide and general amnesty for all those prisoners who (after 15, 18, or 20 years) are wasting away in prisons and concentration camps for the active opposition to the personality cult and to Beria's terror. If there is really to be friendship among the nations of the U.S.S.R., then it must be based on humane relations, and not on national hatreds and fratricide.

One can only presume that it is precisely because it intends to prevent the release of these persons that the U.S.S.R., continues to maintain its barbaric 25-year prison term. For at this time 24-year sentences are being served primarily by Ukrainians, Lithuanians, Latvians, Estonians, Byelorussians, and Moldavians. Why is there no pardon for them?

The practice of settling the cities of the national republics with Russians further contradicts true friendship among the Soviet nations. In the (Ukrainian) S.S.R., the Russian population systematically increases while the Ukrainian population decreases. ...The colonization of the Ukraine with a large number of Russians (retired officers, retired KGB officials, and other privleged categories of citizens who settle in the cities and get all the comfortable jobs and professional positions, has forced the native Ukrainian population into low- salaried jobs as unskilled laborers, ambulance drivers, caretakers, stevedores, construction and farm workers...

In 1958, when the Chechens and the Ingush finally returned to their native lands, they were greeted by the Russian population of Grozny with banners reading, "Chechens and Ingush, get out of the Caucasus" and "Long live Stalin's national policies!" ... Is this not a shameful expression of international enmity?

...s equally pernicious ve...ige of the personality cult is the so-called system of passport regi...ation that exists in the Soviet Union. According to this law, a person may live only where the militia allows him to live; he does not have the right to move about freely in the country - or more precisely, he has the right to move to Siberia, to the Urals, to Kazakhstan, but he does not have the right to live in the so- called "regime" cities. Thus an inhabitant of the Ukraine is not free to settle in Kiev, Odessa, or Lvov; an inhabitant of Lithuania, in Vilna or Kaunas; an inhabitant of Latvia, in Riga. Why? How could the fact that Ukrainians live in Kiev threaten the safety of the Communist society there?

In 1948, the Soviet Union signed the International Convention on Human Rights, which contains a paragraph concerning the right of people to move about freely within a given country. But this freedom does not exist in the Soviet Union, where the inhabitants of a national republic do not have the right even to settle in the cities of their own republic...

Discrimination against certain nationalities is further manifest in the "errors" made in designating the borders of the national republics...

In the case of the autonomous republics, the division of lands might have been carried out by the lion in Aesop's fable. A part of the Penza Oblast and the city of Penza, settled by Moldavinians, were excluded from the Mordovian A.S.S.R. Large territories of the Ulyanovsk and Orenburg Oblasts, settled by the Tartars, were excluded from the Tartar A.S.S.R.

The Author...

Svyatoslav Karavansky is a Ukrainian poet and literary worker now serving 25 years in a labor camp in the Soviet Union for protesting cruel obliteration of non- Russian peoples within the U.S.S.R.

His petition, dated April 10, 1966, in the labor camp, and appearing in this issue, was circulated in the underground, then sent to the West where it was first published in the New Leader, publication of the American Labor Conference on International Affairs.

Note that in the text that two words appear in boldface type. This is done only to warn the reader that such words have been employed either in the manner of a propagandist (usage which does not square with the facts) or are a sop, with sarcastic undertone, to the writer's government which has jailed him.

At any rate, the author's message is sufficient unto itself: Communism is tyranny, and the Soviet Union of Slave States continues to obliterate all those without and within its borders who pose the slightest roadblock to Communist domination of the world.

DENVER (AP) — Allen Miller, 20-year-old University of Georgia golfer, defeated four members of the University of Texas golf team on his way to the Trans-Mississippi title at Cherry Hills. Miller beat Chip Stewart, Rik Massengale and Tom Kite before vanquishing Dean Overturf 4 and 3 in the finals.

Missouri Heritage

Lew Larkin
In the Kansas City Times

One of the lesser native tribes, the Kickapoo, has an interesting but neglected history in Missouri. Some highlights:

The tribe benefited greatly, perhaps better than any other Missouri tribe unless it be the Osages, from contact with Christianity, and Chief Keeanneekuk became a devout Christian and had a great influence on the tribe. The best authority for this observation is George Catlin, the famous artist, who visited almost all of the major tribes and did paintings of the chiefs and leading braves.

The Kickapoos were on friendly terms with their white neighbors. They hunted, trapped and cultivated land. But while not warlike, they could be fiercely defensive.

When Emmanuel Hesse and British officers began recruiting eight trbies for the assault on St. Louis in 1780, the Kickapoos were not enthusiastic although a few joined. This was when George Rogers Clark, brother of William Clark, and his hastily recruited "Missourians," whipped the British - led tribes.

Just 136 years ago last Thursday, at Castor Hill in St. Louis County, the Kickapoos signed a treaty with the United States ceding all their land in Missouri in return for 1,200 square miles of land north and west of Leavenworth.

The Kickapoos were of the Algonquin stock and are known to have become strong in Wisconsin and Illinois. One account says that in 1797 they established a village near Ste. Genevieve. Another relates that they first settled at the confluence of the Missouri and Mississippi rivers, in 1805. In 1808 there were about 20,000 Indians in Missouri - Osages, Missouris, Iowas, Sacs, Fox, Kickapoos, Shawnees and Delawares. The French had gotten along fairly well with the tribes and so did the pioneers coming from the East.

From 1804 to 1820 there were three treaties with Indians regarding land in Missouri. In 1804 the Sac and Fox ceded land for which they received money and annuities, but no land. In 1808 the Great and Little Osage tribes ceded land for money, annuities and other considerations, and in 1819 the government ceded land to the Kickapoos in Missouri who were from Indiana and Illinois.

In 1812 a band of Kickapoos settled in what is now the southwest par of Springfield, Mo., and from 1819 to 1832 they occupied the north half of what is now Greene County. In 1829-30 the first white settlers, John P. Campbell and William Fulbright, arrived to establish homes in the Springfield area.

When the Illinois Kickapoos went to Southwest Missouri in 1819 and afterward, the Osages began to complain to the government that they had sold their lands to the whites and did not like the idea of the Kickapoos coming in to kill their game and settle on the land. There were a few encounters and several Kickapoo families moved on to Kansas, many more in 1832 under a new treaty.

William Clark of Lewis and Clark fame found himself mighty busy for 31 years as federal superintendent of Indian affairs. He was friendly with the tribes, and except for some warpath "brush fires" kept the Missouri tribes from any large scale war except for an Osage uprising shortly before his death on September 1, 1838.

There were some Kickapoos in Green County to lend a helping hand in 1838 to the Cherokees on the "Trail of Tears" tragedy, but like all other tribes the Kickapoos were gradually pushed westward and southwestward by those who taught them Christianity.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — South Africa has less observable racial tension than the United States, Pretoria University Prof. Ben Marais told the South African Institute of Race Relations.

Marais, who lectures in Christian history, said the lack of obvious tension does not mean this country is closer to solving its race problem. It might merely mean South Africa has not yet reached the same stage as the U.S.

There are differences between the racial problems in the two countries, he said. Americans did not always realize most black South Africans still have ties with their tribal background whereas American Negroes constitute a group without tribal ties.

FIRE PREVENTION STRESSED BY NSC

Each year, according to National Safety Council statistics, farm fires result in the loss of 500 lives and $200 million in property damage.

The Council particularly stressed prevention of farm fires since fire damage to farms and rural property is three to six times greater than in the average city fire.

Jack Burke, a program specialist in the Council's Farm Department, explains that it takes longer for fire fighters to get to the scene than it does in the average city.

A common problem on farms, according to the safety specialist, is clutter.

"Stuff piles up or is strewn about, offering an open invitation to fires - not to mention falls, cuts, bruises, shocks, splinters, and poisonings," Burke says.

Preventive measures, Burke says, are relatively simple if done routinely:

—Keep buildings free of unneeded combustible material and accumulations of chaff, straw and dust.

—Rid the farmstead of dry weeds, brush and old lumber.

—Keep paint rags in metal containers.

—Store farm fuels 40 or more feet from buildings.

—Keep small quantities of fuels in sturdy, well- marked metal containers.

—Burn rubbish at a safe distace from buildings and other combustibles, and only when the wind is calm.

—Check electrical systems and make necessary repairs.

—Watch smoking in buildings.

—Check daily the temperature of newly stored hay.

—Place portable heaters away from anything that could catch fire.

REBS VS MIZZOU IN ORANGE?

It's a long time until the annual bowl games get under way and yet from reliable sources comes word that if the Orange Bowl selection committee has its way there'll be a matching of the University of Mississippi and the University of Missouri in the 1970 Orange Bowl Classic at Miami.

Word has already leaked from the Ole Miss camp that players, in an unofficial vote, have decided to vote to accept a Orange bid, should it present itself at season's end. Unofficially Orange committeemen have expressed themselves as seeing both teams finishing with no worse than a 8-2 record and, what with Mizzou's 35-10 stunning of Bear Bryant's 'Bama contingent last season Missouri alumni would like to see Mizzou tangle with wiley Coach Johnny Vaught's experience laden Rebels. The Rebs trampled Va. Tech. 34-17 in last year's Liberty Bowl after training 17-0.

Ole Miss returned 42 lettermen this season and what with the sure passing dual there at Archie Manning at the controls -- he's already been named as the Southeastern Conference's best passer -- plus the fact that the Vaughtmen lost seven via the senior route, should be the prime target of all SEC teams.

Both Ole Miss and Missouri have been picked in the top 10 of most of the pre-season polls, the Rebels being given the top notch in at one selection and ranking, along with Missouri, at from 4-5 to 8-9 in most of the others. Experts seeing Missouri losing a pair in winning the Big Eight and the Rebs possibly losing the same number-- Georgia and Alabama, Tennessee or LSU. Oklahoma, Kansas and Colorado pose Missouri top threats.

If it does mate rialize it should be a whale of a contest, what with Vaught's expected unveiling of a new series of pro set formations and Missouri also expected to "open up its game."

VAUGHT TOP WINNER

In games played over a 20 year span Vaught tops the nation as the winningest coach percentagewise, showing a 22 year record of 187 wins against 56 losses and 12 ties over that span for a .755 percentage while Bear Bryant in 24 years of coaching has 187 wins against 56 losses and 15 deadlocks. Missouri's Dan Devine, operational for 14 years has a percentage of .747 off of 105 wins, 33 losses and eight ties. Nebraska's Bob Devaney, a junior member of the top Big Four having coached only 12 seasons, is the percentage leader at .772 with 94 wins, 26 losses and five ties.

KINARD CHOSEN AGAIN

Frank (The Bruiser) Kinard, adjudged the greatest tackle that ever planted a cleat on gridiron turf, has done it again. Kinard was chosen as a pairing tackle this week in a poll of the greatest football players of the last 40 years. After gaining recognition as Mississippi's first All-American (1936-37) he joined ranks with Brooklyn of the old National League and immediately started gaining recognition. Today he holds distinctions as All National League in 1940, 41, 44, 46; picked on the Football Writer's Association All-Pro of 1938-40; the UP All-America Conference pro in; became an all time All-America selection as he gained a tackle berth on Christy Walsh's 25-year All-America Board team -- defeating pairing tackle Ed Widseth of Minnesota 21-15 for the top tackle slot. He is a charter member of the Football Hall of Fame; the All Time All-American selection; of the Helm's Foundation College Hall of Fame and Pop Warner's all time team.

HERE AND THERE . . . The 1969 Ole Miss Rebel Football Guide, edited by Rebel sports publicity director Billy Gates, is a joy to behold, with its 220 pages and multi- colored cover again showing the dedication this veteran publicity man has done at Oxford...His 1968 Guide was one of the eight District winners across the nation, in District 3 and this year's compilation should top anything else a pub director could come up with... its the Rebs first link with College Football's Centennial observance. Gates has long been noted as possibly he most statistically minded director in the nation... Bootheel squirrel hunters just won't give up... despite unsuccessful trips to their usually prolific Van Buran area woods they plan return trips next week.. seems the story is spreading that the squirrels are migrating into the area from other areas even worse off for food than Van Buren... the first of what is expected to be an Annual Casting Clinic, will be held beginning Sept. 29, at the parking lot of Wal-Mart Discount Center on East Malone... it will conclude with a Saturday-Sunday run at a Bootheel Lake... the even is co-sponsored by The Daily Standard and Wal-Mart... both kids and oldsters, desiring to learn to cast, or improve their casting, may register at Wal-Mart... several fishing experts will handle the instruction periods.

FIND QUOTE

JERUSALEM (AP) — A 1,500-year-old quote from the Bible has been discovered on the sacred Western (Wailing) Wall of the Great Jewish temple.

A leading Israeli archaeologist says it proves Jews lived in and worshipped Jerusalem in 600 A.D.

Prof. Benyamin Mazar, heading excavations around the temple walls, said the sentence was from Isaiah, Chapter 66, verse 14:

"And when ye see this, your heart shall rejoice, and your bones shall flourish like an herb."

Mazar said the inscription was written at the time Jerusalem was ruled by Roman Emperor Julian, who permitted the Jews to rebuild part of the temple destroyed by an earlier Roman conqueror.

"The inscription proves we were there at that time, and that we longed for Jerusalem even then," Mazar said.

Most archaeological finds in the wall area so far have been of Moslem nature.

SALE TIME 10 O'CLOCK - SELLING ON PREMISES

Reason For Selling- Have Moved To Mayfield, Ky.

This fine farm, located on black top Highway 703, 6 miles east of Clinton, Ky., consists of 276 acres, with 250 acres cleared land. The farm has 66 acre feed grain base, and is presently in corn and soyabeans, which will be retained by the present renters.

Here is a fine farm that has always been well cared for by Mr. Amos F. Ward, who took a pride in always supplying every thing that land needed, such as taking care of all erosion, drains and fills and sparing no expense to see that the job was well done -- and this fine farm is certainly a credit to Mr. Ward's desire to keep his land in tip top condition, and this farm will produce a top crop of anything grown in this entire area - year after year.

The farm has one house, located on school bus and mail routes and is centrally located to the industries of Wickliffe, Ky. on the north, Mayfield, Ky. on thy east, Fulton, Ky. and Union City, Tenn. on the south, and Hickman, Ky. on the west.

We feel real sure tha any Real Estate will continue to increase in value in this thriving area. Clinton, Ky., County Seat of Hickman County, is a thriving city of wide awake businesses of all kinds, a good market for all farm products, one of the live stock counties of Southwest Kentucky, fine school, new post office, 2 strong, friendly banks, automobile dealerships, farm implement dealers, modern feed mills, hospital, large super markets, lumber dealers, all types of businesses and the church of your choice. We feel sure you will enjoy owning a fine farm near Clinton, Ky., and living among the fine, friendly people of Hickman County.

Our decision to sell this farm, since we have moved away, will certainly be your opportunity to purcahse one of the real fine farms of this entire area and you and your friends are cordially invited to come and look over this farm any time before day of sale.

It could be that a few hours spent here looking over this farm might pay you big dividends in the months and yeas that lie ahead.

For any additional information please contact Mrs. Nola M. Hull, owner, phone 247-2557, Mayfield, Ky., or Keith Akin, Realtor, phone 653-4168, Clinton, Ky., or B. N. LeDuke and Son, Auctioneers and Real Estate Brokers, phone 253-6526 or 253-7646, Tiptonville, Tennessee.

Possession of the farm will be given Jan. 1, 1970. Taxes will be paid through December 31, 1969. Purchaser will be required to pay 10% of the purchase price on day of sale. There is now a fair loan on this farm which can be transferred to the purchaser of this farm.

If You Were the Judge

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Harry took his unwilling nephew to a doctor for a shot. When the gleaming needle was injected, however, it was Harry, and not his nephew, who let out a howl. In the confusion created by the squirming nephew, with Harry trying to hold him down, the doctor missed the target and jabbed the needle into Harry's hand.

While it took several days for Harry's hand to become seriously infected, it took Harry several long years to start a lawsuit against the doctor for his injuries.

"He waited too long in starting the action," the doctor's lawyer argued in court. "The time limit in which a person is required to start a malpractice action has long since expired."

"But I'm suing him for negligence and not malpractice," was Harry's answer. "For malpractice, there must be a doctor-patient relationship and I wasn't his patient. My nephew was."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you consider the lawsuit one for malpractice and thus, barred by the passage of time?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! He held that malpractice is the failure of a doctor to exercise that degree of care, skill and diligence required of him; that there need not be a doctor-patient relationship for a malpractice suit. Therefore, by not having started the action within the time prescribed for a malpractice suit, concluded the judge, Harry's action had to be dismissed. (Based upon a 1959 U.S. Court of Appeals Decision.)

Private School Group May Seek Defeat of Opposing Legislators

ST. LOUIS (AP)—State legislators who do not support state aid to private schools may be opposed actively by the Missouri Association on non-public schools, Chairman James J. Powers said Tuesday night.

Powers, a member of the school office of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of St. Louis, told representatives of 22 church parishes at a meeting on school matters said the association will strive to elect legislators sympathetic to its position.

Powers said recently initial efforts of the association will be directed toward Catholic schools. He said other sectors of the non-public school community were in sympathy and would become full partners in the organization's campaign.

Doctor of Jurisprudence Degrees Awarded

COLUMBIA — Alumni of the school of law, University of Missouri, who received the bachelor of law degree upon their graduation prior to 1965, continue to request the doctor of jurisprudence degree. The school has been awarding the J. D. degree since 1965 to graduates.

To date, more than 1,000 lawyers who graduated before 1965 have been awarded the new J. D. diplomas. Dean Willard L. Eckhardt said that in changing from the LL.B. to the J.D., the School took the position that its graduates were entitled to a degree with doctoral status to distinguish their professional degree from the undergraduate bachelor degree. Most of the nation's law schools now award the J.D.

The 97-year-old law school has about 2,000 living alumni, most of them in Missouri. Requests for the J.D. diplomas have come from graduates in 39 states.

Among lawyers to whom the new diplomas have been issued are:

Cape Girardeau - C. Gene Fee, Carol Jean Staples Fee, and Stephen N. Linbaugh.

Portageville - John Ragan Bailey.

Caruthersville - James Edward Reeves.

Sikeston - James D. Sickal and John H. Sides.

House Rejects District Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House turned down a plan Wednesday to award electoral votes to presidential candidates on the basis of congressional districts rather than states.

In 192-159 vote against the district plan boosted the chances of another proposed electoral reform which would abolish the electoral vote system in favor of direct popular elections.

Many members who support the district plan have said they would vote for direct election on final passage if the district plan failed.

Final passage requires a two-thirds majority vote.

Other plans are still to be offered before the House brings its historic debate on electoral reform to close. But the district plan was believed to have had the most support among the alternatives to direct election.

DENVER (AP) — Charles (Red) Ruffing, once a New York Yankee pitching star and now at 64 a pitching coach for the Denver Bears, says he didn't hear anyone yell when he was struck by a batted ball in practice. He came out with a bump on the head. Ruffing said had he heard the yelling and turned his head, he might have lost an eye.

New Shows Promising Additions

NEW YORK (AP) — wo new offerings, presented on ABC and NBC Wednesday night, promise to be fine additions to the television season: "Room 222" and "Then Came Bronson."

Bronson first rode his motorcycle onto the NBC screen last season in one of those movies-for-TV and it appeared to be just another action show, about a laconic young man riding a motorcycle from adventure to adventure.

But if the series' first episode is typical, it will be much more. The program had Bronson picking up a job at a summer camp for disturbed children. The story then focused on one boy who was completely withdrawn, without speech and self-destructive.

The hour was primarily devoted to showing how Bronson used the boy's affection and interest in the motorcycle to reach his troubled mind. Although the story was a delicate tapestry it was not without drama. The boy escaped from Bronson during a critical moment and his final breakthrough was moving.

Michael Parks in the title role is a silent, sober young man who reminds one of the late James Dean. The opening segment, however, was stolen by Mark Lester, who played the disturbed boy with conviction.

"Room 222" centered on Pete Dixon, a history teacher in a big city high school. The first episode, introducing the continuing characters, told how a sympathetic and involved instructor kept a bright pupil from being shipped to an inferior school.

While the physical background of the half-hour ABC series is reminiscent of the old "Mr. Novak" series, this one tackles schools and teachers from another angle. It probably must be counted a situation comedy—what else has a laugh track?—but Lloyd Haynes, a newcomer, makes a vital, attractive young man of the history teacher. The fact that he is black is noted, but not hammered in.

The program made its points, about learning, about human and race relations, but with dispatch and managed to get in some rich humor and amusing lines frequently.

"The Courtship of Eddie's Father," which preceded it on ABC, fared less well. Central characters in this were a young widower, played by Bill Bixby, and the 6-year-old son who even in the first show seemed to be the more mature, less flappalle.

The show's gimmick apparently will be the boy's determination to find a wife for his father. In the first episode he invited home a candidate, but it all moved rather slowly and predictably. Miyoshi Umeki played the family housekeeper and some of the jokes were based on language problems.

The series aims to pluck the heartstrings while evoking laughter, but falls a bit flat.

Magnificent—in sound and sight—Astro-Sonic Radio-Phonographs surpass all previous in the re-creation of sound to bring you the full beauty of music with unequaled tonal dimension and fidelity—from your favorite recordings, exciting Stereo FM, noise-free and drift-free FM, plus selective, long-range AM radio. Superb performance is maintained with lasting reliability because advanced solid-state circuitry replaces tubes—eliminates component-damaging heat! And—the new Magnavox Air-Suspension Speaker System (available in many models) provides far greater "presence" and realism throughout the entire audible range to bring truly outstanding listening enjoyment. The bass woofer in the New Magnavox Air-Suspension System comes close to being the ideal speaker—one that floats on air . . . connected to absolutely nothing! It "floats" freely back and forth—isolated from its environment. Both a bass woofer and a 1,000 cycle exponential treble horn are housed in a separate air-tight enclosure at each end of the cabinet—and project thrilling sound from both cabinet sides and front. These sound-absorbing, fiberglas-lined chambers prevent sound wave distortion and feedback of sound within the enclosure. You receive lower and smoother bass response, increased treble brilliance, and improved balance between bass and treble music. Choose from many beautiful Astro-Sonic furniture styles—priced from only— $298.50
